OBREGON FLEES CAPITAL

SONORA FIGHTING STARTS

Carranza Troops from Sinaloa Open Attack on the Self-Styled "Republic."

AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, Mexico, April 14.—An unsuccessful attempt upon the life of President Carranza was made in Mexico City last Friday afternoon, according to private advices received by Robert S. Carrillo, until a few days ago chief of the Carranza Secret Service for this district, and who has now associated himself with the new "Republic of Sonora."

According to the message, Captain Ernesto Valdez, a member of General D. G. Hill's staff, has been taken into custody as the alleged assassin.

The message further states that the incident will explain the late arrest of General Hill by order of President Carranza on the charge of being too active in the Mexican Presidential elections.

MEXICO CITY, April 14.—Lieut.-Col. Alvaro Obregon, candidate for the Presidency of the Republic, and General Benjamin Hill, his campaign manager, fled from the Capital yesterday noon in a powerful automobile, presumably in the direction of Iguala, State of Guerrero.

The movements of the followers of Obregon are not hampered by the authorities, and Obregon himself was allowed to leave the Capital unhindered, despite the fact that it was known to the authorities that he was preparing to flee.

BATTLE ON SONORA BORDER.

Federal Troops Open Attack—Cavalry Leaves Juarez for Rebel State.

NOGALES, Ariz., April 14.—Federal troops under General Carrasco are in battle with a part of the army of General Flores at El Fuerte, on the border between Sinaloa and Sonora, according to a dispatch received in Nogales, Sonora, this afternoon.

General Angel Flores came from Sinaloa to join forces with General P. Elias Calles, commander in chief of the Sonora forces, and fifteen other high Mexican commanders have aligned themselves with the movement. Generals Rios and Plank, formerly with the Federal Government, have announced their intention of joining the Calles forces.

EL PASO, Texas, April 14.—Eight hundred Mexican Federal troops, under Colonel Fox, left Juarez today over the Mexican Northwestern Railroad for Casas Grandes, Chihuahua. The Carranza troops arrived in Juarez on Tuesday from Chihuahua City. More Federal troops are en route to Juarez, according to information received there today.

It was stated that the troops, composed of cavalry, which left today for Casas Grandes, will march overland from Casas Grandes into Sonora and on to Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas, Ariz.

Information from the Mexican Consulate here identifies General Angel Florez, who is fighting against Carranza troops at El Fuerte, as a former Governor of the State of Sinaloa. El Fuerte, information from the Consulate said, is in Sinaloa, between San Blas and Culican.

General Florez, it was added, was in the State of Sonora a few days ago, and presumably is leading Sonora troops in the engagement with General Juan Carrasco, Federal military commander in Sinaloa, at El Fuerte.

AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, April 14 (Associated Press).—Troops of the new "Republic of Sonora" have had their first battle with Carranza soldiers on the Sonora-Sinaloa boundary, according to a report received here late today, apparently verifying an earlier report from Nogales. Military authorities said the battle meant war between the Carranza Government and the seceding State.

Sonora army officers, acting on orders from General P. Elias Calles, Commander in Chief, are fortifying the Sinaloa-Sonora frontier and mountain passes leading from Chihuahua. Carranza troops are en route from Casas Grandes, Chihuahua, toward Agua Prieta, it was said.

Calles is said to have dispatched a large force to Blanco Pass, through which the Carranza soldiers must come to reach Agua Prieta. The Carranza

Condemns French Woman to Die For Denouncing Soldier to Foe

MARSEILLES, April 14.—Louise Boulinie, who in 1914 denounced to the Germans a French soldier, her neighbor, Michel Amédée, was condemned to death today by a court-martial.

Amédée was executed half an hour before an order for his pardon reached the German officer to whose charge he had been remanded.

RYAN GETS STUTZ OFF EXCHANGE LIST

Also Withdraws Application to Record 20,000 Shares, Stock Dividend.

Outside Market Permissible—Attorney Buys 155 Shares at $700 at Auction.

Another new turn in developments in the corner of Stutz Motor Car Company stock on the New York Stock Exchange came yesterday when the issue was stricken from listing on the Exchange. This action was taken by the Board of Governors of the Exchange in the late afternoon, the decision coming as a sequel to a request from the Stutz Motor Car Company asking that the shares be removed from the list at once. It was further stated that the application to list 20,000 additional new shares was withdrawn. This latter constitutes the initial stock dividend of 20 per cent., which was declared by the Stutz Directors just prior to the decision by the United States Supreme Court holding that stock dividends were not taxable as income.

When trading in Stutz was suspended on March 31 the Stock Exchange asserted that a corner existed, and an indefinite moratorium was declared, in which there could be no calls for delivery of shares. Stock Exchange houses were prohibited from trading in Stutz by the ruling, and since then there has been no market in the shares except that Allan A. Ryan has, from time to time, offered to buy Stutz stock. Some shares changed hands at an auction at a record price of $701 a share. The action of the Exchange in striking Stutz from the list, it is asserted, will permit the establishment of an outside market in the shares, and Stock Exchange houses will be permitted to trade in the stock in such a market if one is made. Stutz, however, will not come under the jurisdiction of the Curb Market Association.

Curb Members Can Trade.

An officer of the Curb Association said yesterday that there was nothing to prevent members from dealing in Stutz, but that no application had been made to the association for a formal listing of Stutz. Should one be made it would go through the regular channels. The market on the Curb, however, is not under complete jurisdiction of the Curb Association and listing is not a necessary adjunct to trading. It was the opinion of some yesterday that there would be a market in Stutz on Broad Street today, and there was a high degree of interest as to how the course of trading would go should there be an endeavor on the part of shorts to cover commitments. Since the big majority of the Stutz stock is under the control of Allan A. Ryan, any impetus to a market in the shares would have to come from him, it is believed.

The striking of Stutz from the Stock Exchange list does not end the moratorium that was declared. Contracts that were entered into prior to and on March 31, the last day on which trading was permitted on the Stock Exchange, are, it is asserted, in the same position as before yesterday's action. In other words, the stock cannot be called and cannot be bought in at the expense of the shorts.

Mr. Ryan, who is Chairman of the Board of the Stutz Motor Car Company, in asking the Exchange to remove Stutz from the list of Stock Exchange securities had this to say:

"On or about March 31, last, without prior notice to our company, you sought fit to suspend trading in our shares on your floor. The effect of this was to deny our stockholders the right to trade on your floor, and yet to restrict them from trading in any other market, thereby effectually depriving our entire stock issue of any market and inflicting an incalculable injury upon our company and its shareholders.

Application Held in Abeyance.

"On April 5 last we applied to you for the listing of 20,000 additional shares which are payable on April 15, to stockholders of record of April 5, as a stock dividend. Although our company has complied with your rules and regulations, we have not yet heard that you have taken any action on this applica-

HUNGER STRIKERS IN DUBLIN PRISON ARE SUDDENLY FREED

NEW GOVERNMENT POLICY

General Macready, New Commander, Said to Have Mission of Conciliation.

LABOR STRIKE CALLED OFF

Trouble Had Spread Widely in Ireland Before the Authorities Acted.

DUBLIN, April 14 (Associated Press).—Eighty-nine hunger striking prisoners have been released, apparently unconditionally. Moreover the Prisons Board has received an order that henceforth under the Defense of the Realm act prisoners are to receive ameliorative treatment from the date of their arrest until their trial for a specific offense.

As a result of the release of the hunger strikers the general strike called by the trade unions has been declared off, to the great relief of the citizens.

Following negotiations by the Lord Mayor it had been announced officially at Dublin Castle late in the afternoon, when only four men had been removed, that those prisoners requiring medical treatment outside the prison would be released on parole for periods to be specified in the case of each individual by the prison doctor. All the prisoners refused the terms on the ground that it was a reapplication of the "cat and mouse" policy. The Lord Mayor thereupon went to the Vice Regal Lodge and appealed to Lord French personally. On his return he announced that the hunger strikers would be set free without condition. Lord French had been in conference with General Sir Nevil Macready, the new commander of the forces in Ireland, who arrived in Dublin today.

Labor Men Paraded Streets.

During the morning a procession of labor men had marched through the streets carrying banners condemning the authorities for their attitude, but only a small gathering assembled outside the prison in consequence of the action of Archbishop Walsh, who had urged through the newspapers that the people stay away and not expose themselves "to serious and profitless danger."

In the afternoon, however, the Lord Mayor, addressing a crowd, announced that the Viceroy had informed him that the hunger strikers were to be removed to the Mater Misericordia Hospital, and the people began to troop toward the prison and great crowds watched the coming and going of the ambulances.

The absence of military from the streets today was conspicuous. There were on tanks or armored cars posted at the jail, and the barbed wire barricades had been removed. The Irish volunteers assumed charge of maintaining order outside the prison, and were implicitly obeyed.

The released prisoners in the Mater Misericordia Hospital say that the prison staffs and ordinary officers at Mountjoy were kind in their treatment of

American Red Cross Workers Escape Reds, Safe at Feodosia

PARIS, April 14.—The safe arrival at Feodosia in the Crimea of the South Russian Mission of the American Red Cross was reported at headquarters here today. The mission, for whose safety considerable fear was entertained, evacuated Novorossisk before the arrival of the Red armies. The personnel and supplies were transferred to Feodosia.

The members of the South Russian Mission are Major George S. Ryden of Kansas City, Major Henry Adams of Boston, Captain J. R. Clewell of Seattle, Captain G. P. Floyd of Boston, Captain T. W. Nye of San Francisco, Lieutenant L. M. Foster of Chicago, Lieutenant E. A. Johnson of Springfield, Mass., Lieutenant S. A. Veaber of Albany, and Captain Harry L. Grant of Providence, R.I.

17,000 ELEVATOR MEN MAY STRIKE TODAY

Operators at Hudson Terminal Building Leave When Union Man Is Discharged.

The city faces a strike of elevator starters and operators involving 17,000 workers. Refusal of the owners of apartment houses, office buildings and department stores to negotiate with the union of these employes on a wage contract has brought about a situation which officials at the union headquarters, 136 Third Avenue, yesterday predicted would result in the calling of a general strike at a meeting of the union elevator employes to be held at Arlington Hall, 19 St. Marks Place, tonight. The operators ask an increase of from $5 to $10 a month, an eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime.

The demands were sent to building owners on April 5 with a request that a reply be made by today. Two or three individual owners conferred with the union officials and two members as a committee representing 131 real estate owners met with a union committee a few days ago and discussed the situation. Yesterday the Owners' Committee reported to Thomas J. McGill, President of the union, that while they favored some concessions to the operators, their organization refused to consider the demands. The two committeemen asked Mr. McGill to keep the men from striking until Saturday, when they would confer further, but Mr. McGill declared last night that he did not believe it possible to avert a strike.

The proposed weekly wage scale and the present wages are:

| OFFICE BUILDINGS. | Asked. | Now. |
| Starter | $88.00 | $28.85 |
| Assistant starter | 25.00 | 25.30 |
| Halimen operators | 35.60 | 25.30 |
| Elevator operators | 33.60 | 25.30 |
| LOFT BUILDINGS, APARTMENT HOUSES AND DEPARTMENT STORES. | | |
| Starter | $33.00 | $25.00 |
| Operators | 28.00 | 22.25 |

Mr. McGill said that when the demands were drawn up the union mem-

Americans Besieged in Two Turkish Towns; Their Flag Defied; French Move to Rescue

Copyright, 1920, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

BEIRUT, April 11 (Via London, April 14).—Two large French Army columns, accompanied by tanks, planes and all the equipment of modern warfare, are marching through Cilicia to the relief of American citizens in Aintab and Urfa.

The situation of the Americans is desperate. The latest information received from them is dated April 8. It was sent by John H. Boyd, Director at Aintab for the American Committee for Relief in the Near East. It was brought through country dominated by Turkish irregulars attached to Mustapha Kemal's Nationalist Army by a Moslem courier who arrived in Aleppo today.

The message reports Aintab Americans are fighting the Turks with their backs to the wall and the need of relief is imperative and immediate. The Turks are attacking the American buildings, where a large number of Armenians have joined the Americans. The American flag flies over the American compounds and the Americans repeatedly have called to the attention of the Turks that America is a neutral in Turkey, but all to no avail.

Dr. Lorina Sheppard, an American missionary, was held as a hostage at first after the withdrawal of March 31 of a French relief column of 3,000, which remained in Aintab for three days. After this withdrawal the attitude of the Turks grew hostile. This hostility became open and general on the third and fourth days.

At a meeting the Turks announced that if the Armenians would surrender their arms and would fly the Turkish flag they would be safe. The Armenians refused because they did not trust the Turks. The Turks then seized several hostages, including Dr. Sheppard. She was released, however, when the Armenians seized several Turks.

When the Armenians took the Turks a mob collected in the Christian quarter. This was dispersed by Armenians with rifle fire, which caused several casualties among the Turks. This shooting precipitated the general fighting. The Armenians were well armed and confident at first, but they weakened as the Kemal Nationalists brought up reinforcements.

The small French garrison on the outskirts of the city took no part in the fighting but gave the Armenians rifles and ammunition.

There are twelve native-born and many naturalized Americans in Aintab. The French troops on the way to Aintab total 3,000.

Dr. R. A. Lampert, Director at Aleppo for the American Committee for Relief in the Near East, who received the message from Director Boyd, has wired United States Admiral Bristol at Constantinople for aid. Paul Knabenshue, American Consul General at Beirut, who called on the French General Gouraud for aid, obtained an immediate response in an order dispatching the four French battalions from Killis.

The French column moving toward Urfa has been fighting continuously since leaving its base.

The Americans in Urfa are reported short of food and the Armenians are huddled in their homes, while the Turks, Kurds and Arabs, who have been besieging the city for months, evidently intend to starve out the French Garrison near there.

STRIKE TRACED TO I. W. W

Government Warns the Workers, Hoping That They Will Return

MASS STRIKE WAS PLANNED

Will Be Forced if Need Appears —Senate Delays Action on Labor Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The direct charge that the outlaw railroad strike is engineered by the I. W. W. as a part of the world-wide Communist movement was made this afternoon by Attorney General Palmer. The Attorney General disclosed this to the Cabinet this morning, at the first meeting which President Wilson has attended since last September.

The Government's policy, it develops, will be to reveal this information to hundreds of patriotic American workers among the strikers in the hope that they will realize that they have been duped and will return to work. If this step does not prove effective, strong repressive measures will be taken, Mr. Palmer promised.

William Z. Foster, who was behind the steel strike, and who advises the policy of "boring from within" in the American Federation of Labor, was said by the Attorney General to be the head and front of the present strike. With Foster are linked others of the revolutionary group.

It is definitely understood that the Department of Justice believes it has good grounds for proceeding against Foster and his fellows under the Lever law. Other agitators who are aliens can be dealt with under the Criminal Alien act.

In connection with this it is learned that Acting Secretary of Labor Post's recent cancellations of deportation warrants were thoroughly discussed at the Cabinet meeting. Secretary of Labor Wilson was present at the meeting and it is believed that Post's recent rulings will be overturned.

Wilson Calls Labor Board.

It was decided at the meeting to summon the members of the newly chosen Railroad Labor Board to meet as soon as the Senate confirms their nominations, and the President afterward telegraphed to each of the members to come to Washington.

After the Cabinet meeting all the members who attended refused to discuss what had transpired. A report spread that the Government intended to pour oil on the troubled waters by assuring the strikers that they would receive a temporary wage advance until the new Labor Board could pass upon their demands. This was denied later, officials saying that the Labor Board would act immediately upon the demanded increases as soon as it was confirmed by the Senate.

Attorney General Palmer went at once to his office, and was closeted all the afternoon, until he received the newspapermen at 5:30 P. M. His opening declaration indicated the course which the Administration will pursue in the present crisis.

Palmer Warns the Strikers.

"I feel it highly important," said Mr. Palmer, "not only that the country but the men on strike should understand what is behind this strike, what its purpose is, and what is its ultimate goal. It is particularly important that the men who have been in the railroad service and who are good, patriotic Americans should understand what they have been unwittingly led into by certain powers that are behind the strike.

"The strike is the largest and latest manifestation of the working out of the program of the International Communist Party, whose purpose is to capture the political and economic power, to overthrow the Government and to establish a dictatorship on the part of what they call the proletariat, and transport to this country the exact chaotic condition that exists in Russia."

Attorney General Palmer would not reveal the action he will pursue in case the strike does not wane quickly as a result of his statement that Foster and other radicals are behind it.

"The first thing," he said, "is to tell the people of the country about this. The next step will be to await the reception which the truth gets from the men who have been railroad employes and loyal Americans, but who have been led into this affair. Other things will be done later, but this is all for the present."

In a lengthy and frank talk with newspaper men late in the afternoon Mr. Palmer said:

"What this strike amounts to is that under I. W. W. leadership, acting as

BREAK IN STRIKE ON 3 CHICAGO LINES

EXPECT GENERAL COLLAPSE

Service Improves at Many Points, but Crisis Is Reported in Michigan and Ohio.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The first important break in the ranks of insurgent railroad employes in the Chicago Terminal district came today when railroad officers announced that groups of strikers on the Pennsylvania, the Soo Line and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific had decided to return to work.

Edward Corrigan, Vice President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said enginemen on a number of roads had voted to go back tomorrow or Friday.

Officers said groups of strikers at St. Louis, Mo.; El Reno, Okla.; Fort Worth, Texas, and Chickasha, Okla., also had returned, and at Spokane, Wash., ninety switchmen voted to go back to work.

While insurgent leaders continued to claim that the strike was growing, the General Managers' Association announced that more freight was moved in Chicago today than on any day since the strike started. The New York Central announced that its freight movement was 80 per cent. of normal.

At the stock yards it was stated that although livestock receipts were far from normal they were steadily improving. Three hundred and sixteen cars were brought in today, the largest movement since the strike was called.

The Chicago Yardmen's Association today denied reports that I. W. W. leaders were behind the switchmen's strike and declared that John Grunau, head of the outlaw organization, had not been deposed.

"Our conduct will speak for itself," a statement said. "All meetings have been open and have been attended by Department of Justice men."

Reports from Central and Far Western States indicated a continued improvement in the strike situation. Railroad workers returned at several points and embargoes were lifted by railroads.

Chicago railroad executives issued a statement saying:

"The strike situation in Chicago showed a very material improvement today as indicated by the fact that the roads involved operated 408 locomotives, as compared with 765 normally.

"We look for further improvement tomorrow, which is predicated on the fact that switchmen on the Rock Island and Soo lines voted today to return to the service. Firemen on the Pennsylvania also returned to work today, as well as small groups of switchmen and firemen on other roads affected."

One hundred and fifty Rock Island employes in Chicago have returned to work, restoring normal conditions, the company announced.

The industrial situation in Ohio and Michigan, however, reached a crisis today as a result of the stoppage of fuel supplies, and in the Far West, where a dozen passenger trains were reported stalled in Southern California, the situation became increasingly serious.

Both insurgent leaders and Railroad brotherhood officials said the fight had evolved into a "lingering affair," but the brotherhood men declared the insurgents gradually were losing strength.

Government agents were taking a close check on the strike situation in various rail centres and at New Orleans six insurgent leaders arrested last night in a raid on a strikers' meeting were held on Federal warrants charging interference with the mails.

TEAMSTERS START FOODSTUFF STRIKE

PREDICT 48-HOUR FIGHT

Declare the Merchants Will Not See $1,000,000 Shipments on Tracks Spoiled.

Announcement of the unanimous decision last night of drivers, chauffeurs, porters and stablemen, employed by concerns that handle butter, eggs, cheese and frozen poultry, to strike at 3 o'clock this morning added another complication to New York's strike situation and will further tie up the city's food supply. The vote was taken by Local 202, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, at its hall at Chambers and West Streets, and was approved on Tuesday night by the Teamsters' District Council, at a meeting at 216 West Forty-eighth Street.

Michael J. Cashal, International Vice President, said last night at his home in West New York, N. J., that the strike involved about 300 men, and was the result of the refusal of the dealers to grant an increase in wages, demands for which were presented on April 1. He said that the drivers, chauffeurs, porters and stablemen of this union engaged in the handling of vegetables and fruits would not strike, as they had not yet presented demands to the dealers.

Mr. Cashal said the action of the men last night meant that no butter, eggs, cheese and poultry would be moved in New York City by any union teamsters, except live poultry, which is handled by an entirely different local.

The demands made by the men involve an increase in wages only, there being no dissatisfaction with the present eight-hour schedule under which they are working. The men are asking for an increase from $29 to $33 a week for porters, and the others are asking an increase from $32 to $38 a week.

Predicts Quick Victory.

Edward Kerns presided at the meeting. A lieutenant speaking for him said the men met the strongest opposition to their demands from food dealers of the Washington Market, who believed that the men wouldn't dare to strike at this time. "We intend to show them how much we dare to do," he said. "The strike will not last more than forty-eight hours, because our demands will have been met by that time. The produce merchants cannot afford to lose $1,000,000 worth of food now in freight cars in New York freight yards."

It was declared by union men at the meeting that no foodstuffs would be moved today by any union member, whether he belonged to Local 202 or other locals, but Mr. Cashal declared that it would be confined to the butter, eggs, cheese and frozen poultry handlers.

A complete paralysis of the produce traffic in this city is what union leaders at the meeting place last night claimed. It is believed that Washington and Gansevoort Markets in Manhattan, and Wallabout Market in Brooklyn will be the three places most affected by the strike, as they are centres of distribution of butter, eggs, cheese and frozen poultry.

The action of the teamsters followed, though not coming as a consequence of, the announcement during the day that the coastwise steamship companies, which have been tied up since March 13, when the coastwise longshoremen struck for more pay, had decided to resume operations on Friday. No settlement has been effected with the

BUTTER AND EGGS TIED UP

Cheese and Poultry Also Affected by Strike of Teamsters

RAILROAD WORKERS WEAKEN

STUDENTS FIRING TRAINS

Thousands Volunteer to Help Railroads—Dr. Copeland's Plea for Truce Ignored.

The "outlaw" strike began to crumble yesterday as it affected passenger service, but a new menace to the city's food supply arose when teamsters of Local 202 voted to quit work at 3 o'clock this morning.

The teamsters predicted that a butter and egg famine would begin at once. The teamsters who voted to strike are only those who handle butter, eggs, cheese and frozen poultry. These products are moved from freight depots and warehouses to wholesale and retail stores by members of Local 202. They will be eliminated from the retail market entirely unless the situation is met by the use of strikebreakers.

While railroad men engaged in passenger service drifted back to work in large numbers, the freight tie-up grew increasingly serious. Many factories in Brooklyn, Manhattan, New York State, New Jersey and New England were compelled to close for lack of raw materials.

The coastwise shipping companies, which have kept their ships tied up for more than a month because of the longshoremen's strike, agreed yesterday to resume their service on Friday, provided local merchants agreed to make an effort to move freight with strikebreakers. This was promised by the merchants. The coastwise steamers will specialize in bringing vegetables and other foodstuffs to this city.

Health Commissioner Copeland addressed strikers in Jersey City yesterday, begging them to make a truce with the railroads under which food and milk trains could run freely. The meeting voted to refer the matter to a committee, but individuals stated afterward that Dr. Copeland's proposals had been laughed at after he left the meeting.

Volunteers Fire Trains.

Hundreds of volunteers—American Legion men, college students, business men and professional men—offered their services to the railroads yesterday, fired a number of "indignation specials" and worked in the railroad yards in Jersey City. Reversing for the emergency their slogan to the effect that the man who "trains the mind" is more important than the man who "minds the trains," university men and instructors flocked to the railroad yards from Columbia, Princeton, Stevens, Rutgers and other schools. One crew was pulled off a train at Babylon, L. I., another was attacked in Hoboken and others were threatened on Long Island and in New Jersey, but the strikers generally contented themselves with jeering and hooting at their successors.

Railroad officials asserted that the strike was breaking, while union leaders asserted that they were stronger than ever. The railroad officials pointed to the fact that the strikers, for the first day since the beginning of the trouble, had failed to make any gains, and had, on the contrary, lost so many strikers by desertion that the Pennsylvania, Erie and Jersey Central were able to improve their passenger service greatly.

Edward McHugh, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the striking railroad workers, said:

"We are stronger than ever. We are gaining power every moment. You can print it in your newspapers that the men will not go back to work until they receive a substantial increase in wages. They are not going to permit politicians in their own ranks to lead them."

When asked what he thought about the college student strikebreakers, he said:

"It is a good thing for them to do a real day's work, and perhaps their experience of the hazards of the job will have some effect later in lessening economic exploitation."

Mantell Satisfied with Situation.

J. J. Mantell, spokesman for the Railroad General Managers' Association, said after the managers' conference yesterday:

"The railroad managers have the situation well in hand, and it is improving. The 'outlaws' were rushed into a delirium. They have reached a stage where they are sick in the head, and they are rapidly coming to a stage where they will be sick at heart."

President A. H. Smith of the New York Central said at a luncheon at the Hotel Astor:

"You, on the outside, see the trouble and disturbance and interruption caused by the men who walked out. We, on the inside, however, see the reverse.

We see the loyalty and steadfastness of the great majority of railroad employes. It is true that a few hotheads have gone out, but, let me tell you, the situation is not as bad as it may seem to you today."

Aggressive action against the strikers was taken by the Hudson and Manhattan Company, the Erie and other roads. The Hudson and Manhattan Company threatened to discharge permanently all employes who failed to report at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and fill their places with strikebreakers. This threat was reported to have brought some strikers back to work, but not enough to start the tubes today.

The Erie, in paying off men at various points on the system, called on them to sign a statement whether they would remain loyal to the company or not, with the understanding that those who refused to work would be stricken off the payroll. Other roads made an increasing use of volunteers for temporary service and of strikebreakers.

The danger that the strike would spread to the trolleys appeared to be at an end. Officials of the Interborough Brotherhood made public an emphatic statement that their organization would not take advantage of the situation to inflict hardship on the public. The trolley employes of the Richmond Light and Railroad Company, the only traction lines running on Staten Island, voted to give the company more time to consider their demands. Strike talk in Brooklyn and Jersey City was reported as diminishing.

The strikers, in a formal statement on behalf of their new organization, the United Railway Workers of America, yesterday disavowed revolutionary or radical purposes and asserted that their one purpose in striking was to get more money to meet the cost of living.

No further efforts were made by the strikers or the railroads yesterday to end the strike by agreement.

HOPES OF STRIKERS FOR VICTORY WANING

Brotherhood Speaker Is Cheered When He Urges Men to Go Back to Work.

Grand View Hall in Jersey City was the scene of much activity all of yesterday, but it was plain from conversations overheard among strikers who congregated on the sidewalks outside that the men were less hopeful of victory than on the five preceding days of the strike. In fact the men evidenced considerable irritation over the failure of the members of the Executive Committee of the newly formed United Railroad Workers of America, the organization formed by the strikers when they decided to ignore the four international railroad brotherhoods with which they were affiliated, to make any headway toward a conference with the representatives of the railroads.

The anxiety of the strike leaders to keep the men from discussing the strike with outsiders was evidenced all during the meeting in Grand View Hall, which began at 10 o'clock in the morning and ended soon after 6 o'clock in the evening. Sentinels were posted behind the wooden blinds of the hall on the second floor of the building to watch the strikers gathered in groups outside, and very frequently a committee of the strike leaders would summon men into the hall whom the sentinels reported as talking to supposed strangers.

It was soon after 3 o'clock that word spread among the groups of strikers on the outside that the motormen of the Hudson tubes had decided by an overwhelming vote to operate trains in the tubes regardless of whether they were manned by strikers or substitutes. The motormen in the tubes were not on strike, but when the train crews walked out several days ago they served notice on the officials of the company that they would not operate trains manned by strikebreakers.

That report, when received at the meeting in Grand View Hall, had a noticeable depression on the strikers.

Later in the afternoon a representative of the international office of the four brotherhoods addressed the men and urged them to return to work until the Labor Board named by President Wilson Tuesday could take up their grievances. It is understood that the labor leader said to the men for an hour, during which time he told them that their strike was illegal in the eyes of the brotherhoods, that they had lost public sympathy by tying up the supply of foodstuffs and causing inconvenience to the travelling public and that if they did not immediately call the strike off and return to work they most likely would lose their position through the employment of others to take their places. While some of his passages were received with hisses he was frequently applauded by the majority of those present, the first time that any labor man to address the men had been applauded when he advised the men to return to work.

Perhaps the one thing that had the most dampening effect on the meeting was the reading of a letter from C. E. Musser, General Chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who warned the men that it was the purpose of the four brotherhoods to aid the railroads to give the public service and advised the strikers that, their walkout being unauthorized, they would better return to work.

In the forenoon a committee of ten members of the International Union of Longshoremen in Jersey City, which went out on strike in sympathy with the boatmen several weeks ago, called on Mayor Frank Hague in the City Hall in Jersey City and asked him to intercede in their behalf toward a settlement of their strike. Mayor Hague told the men he would endeavor to arrange for a board of arbitration with a view to settling their strike.

BOATS MOVE CROWDS WITHOUT CONFUSION

Record Number of Commuters Get Preference on Ferries Over Vehicles.

The rise of yesterday's rush hour crowds on the ferries was a record for the strike, but they were carried with little confusion, due to improved schedules.

The Pennsylvania had eight boats in service, and unprecedented traffic was reported at Cortlandt and Desbrosses Street docks, where boats left ten minutes apart. Vehicles were forced to wait at times and boats were reserved for pedestrians. Other lines operated on schedules varying from ten minutes to half an hour.

Station cafés and restaurants near the ferry houses were crowded before business hours with commuters who had left their homes without breakfast to catch the volunteer-manned suburban trains which left at unheard of hours. Many persons carried hand luggage, hoperul of finding hotel accommodations or hospitable friends until the strike is over.

The municipal ferries operated on a twenty-minute headway until 8 A. M., when more boats were pressed into service, reducing the schedule to twelve minutes. A large number of employes of Staten Island shipyards living in New York returned to their homes when they read notices posted at South Ferry that steam train service on the island had been suspended. Several concerns had provided trucks to take their men from St. George to the shipyards, in some cases several miles away.

Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, made provision yesterday for temporary automobile parking space at the St. George end of the Staten Island division of the municipal ferries. Speaking of conditions on Staten Island, Mr. Whalen said:

"The paralysis of the steam railroads on Staten Island brought to St. George a great number of motor vehicles from the far end of the island, which would have been entirely cut off from the rest of the city had it not been for the emergency service that I provided by opening a bus line from Tottenville to New Dorp, where connection with the existing line from New Dorp to the ferry at St. George. I found that many of these vehicles came loaded with commuters, all of whom wished to park their cars at the ferry until they returned."

Mines Near Cumberland to Close.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 14.—It was said at the railroad offices here today that the soft coal mines of the George's Creek and contiguous regions, which have been more active than at any time since the war, would be compelled to close down tomorrow, due to exhaustion of the car supply, following the yardmen's strike.

TRAIN SCHEDULES SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Lehigh Valley Brotherhoods Vote to Remain Loyal—New York Central Brings Provisions.

Railroad officials reported last night a marked improvement yesterday in passenger transportation conditions, due in great part to the services of volunteer crews on suburban trains. On several of the roads, moreover, many strikers returned, and, with the aid of clerks and other "inside" men, whose training for firemen's, switchmen's and other places has proceeded rapidly, normal service is fast being restored without calling upon outsiders.

Particular improvement was made yesterday in the operation of passenger schedules on the Pennsylvania, Long Island,, Erie, Lackawanna and Central Railroad of New Jersey. The Pennsylvania, which for several days was badly crippled, announced last night that the resumption of normal service was expected today.

"The outlaws were rushed off their feet and thrown into delirium and have reached the stage where they are sick in the head and are rapidly reaching the stage where they are sick at heart," said J. J. Mantell, spokesman for the Managers' Association, sizing up the situation last night.

The Pennsylvania Railroad ran fifty-three trains out of its station here yesterday, out of a normal service of eighty-three trains of the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, New Haven, Lehigh Valley, Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western, Southern Railroad, Seaboard Air Line and Atlantic Coast Line.

L. I. Shop Workers Return.

The Long Island Railroad ran about 50 per cent. of its steam trains yesterday. Its electric service was 100 per cent. About 200 of the striking firemen, switchmen and workmen in the shops at Mount Morris Park returned to work. There are now only seventy-five workers in the passenger service on strike. They include firemen, brakemen and switchmen.

Service on the Central Railroad of New Jersey was 60 per cent. normal yesterday. Ninety per cent. of the passenger trainmen were working, officials said. Forty strikers returned to work yesterday, including trainmen, brakemen and switchmen. Further improvement was promised for today.

Many offers of volunteer crews have been received by the Jersey Central, it was said yesterday afternoon, but so far no volunteers have been used. Seventy-three suburban trains were sent out, more than 50 per cent. of normal. All of these trains were manned by office employes of the railroad. The only branch of the railroad which was not operated yesterday was the Newark branch, which, because of other available transportation, was considered the least embarrassed by the tieup.

The Erie service was improved by the aid of volunteer crews. Erie officials announced last night that it expected to bring in 20,000 commuters today.

No Delays on Lehigh.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad's through passenger service, operating from the Pennsylvania terminal in New York, is being maintained without interference or delay, officials of the road said yesterday.

Word reached the New York office of the road yesterday, it was said, that at meetings Tuesday night at Wilkes-Barre, Hazleton and Sayre members of the four brotherhoods had voted not to strike and to remain loyal to the company. President E. E. Loomis received a telegram yesterday advising him that the student body of Lehigh University had offered its services, including members of the graduating classes in all branches of engineering work, for any emergency work for which they might be used.

The New York Central made a record freight delivery yesterday. Fifty-four cars of newsprint paper, fifteen cars of live stock and eighty-five cars of provisions and eggs were placed yesterday afternoon on the west side tracks at places most available for their distribution. Merchandize in about fifty cars was delivered at the Barclay Street station for distribution in lower New York. On the West Shore tracks twenty more cars were aligned for distribution at Newark.

The New York Central placed eight additional tugs in operation. It brought in its own commuters and 15,000 of the Erie and Susquehanna. Twelve cars of newsprint were floated to Pier 35, East River.

For the past twenty-four hours the passenger service in the Grand Central Terminal has exceeded all expectations. F. A. Daggett of the Business Manager's office said last night that there had been an average of 490 train movements per day in the terminal during the strike. Of the outgoing trains yesterday, eight were only a few minutes late. Of these six were New Haven trains. All incoming trains were on time.

The West Shore Railroad is continuing normal passenger service. The Baltimore & Ohio service from the Pennsylvania Station is irregular, but the Staten Island service is tied up.

STRIKE BACKBONE SNAPS IN PITTSBURGH DISTRICT

Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio Passenger Service Nearly Normal, East and West.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, April 14.—The crisis in the railroad strike situation in the Pittsburgh district, so far as passenger service is concerned, was passed today, and developments indicate that the walkout will terminate within a short time. Officials of railroads and railroad brotherhoods were a unite today in asserting their belief that the failure to stop passenger traffic would probably start a back-to-work movement before the day was over.

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie passenger traffic, stopped Monday, was partly resumed today. The men have voted to return to work, and normal passenger service tomorrow is predicted. Traffic on the Pennsylvania lines, east and west, and on the Baltimore & Ohio apparently was near normal today.

There was no strike on the Panhandle, as threatened.

The freight tieup is still in force and the army of idle men, due to mine and factory suspensions, was largely increased today. It is said that those idle in the district now number 250,000.

Railroad Brotherhood officials went into session today to fix on a date within which the "outlaw" strikers may return to work and retain their seniority and beyond which they will be taken back, if at all, as new men.

On the general situation optimism prevailed in brotherhood quarters today. The break in the ranks of the strikers has started, the leaders believe, and they predicted the end of the strike and a return to normal conditions only a question of days.

In a statement issued today, G. H. Hines, Vice President of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, says the illegal strike was called by John Grunau, President of the "outlaw" organization, who was employed as a yard foreman, doing switchman's work, when he was removed from his run for a technical reason. He gave the superintendent of his section on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad five hours' notice to reinstate him or a strike would be called, says Hines.

"In taking the action that called out the men, Gruneau but carried out a threat that he had made to the Vice President of the brotherhood in charge at Chicago some months ago, and has misled the men not only in the Chicago yards, but in other yards as well," adds the statement.

The Baltimore & Ohio passenger trains were largely manned by volunteers.

RAIL STRIKE SHUTS MANY STEEL PLANTS

Nearly Half of the Industry at Standstill as Freight Movements Cease.

Nearly half the steel industry of the country has been brought to a standstill by the railroad strikes, according to surveys made in the last few days. If the tieup lasts until the end of the week it is estimated that there will be a practical shutdown of the mills. The Chicago district was hardest hit by the strike and on Monday only ten of the Illinois Steel Company's twenty-three blast furnaces were at work, according to reports to The Iron Age. In and around Youngstown, Ohio, twenty out of twenty-five blast furnaces were banked. Pittsburgh reported a 50 per cent. operation, with indications of a reduction to 25 per cent. by today unless the strikes were broken.

"Demoralized to a degree far beyond that brought about during either the steel or coal strikes last Fall," says The Iron Trade Review, "iron and steel operations virtually have been paralyzed by the first few days of the national strike of railroad switchmen. No such threat of complete stagnation has been faced by the manufacturers in many years, if ever. Coming as a climax to the prolonged period of car and fuel shortages, the strike has caught the industry in a highly vulnerable position. With raw stocks at a low point and plant yards congested with unshipped products, scarcely a ton of freight now is moving in and out of the work yards. Many mills and furnaces have been forced to suspend and others will follow quickly as supplies on hand are worked up or limited tonnage space remaining is filled with finished tonnage."

The railway disturbances came at a time when the steel industry was making new high records in ingot production. In March, The Iron Age states, the output of more than 145,000 tons daily was at a rate in excess of 45,000,000 tons per year. The record output of past years was 43,619,000 tons in 1917.

BROTHERHOOD CHIEFS WON'T MEET YARDMEN

Refuse to Take Part in Any Conference at Which "Revolters" Are Present.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 14.—A conference arranged between A. L. Faulkner of Cleveland, Federal Conciliation Commissioner, and heads of three transportation brotherhoods in Cleveland failed to occur today.

Mr. Faulkner made an appointment with W. G. Lee, President of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, for a meeting this afternoon. Before the hour set for the conference, however, Mr. Faulkner notified the Presidents that he was ill and would be unable to attend.

Mr. Lee, the other leaders concurring, had told Mr. Faulkner they would meet him as a private citizen, but would recognize no attempt by Government conciliators to "mediate" between the brotherhoods and the strikers in the sense in which the word "mediate" is generally understood.

All three brotherhood Presidents notified system Chairmen throughout the country today that they must not take part in any conferences with governmental or railroad officials in which representatives of independent yardmen's associations were present. This policy was agreed upon when they received word that Philadelphia railway officials had agreed to meet with a committee of yardmen, provided brotherhood representatives were allowed to be present.

"We will not recognize the existence of the revolting yardmen's organizations in any manner whatever," was Mr. Lee's announcement late this afternoon.

The brotherhoods will offer no objection to the yardmen's associations being represented before the Labor Board, provided the brotherhoods have a right to present their cases first, Mr. Lee said.

The law provides that even unorganized employes may bring grievances before the new Railway Labor Board. It will take at least thirty days for the brotherhoods and A. F. of L. unions to complete their cases before the board, Mr. Lee declared.

IMPROVEMENT AT CLEVELAND.

Erie Has Full Working Force and Pennsy Men Will Return Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, April 14.—Cleveland's freight tie-up continued today, with few striking switchmen returning to work. Those who have returned, road officials reported, can be used only for part time, as embargoes to all points have stopped all shipments.

Clearing the local yards of perishable goods and merchandise is under way at all the yards, officials making up the crews themselves to switch the cars.

The only railway to report a full working force, with all strikers returned, was the Erie Railroad. Nineteen crews, totaling ninety-five men, were on duty.

Thomas Fitzgerald, general trainmaster, states that all Erie men will be paid a full day's pay even if they were worked but a few minutes each day while the strike lasts.

Following a meeting of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen late this afternoon it was announced that all the Pennsylvania line's switchmen and yardmen would return to work tomorrow morning.

Collinwood yards, New York Central, about 150 men working.

Baltimore & Ohio, all strikers still out, no freight moved.

ALBANY MEN RESUME WORK.

Trainmen at Mechanicsville Vote Not to Join Strikers.

ALBANY, April 14.—The day shift of 150 men returned to work this morning in the New York Central yards at West Albany, and railroad officials declared the strike, which began last night, was virtually over.

Brotherhood officials addressed a mass meeting of yardmen this afternoon, and it is expected a vote to return to work will be taken by the night shift men, in whose ranks the disaffection originated.

Railroad officials said freight was moving in normal channels and cars loaded with foodstuffs would be moved as quickly as possible. Four thousand cars were tied up when the yardmen walked out.

TROY, N. Y., April 14.—Engineers, firemen, conductors and brakemen, members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, at Mechanicsville, after an all-night session, voted this morning not to join the strike of the switchmen. Radical members of the association held out until 5 o'clock to issue a strike call. Employes of the Delaware & Hudson and Boston & Maine roads are members of this organization.

REFUSE TO JOIN YARDMEN.

Toledo Switchmen's Action May Open Way to Return to Work.

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 14.—Striking switchmen in the Toledo district met today and voted to reject the proposition of joining the Yardmen's Association. This paves the way, it is believed, for the opening of negotiations with the railroad companies bearing on return to work. The vote against joining the yardmen was said to have been about three to one.

A committee of workers appointed several days ago to negotiate with employers had nothing to report today. This was taken to indicate that the companies still are refusing to deal with the outlaw strikers.

Ten thousand men were thrown out of work tonight when the Willys-Overland Automobile Company closed its plant because of the coal shortage.

The food shortage continues to menace Toledo and surrounding territory. Local grocers sounded a warning today against housewives hoarding food, maintaining that the only way to avert a famine was by buying in small quantities. The army store conducted by Mayor Cornell Schreiber was forced to close when the supply of goods became exhausted. Motor trucks are relieving the situation to some extent.

COLUMBUS STRIKE SPREADS.

More Switchmen Quit, While Conductors Seek a Settlement.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 14.—Another move to end the railroad switchmen's strike was being made here tonight. Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors met in an effort to evolve a plan to adjust the differences between the strikers and railroads.

All other indications pointed toward a tightening of the strike here. Officials of the Columbus Yardmen's Association announced that 500 additional switchmen had joined their ranks and that practically all switchmen here now were affiliated with the new organization.

The local food and fuel situation, although serious, was not desperate.

Reports from other points in Ohio showed serious industrial conditions, with coal mines and steel mills closed at many centres.

At Alliance, Ohio, following a mass meeting, Pennsylvania Railroad conductors and brakemen walked out, tying up all through as well as local trains.

The Canton Lodge of Railroad Shopmen voted last night not to walk out in sympathy with the striking switchmen. Volunteer crews of minor railroad officials were operating ten shifting engines in the Pennsylvania yards there today.

KANSAS CITY YARDS CLEARING.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 14.—Switching congestion in the Kansas City yards is being cut into each day, with a steady increase in the number of switch engines being put to work. Seventy-seven switch engines were working in the yards of the twelve railroads today, besides eleven in the terminal yards, an increase of six over yesterday. Isolated instances of outlaw switchmen returning to work are reported.

That the striking switchmen may return to work Friday morning was the opinion expressed today by William Corbett, President of the Terminal Company, spokesman for the twelve roads entering Kansas City. Mr. Corbett said the Kansas City walkout was believed to have been worked up by three agitators. "Two of the agitators are being watched by the Federal authorities," he said, "and so far as I know the third one has not been found, although his work has been noticeable."

Mr. Corbett named a Utah attorney and a Kansas attorney as the two men being watched by Government agents.

JUDGE ARRAIGNS "OUTLAWS."

Calls New Orleans Grand Jury to Hear Arrested Strike Leaders.

NEW ORLEANS, April 14.—Federal Judge Foster today called a special session of the Federal Grand Jury to consider cases of eight "outlaw" strike leaders arrested last night by Federal agents on charges of interfering with interstate commerce, violating the Lever act, and interfering with the mails.

Judge Foster announced that the Grand Jury would be instructed to investigate every possible phase of the strike here.

In his charge Judge Foster declared that the leaders of any movement to interfere with ordinary commerce or the transportation of the necessities of life were as guilty of felony as murderers." He quoted several acts of the United States Criminal Code which, he said, had been violated.

BOHM UPHOLDS RAIL STRIKE.

Justifiable Revolt Against Heads of Brotherhoods, He Says.

Ernest Bohm, Secretary of the Central Federated Union, which represents about 300,000 workers in New York, and which under proposed consolidation of all central federated bodies in this city will be composed of nearly 400,000, said yesterday he believed the striking railroad men were justified in their action. The Central Federated Union for some time has taken stands contrary to the expressed views of the leaders of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Bohm said the railroad strike merely is a rebellion against leaders of the rail brotherhoods, according to information coming to him direct from the striking men. "I believe they are right," he said. He said that according to statements by the strikers the railroads have not put into force the award of the War Labor Board in the way of increased wages, but have dilly-dallied for months until the rank and file became tired and rebelled. He said the strike seems to be won for the insurgents.

MAIL SITUATION IMPROVES.

Twenty-two Box Cars of Matter Dispatched.

P. J. Schardt, Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, yesterday dispatched twenty-two box cars of mail matter to Albany, Syracuse and Western cities. In making this announcement he said that the mail situation had made favorable improvement in the last twenty-four hours. With the aid of nine army trucks and eleven Post Office Department auto trucks secured here from Washington he was able to maintain service to points in New Jersey and around New York which have been hard hit by the strike.

"More auto trucks will arrive tomorrow and I believe we will be able to handle the volume of mail coming through our office here," said Mr. Schardt.

Chief Inspector William E. Cochran and Mr. Schardt were awaiting reports from their men at Port Jervis, who have been investigating alleged interference with mail trains. In the absence of George F. Lamb, head of the Department of Justice force here, no information of the progress of the strike investigation could be obtained. No information was given out yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney Ben Matthew of his inquiry into the situation.

DESERTION OF STRIKE BY TUBE MEN DENIED

Announcement That Motormen Will Resume Work Brings Gloom to the Trainmen.

Following an ultimatum from the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company that all strikers who failed to report for work before 4:30 yesterday afternoon would be discharged, Irving G. Hunt, President of the striking trainmen, denounced assertions that the tube employes were deserting the strike, adding that last night the men were still "100 per cent. out."

The company's message created a sensation when it reached a strikers' meeting in Grand View Hall, Jersey City, yesterday afternoon. Almost at the same time another blow brought the news that 90 per cent. of the tube motormen had agreed to return to work and operate trains manned by green employes now undergoing instruction. The motormen voted last week not to strike but to refuse to run trains bearing any strikebreakers, and their change of attitude increased the gloom.

T. Hesly, leader of the Marine Workers' Affiliation, and Joseph Stanton, head of the Port and Terminal Workers, organizations also on strike, implored the men not to go back to work until they had won the strike, but the meeting ended with a number of men openly declaring their intenelon of returning to work rather than lose their jobs permanently.

Hudson & Manhattan officials refused to say whether any appreciable number of strikers had reported for work.

Interbora Men Went Strike.

A statement issued by the Executive Committee of the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Employes said that their demands for more pay will not result in a walkout. The statement read:

"The Executive Committee of the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Employes wish to go on record as emphatically denying strike. We believe that our members are entitled to more money and we are negotiating with the company with this end in view. Our organization is composed of red-blooded Americans who do not believe in drastic action of any kind, but prefer to act on the principle of settling our difficulties among ourselves without any discomfort to the public, and that is what we propose to do.

"The public knows that our men are compelled to handle tremendous crowds which could be avoided only by providing more subways, which would in turn provide more employment for the right kind of men.

PLEDGES COMMUNIST AID.

Anonymous Manifesto Assailing Union Chiefs Backs Strikers.

A manifesto distributed here yesterday, which bore no address but purported to come from the Executive Committee of the Communist Party of America, calls the regular railroad union leaders "betrayers of the workers," beseeches the strikers to stand fast and end the rule of the capitalist class and denounces W. G. Lee, President of the trainmen's organization.

"The reactionary heads of the railroad brotherhoods," the manifesto says, "as well as the American Federation of Labor are the enemies of the masses of the workers. Make your organization the militant expression of the masses of the workers. The masses of the workers do not care a snap whether your strike is 'illegal' and you are 'outlaws' in the eyes of these betrayers."

GIVES HINT TO SWITCHMEN.

Executive Tells Volunteers a Speed Secret.

A railroad executive of many years' practical experience watched a group of volunteer switchmen in a certain yard yesterday vainly endeavoring to shift a freight car. Finally, after their most herculean efforts to budge the refractory piece of rolling stock had failed, he stepped over and whispered something to one of them, then turned with a smile to a newspaper man, who happened to be beside him, and expressed the opinion that for the benefit of all novice yardmen it might be well to broadcast this suggestion:

STRIKE TRACED TO I. W. W.

part of the Communist Labor Party of America and part of the Third Communist Internationale, the railroad men have been led into this strike, and they will be taken advantage of and led far far deeper water than they ever suspected.

"There is no earthly doubt that plans have been laid for the strike to spread to other industries. I know the dates fixed for some of these."

The Attorney General produced a mass of papers, some of them received by courier at the Department of Justice, to show that the Internationale plot links closely with the railroad workers' strike. One of these papers was a letter to Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, the so-called Russian Soviet Ambassador, from Sebald Justinus Rutgers, who was delegated by Lenin and Trotsky to preside over the Congress of the Third Internationale in Amsterdam. This letter, written just four months ago, sets Martens down as a supporter of "uncompromising Communist principles," and states that as the reason for his selection as the Soviet representative in the United States.

Another of these documents, an editorial from Communist Labor, an organ of that party in this country, apparently threatened a general May Day uprising of workers, with an incidental general strike. The Department of Justice is prepared to meet outbreaks of radicals upon that day.

Trace Foster and Grunau.

A detailed statement of the history of the present strike, including Foster's activities and the participation of John Grunau, was made by Attorney General Palmer. This statement, which shows the powerful efforts made in behalf of the "One Big Union," follows:

"After the collapse of the steel strike William Z. Foster, Carl Pierson, A. E. Reese and other of his associates of the revolutionary party engaged in the endeavor to promote the present strike. Lists of all railroad men who were members of the Communist Labor and Communist parties were sought, and names of all railroad men opposed to the present management of the brotherhoods were also collected. Meetings were held in the Continental Hotel in New York, Great Northern Hotel in Chicago, Park Avenue Hotel in New York and other places, at which the plans were laid.

"The basic agitation of these leaders was for the destruction of the railroad brotherhoods, the removal of their leaders and the One Big Union. At first it was intended that the I. W. W. should not publicly figure in the strike, but Grunau, in Chicago, deviated from the original plans and allowed the men to split the strikers into four separate organizations. This caused some dissension, which has resulted in the movement for the railroad workers' One Big Union.

"Several conferences were held at the I. W. W. headquarters in Chicago and at other points in that city. Grunau had gone too far with the four organizations to turn back, and the only way the One Big Union could be put over was through the railway shopmen, who would be urged to strike under the One Big Union banner and then force Grunau's organizations to follow suit, reorganize, and make it the One Big Union.

"It was realized that the I. W. W. could not make headway, because of the prejudice or fear of the three letters, and the fact that the men would not warm up to the organization. However, the railroad workers One Big Union was decided upon as a cover for the I. W. W.

"One Bidwell, a member of the newly formed Chicago Engineman's Association, replaced Grunau. Bidwell is confident he can swing the four organizations behind the One Big Union idea, provided the railway shopmen follow out his plans.

"So far as organization control goes, the permanent committee of the organization is to be composed either of members of the I. W. W. or those who would take orders from the duly accredited representatives of the One Big Union movement. In other words, the organization shall at all times be under the control of the directing heads. Leading I. W. W. men are to remain more or less behind the scenes."

In connection with this statement, Mr. Palmer read the following as examples of literature being printed and distributed by courier throughout the country:

"We of the One Big Union have the plan by which this can be changed. The railroad workers One Big Union is organized by industries. There are no crafts. All men working in the railroad industry belong in the railroad workers' One Big Union, and then all One Big Unions are welded together into One Big Union, which will mean that any one industry will have the support of all the other One Big Unions. Think of the economic power you would wield if organized in the proper manner."

Later in the course of the interview the Attorney General said that Foster had been one of the earliest and most active agitators in promoting the strike.

"He got after the men after they had joined the brotherhoods and induced them to meet individually. He has been doing this ever since the steel strike," said Mr. Palmer. "The plan has been for a long time to set May 1 for a general uprising of the workers to be led by the Communists."

Aims of the Communists.

In sequential form, the Attorney General traced the ambitions of the Communist Party with respect to this country, first presenting the following extract from the manifesto and program of that party as adopted in Chicago last Autumn, when Mr. Palmer said it "began laying plans for what is now happening." Part of this extract reads:

"(a) The Communist Party recognizes that the A. F. of L. is reactionary and a bulwark of capitalism.

"(b) Councils of workers shall be organized in the shops as circumstances allow, for the purpose of carrying on the industrial union struggle in the old unions, uniting and mobilizing the militant elements; these councils to be unified in a central council wherever possible.

"(c) It shall be a major task of the Communist Party to agitate for the construction of a general industrial union organization, embracing the I. W. W., W. I. I. U., independent and secession unions, militant unions of the A. F. of L. and the unorganized workers on the basis of the revolutionary class struggle."

Another document showed that in February, 1920, the bulletin of the provisional bureau in Amsterdam of the Communist Internationale appealed to the workers of America and Europe to follow the glorious example of the Russian Soviet Republic" and "attack and undermine capitalism, enfeebled already, and the bourgeois State power by ceaseless mass action, demonstrations and strikes."

TEAMSTERS START FOODSTUFF STRIKE

striking longshoremen, who are demanding 80 cents an hour for regular time and $1.20 for overtime. They were receiving 65 cents for regular time and $1 for overtime.

Strikebreakers are to be employed by the coastwise steamship companies and an attempt will be made to operate their vessels. In this decision they are backed by the Merchants' Association, members of which have promised that they will cart away from the piers their freight as rapidly as it is brought to the port. The Merchants Association has assured the steamship owners that ample police protection will be given by the city. A request for this protection was sent yesterday to the city officials by J. C. Lincoln, traffic manager of the Merchants Association.

Just how far the steamship owners will go with their program is problematical, as labor leaders said last night that no union teamsters would touch anything in the way of freight or the piers of any of the lines involved in the strike. They added that virtually all of the teamsters who might be called upon for this service were members of the union. It was emphasized that if any attempt was made to use union men, further strikes on the waterfront might result.

The coastwise steamship owners did not divulge their plans as to carting away the goods, but this part of the program was left to the individual merchant, it was said. Nor did they reveal just what they are going to do for the men who take employment as longshoremen, but it was said by an official of a line last week that arrangements were then being made to house and feed the workers on the piers. This course may be followed.

Thousand Idle at Piers.

A committee composed of E. R. Richardson, Vice President and General Manager of the Ocean Steamship Company, and E. A. Kelly, Assistant General Manager of the Clyde and Mallory lines, last week called on the Merchants' Association to ascertain just what aid would be given by the merchants in the way of removing freight from the piers in the event the steamship companies decided to resume operations. Every Atlantic and Gulf port has been tied up by the strike. In New York about 7,000 or 8,000 longshoremen are on strike and in addition 5,000 teamsters are idle, as well as many clerks and other workers on the piers.

Taken up by the Transportation Committee of the Merchants' Association, it was recommended that the request of the steamship interests be submitted to the entire membership, numbering more than 24,000. The result was that circulars went out to each member. While not all had replied, enough had been heard from to justify Mr. Lincoln in notifying Mr. Kelly that the steamship owners would have the whole-hearted support of the merchants in their attempt to move their ships. And, further, that as they always had been assured by Mayor Hylan and Commissioner Enright of ample police protection, they had no doubt that it would be given in this instance.

The steamship men immediately inserted advertisements for men to do longshore work, offering them 65 cents regular time and $1 overtime. Mr. Kelly said in the afternoon that he had no doubt but that men enough would be obtained to operate their vessels. He said that there were a number of persons idle, and he was led to believe that many would be glad of the opportunity to work at the wages offered by the steamship companies. Not all of the ships are expected to be moving Friday, but steamship owners thought last night that at least some of them would be able to get away from their piers Friday night.

Hope for Food By Boats.

The resumption of the operation of the coastwise steamers will greatly relieve the food shortage in New York City brought about by the series of strikes, it was generally admitted. It was said in steamship circles that if found necessary steamers would be diverted to Norfolk, Va., in order to bring foodstuffs to the city. The Clyde Line and the Ocean Steamship Company will bring Southern vegetables here, while the Southern Pacific and the Mallory will bring fruits as well as some vegetables.

The owners of the Sound lines, which also have been tied up on account of the strike, so far as freight is concerned, have made an offer to the longshoremen, it was learned last night, which is considered very favorable by the leaders. They are willing to grant the eight-hour day and recognition of the union and to consider an increase of pay when the coastwise companies advance wages, it was said. Action on this proposal may be announced today. Joseph Ryan, International Vice President, said last night.

The coastwise steamship companies refused to grant increases in wages on the ground that they were not financially able until they were allowed to increase their freight rates. This, it appears, cannot be done until Sept. 1 next. The union longshoremen refuse to work for less than 80 cents and $1.20 an hour.

The New York Board of Trade and Transportation sent a letter to Mayor Hylan yesterday asking that police protection be given to drivers while delivering goods at piers at which the men are on strike. This protection, the board found, has been lacking except at "rare intervals," and it is charged that the strikers have destroyed equipment and spoiled shipments in the effort to stop pier deliveries.

STRIKERS REFUSE TO BRING FOOD HERE

HYLAN ORDERS FOOD SURVEY

Milk Delivery Normal—Close Watch Being Kept for Profiteering by Retailers.

Although more than 1,000 striking enginemen, firemen, conductors and trainmen yesterday afternoon, at a meeting in Grand View Hall, Jersey City Heights, by a rising vote assured Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner of this city, that they would take under advisement a scheme to facilitate the transportation of milk and food to the people of this city, it was learned soon after that the request of Dr. Copeland was ignored by the Executive Committee of the strikers' newly-formed organization.

Dr. Copeland, who had been invited to address the men, spoke for upward of an hour, during which time he told them that they had a humane duty to perform in aiding in the transportation of foodstuffs to the people of the city as well as a patriotic one.

Several times the strikers cheered the speaker and when the Health Commissioner came out of the meeting he said that the men had declared their willingness to aid in the sending of a full supply of milk to this city every day.

Several of the strikers said that the Executive Committee had consented to aid in the transportation of milk to the city every day, but no explanation was offered as to the manner in which the strikers intended to offer their aid.

After his return from Jersey City last night, Dr. Copeland declared that the stocks of foods outside of frozen storage meats would last for only a few days. Railroad men told him, he said, that if the strike were ended today it would take a week before the normal daily supply of foodstuffs would be received here.

Mayor Orders Food Survey.

Mayor Hylan yesterday called upon the police and firemen, through letters to the commissioners of the respective departments, to make a food survey and also investigate prices, with a view to prevent profiteering. His letter denounced "cold-blooded profiteers" and invited complaints from citizens. The Flying Squadron of the Department of Justice divided the city into twenty-five zones, and efforts are being concentrated on catching alleged profiteers. The milk supply came in yesterday in normal quantity and on schedule time.

T. C. Brown of the New York Mercantile Exchange says that outside of the Danish butter the supply on hand will not last more than a few days. Some is being brought in from Pennsylvania and other points. This week will clean up all the good table butter.

Armour & Co. report receipts about 25 per cent. normal, and from this supply large quantities have been sent to Connecticut and Western Massachusetts. The management said no cars of meat were in sight, although some cars of the Erie Railroad somewhere between here and Albany will be diverted to the New York Central if they can be located.

In giving out a report of a survey made by her of the food situation in New York, Mrs. Louise Reed Weismiller, Deputy Commissioner of Markets, insinuated that there was indifference on the part of railroad and produce merchants during the present emergency.

"In other words," she said regarding the railroads, "they do not care how long the strike lasts." Mrs. Weismiller then gave short interviews with a number of dealers to show ample foodstuffs on hand.

Armin W. Riley, chief investigator of the Flying Squadron of the Department of Justice, has sent a telegram to George G. Brown, President of the Wholesale Live Poultry Receivers' Association, at Washington Market, suggesting that the association fix a maximum price of fifty cents a pound for live fowls and thirty cents a pound on roosters.

The United States Army Zone Surplus Supply Officer yesterday sold 3,000,000 pounds of meats to dealers in quantities averaging 100,000 pounds at 10½ cents a pound. It was the understanding that this meat is to be sold to the consumer at a margin of profit fixed by the Department of Justice. Mr. Riley had not fixed the price last night.

A movement was under way at Columb

49 SUBURBAN TRAINS RUN

Dr. Richard Derby, Son-in-Law of Late Colonel Roosevelt, Fires Locomotive on Full Trip.

Demonstrations against volunteer crews, accompanied in some instances by violence, broke out yesterday at several points. Members of a commuters' crew were attacked last night by strikers in the Hoboken Station of the Lackawanna. A volunteer fireman on the Long Island was thrown from an engine cab at Babylon. At other points the volunteers were hooted and threatened.

Officials of the Long Island Railroad made a tour last night of towns covered by the road to urge the formation of vigilance committees to protect commuters aiding in the operation of steam trains. Peter N. Woodward, General Passenger Agent, and L. V. Morris, the Chief Engineer, were among the tourists. They were designated by President Ralph J. Peters after reports of threats had reached the railroad offices.

Dr. Richard Derby of Sagamore Hill, son-in-law of Theodore Roosevelt, was one of the volunteers on the Long Island yesterday. He "fired" an engine from Oyster Bay to Jamaica, and after resting three hours took the train back to Oyster Bay.

Volunteers Run Forty-nine Trains.

Forty-nine suburban trains were run yesterday by volunteer crews on three different roads. Officials of the Erie and Lackawanna, on whose lines most of the "indignation specials" were run, have scheduled additional trains for today with volunteer crews.

The crew of the Montclair local of the Lackawanna Railroad was attacked by three strikers last night just before the train left the Hoboken station. The strikers attempted to pull the men from the cab and a free fight followed, in which the strikers got the worst of it. The three were arrested and taken to the Hoboken station, where they said they were Fred De Camp, 32, a brakeman, of 396 East 154th Street, the Bronx; William A. Barnacott, a yard conductor, of 719 East 134th Street, the Bronx, and Harvey Nothstein, a yard conductor, of 572 Cortlandt Avenue, the Bronx.

A crowd of several hundred strikers surrounded the police station following the arrest of the men, and demanded that they be released. When the demand was refused, several strikers' representatives entered the police station and asked that the men be paroled. This the police also refused to do. The three men were held for examination this morning by Recorder Carsten.

Leaders Deplore Attack.

Strike leaders in Hoboken later went to the police station and said they deplored the incident. They said they were doing everything possible to restrain the men from any demonstrations.

Earlier in the day William C. Arnold of Babylon, L. I., a volunteer fireman, was pulled from a train on which he was acting as fireman at Babylon. The train was being made up when strikers surrounded it and, entering the cab, yanked the volunteers to the platform. Arnold and two others were chased from the platform. Arnold's shoulder was injured in his scuffle with the strikers.

Three Sheriffs, with deputies and citizens sworn in for special duty, were called upon by the Long Island to guard a local passenger train starting from Babylon, L. I., shortly after noon for the Pennsylvania Station in Manhattan. The engineer refused to get into the cab unless he was guaranteed protection, and firemen backed him up in the demand.

It was arranged for Sheriff Kelly of Suffolk County to guard the train, with a posse from Babylon to Amityville, where Sheriff Smith of Nassau County with a posse and Alvin N. Edwards, Assistant District Attorney, were to relieve him, riding the train to the Queens County border at Rosedale. From that point Sheriff George of Queens promised to furnish a guard to Jamaica, and, if the engineer's anxiety was not then alleviated, into the Manhattan Terminal.

Five Thousand Volunteer in Jersey.

By using the services of a few hundred New Jersey residents the Lackawanna and Erie railroads improved their commuters' train service yesterday. Edward M. Kline, Vice President and General Manager of the Lackawanna, said normal service on that road would be instituted in a few days, at least during the morning and evening rush hours.

Mr. Kline has received more than 5,000 offers from Jerseyites who say they are willing to do any kind of work on the trains or roads. Five hundred students from Stevens Institute of Technology and Princeton University met him at Hoboken yesterday and offered their services. Forty were accepted and the rest were told to "come back tomorrow."

Ten trains took the place of about fifty from Montclair, the Oranges, Brick Church and other Jersey towns during the morning rush hours, and the cars were taxed to their capacity. It was estimated that more than 16,000 men and women traveled to New York in the morning and returned at night. Mr. Kline said he hoped to run about twenty trains today, and gradually increase this number until it reaches normal.

Frank L. Kramer, for seventeen years national bicycle champion, was a fireman on one of the Lackawanna trains from South Orange.

Nine trains were brought in on the Erie by volunteers yesterday and fifteen were taken back last night. Officials of the road said that they expected to run twenty each way today.

Among the members of the crews were M. M. Crockett, surveyor; T. J. Zimmerman, President of the Westwood Board of Education; Lieutenant J. M. Adams, Jr., of Tenafly, and Walter Merritt, a lawyer of 54 Wall Street. Woodbridge, N. J., residents operated a special extra train which left Woodbridge at 6:40 A. M. and arrived in Jersey City at 7:40 A. M., only a few minutes late.

In order to help move the various trains on the Pennsylvania Railroad the students of Rutgers College at New Brunswick have volunteered in a body to serve in any capacity to which they may be assigned.

The students of Lehigh University, through President Henry S. Drinker, have offered their services to the Lehigh Valley Railroad, President E. E. Loomis of the Lehigh Valley said their services were not required. Two hundred Stevens students are living in eight Pullmans in the Erie yards, Jersey City. Fifty of the students will be taught firing.

Eighty-seven Princeton undergraduates were called for by the railroads yesterday. They went to Jersey City to work on the Pennsylvania Lines. Joe Sheerer, football star, volunteered.

SENATE DEFERS ACTION ON THE LABOR BOARD

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Senate today deferred action upon the nominations of the members of the Railroad Labor Board, when criticism of the appointees broke out after the Interstate Commerce Committee had reported in favor of confirmation of the President's selections.

Senators who voiced the criticisms said later that they did not intend to oppose confirmation, although they did not like some of the men named. These Senators said that they believed the Board would be confirmed tomorrow.

Senator Lodge asked for an executive session and Watson, McCumber, New, Trammell and Reed made speeches criticising the appointments. Senator Reed's speech was a general criticism of all of the President's appointments.

Other Senators expressed dissatisfaction on the ground that the men named as members of the group, representing the public were hardly known outside their own vocations. There was practically no criticism of the members of the other groups, as Senators said that the railroads and the labor organizations had a right to choose anyone they desired, and if they were satisfied with the appointments, the Senate ought to be.

After the discussion had gone on two hours, Senator Lodge suggested that action be postponed until tomorrow, as some Senators had expressed a desire to inquire further into the qualifications of some of the appointees. The adjournment was taken.

RAIL STRIKE CAUSES TOLD BY CONDUCTOR

Breaking of Promises Made by Government Chief Reason for Tieup, He Says.

Some of the striking railroad men, in the belief that the secrecy surrounding the origin of the strike and the movements of its leaders had created an unfavorable impression regarding it in the mind of the public, said yesterday that the breaking of the Government promises mainly was responsible for the walkout of the members of the local organizations of the four big railroad brotherhoods.

One man, who said he had been employed on the Pennsylvania Railroad as a freight conductor for twenty-one years, asserted that ignorance of the demands of the members of the brotherhoods for an increase in pay during the last three years, and the seeming indifference of the international officers of the four big brotherhoods as regards the demands for pay were the actual reasons for the men going on strike, but he admitted that "outside influenes" had given the proposition to strike considerable impetus.

"There are many of the men who are on strike that don't agree with the policy of the strike leaders in refusing to make public proceedings of our meetings, which undoubtedly would put the patrons of the railroads in a better position to judge of the justice of our demands," he said. "That is a situation that the more sober-minded men in the strike cannot overcome, because the younger, hot-headed element predominates. These young fellows have been listening to the talk of those outsiders and they will not listen to any of the men who have had more experience in such affairs.

"For eight years we have been striving to get increases in pay for the various branches of the big brotherhoods, but it was not until 1917 that the situation became such that we simply had to receive more pay in order to maintain our families in anything like comfort. At that time, when we insisted on receiving an increase in pay because of the boost in the prices of foodstuffs, clothing and rent, due to the war, we were asked to remain at our work as a patriotic duty, and as a sop we were given the eight-hour day, which was one of the many things demanded by the railroad workers.

"You remember that President Wilson told the railroad employes last Summer that it would be inadvisable to raise the pay of the railroad men then as that would only mean a still further increase in the price of foodstuffs and clothing as well as a boost in rents. He said that by Fall prices undoubtedly would go down, and that would lessen the burden of the workers.

"Well, we received no increase in pay, but instead of the price of necessaries coming down it has mounted higher than ever before in the history of the country. Do you wonder that most of the men now on strike became desperate and decided on a showdown? We can't keep our families on promises. We simply have to get more pay in order to buy food and clothing for our wives and children."

160,000 Idle in Michigan.

DETROIT, April 14.—Michigan's army of unemployed created by the walkout a week ago of railroad switchmen continued to grow today. Conservative estimates place the number forced into idleness in various parts of the State at upward of 160,000 this morning. Approximately two-thirds of them are out in Detroit.

bership did not include any hotel operators, but that several hundred have joined the union, which now has a membership of about 17,000 of 25,000 operators in the city. He said that eighty operators struck yesterday at the Hudson Terminal Building because a union operator was discharged. The union, he said, did not approve this action, but the officials seemed to be powerless to prevent it. It was said at the Hudson Terminal Building that the strikers had been replaced without inconvenience.

A. E. Cockran, Manager of the Woolworth Building, where thirty-eight operators struck Tuesday, said that the elevators were kept running yesterday by women employes. The tower was open yesterday. Mr. Cockran said the strikers demanded a 35 per cent. wage increase or $33 a week. Mr. Cockran said he had information that they intended to strike today with other operators in the city, but an argument resulting in the discharge of one of the men precipitated the action.

'OUTLAWS' MAKE FIRST PUBLIC PLEA

APPEAL TO WASHINGTON

Declare They Are Americans Seeking an American Living, and Not Revolutionists.

The United Railway Workers of America, the name which the railroad strikers have given to themselves, denied in a statement to the public last night that they harbored radical or revolutionary aims, and asserted that they were plain American citizens, compelled to strike because of their failure to obtain relief otherwise for hard conditions. The statement was as follows:

"At a meeting of the United Railway Workers of America, held at Grand View Hall, Jersey City, today, the following statement of the railroad situation was made:

"In retiring from work the railroad men for whom we speak are seeking to uphold an American standard of living. We are American citizens. We are not revolutionists. One thousand five hundred trainmen were soldiers in the army which fought for American principles against the German autocracy, and in the months since the armistice our love for America has not grown less. As American citizens we are exercising our historic rights to appeal to our Government for the redress of intolerable grievances.

"Our wages are inadequate to support our families. These facts are certified by the statement of the Railroad Administration of the Department of Labor and of other national Governmental bodies. Many classes of employes are paid from $500 to $700 less than the least sum at which Governmental authorities have reckoned that it is possible for a man to support his wife and children at the minimum of comfort and health.

"Every possible means of remedying this situation was exhausted before we individuals stopped work. Last August our appeal for relief was carried to the President. We were then asked to wait on the assurance that if the cost of living did not recede our wages would be adjusted. The cost of living rose, but we have neither relief nor the assurance of relief. So burdensome and hopeless have been these delays that railroad employes despaired of obtaining any consideration of their grievances through their own representatives or from the Government. They hoped that something would come from the National Industrial Conference, which met at the call of the President last October, that dragged out to failure.

"Railroad trainmen from all over the country telegraphed their brotherhood officials demanding that consideration be given this situation. Nothing happened except more delay. Director General Hines said he was unwilling to embarrass the railroads by granting a wage increase during the last months of the Railroad Administration. The President upheld Mr. Hines. Finally the period of Federal operation came to an end.

"The railroad companies were guaranteed a substantial rate of return, while the railroad workers were given ambiguous assurances. Furthermore, the railroads were able to go directly to the Interstate Commerce Commission, while the delay in setting up the Railroad Board left the railway employes without any possible court of appeal. These delays led the railway men to despair of obtaining relief. When no other way to bringing their case to the attention of the Government existed, they stopped work.

"Now that the Railroad Labor Board has been appointed, we desire to avail ourselves of the opportunity provided by it for a consideration of our grievances in accordance with the provisions of the Transportation act."

It was announced by the Executive Committee of the strikers that the McHugh statement adopted by the Executive Committee had been sent as a letter of appeal to members of the Labor Board, Albert B. Cummins, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee of the Senate, and John J. Esch, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee of the House, asking these men to take up the matter.

NEW ENGLAND SHORT OF COAL

Cut in Passenger Service Expected Soon if Strike Continues.

BOSTON, April 14.—Curtailment of the passenger schedules of New England railroads within a few days because of a fuel shortage was predicted by officials today. The coal stocks of the roads are said to be very low, with no supplies in sight unless the freight tieup due to the strikes in other sections is broken. All the roads are confiscating coal on their lines, it is said, without appreciably relieving the prospect.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad is preparing a reduced schedule of suburban and long-haul passenger trains which, unless conditions improve, will be announced within forty-eight hours. Officials said it might be a week before the change became effective.

REPORT ATTEMPT TO KILL CARRANZA

soldiers must march overland 200 miles through a mountainous and desert country.

All saloons were ordered closed in the State today by General Calles. He ordered renewed efforts in recruiting. Four thousand recruits had joined the Sonora army in less than sixty hours., it was announced at military headquarters here.

The question of State's rights caused Sonora to secede when State authorities declared President Carranza had no right to send troops into Sonora against wishes of the State.

Yaqui Indians, who have been at war for months against the Mexican Government, have made peace with Sonora authorities, and between 4,000 and 5,000 red warriors will be mobilized against Carranza, it was said here today. The military authorities have claimed an army of more than 25,000 would be enrolled within a week.

The Southern Pacific Railroad of Mexico, an American-owned road, seized by the State to break a strike of the employes, is being used to rush troops to the Sinaloa frontier.

At Hermosillo, Governor Adolfo de la Huerta, provisional President of the "Republic of Sonora," declared yesterday that the entire State was supporting him in the secession movement. He declared that the State's action was legal and in defense of State rights under the Mexican Constitution.

Federal troops in Sonora were declared by State officials to have gone over to the State Government.

Customs collections are being made as usual and business has not been interfered with.

The Governor described the events which led up to the break with the Mexico City Government. The first step, he declared, was the attitude of the Carranza Government in taking direct action and a notoriously partial attitude in local elections of the several States and in the electoral campaign for the nomination of candidates for Federal offices.

After the conference of Governors at Mexico City, which de la Huerta refused to attend, he declared Carranza's "displeasure with Sonora authorities" became intensified. He said he learned about two months ago that the President proposed to "overthrow the constitutional government of this State and to replace it with an absolutely despotic government."

He declared that the secession step was taken by the State Congress only after he had "exhausted all conciliatory and pacific resources."

The German steamer Vorwaerts, recently seized at Guaymas by order of the Carranza Government for carrying arms and ammunition to the rebel forces, has been taken over, it was reported, by the "Republic of Sonora," and is being refitted as a cruiser. She will carry six mounted cannon, and at the same time will be used as an army transport along the west coast of Sonora.

MEXICO CITY, April 14.—The first editorials on the situation in Sonora appeared today. El Universal, an independent organ, declares that in the hour of crisis it is the duty of Lieut. Col. Alvaro Obregon to take a patriotic stand and fight the revolt, saying that otherwise he will appear a false hero.

El Democrata attacks vigorously the statement of the Sonora authorities that the entry of troops into Sonora violated the State's sovereignty, and declares the revolt was not inspired by electoral reasons only.

El Heraldo de Mexico deplores the revolt, declaring that a reconciliation between the supporters of Ygnacio Bonillas, former Ambassador to the United States, and Lieut. Col. Obregon will be impossible after the first shot is fired. The newspaper says the revolt is a serious hindrance to fair elections and the progress of the republic, and expresses the hope that a compromise will be reached in time to avoid bloodshed.

El Liberal, the organ of Señor Bonillas, declares that the Sonora authorities are traitors and urges energetic military action to put down the revolt.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Private advices received here today from Nuevo Laredo said that General Pablo Gonzales, formerly chief military leader under the present Mexican Government, had rejoined his command and issued a proclamation calling on Carranza to resign. He said the Supreme Court should name a Provisional President who would hold elections.

General Gonzales at the same time withdrew as a candidate for President and requested General Obregon and Ygnacio Bonillas, former Ambassador to the United States, to follow his example. When he first became a candidate, Gonzales was said to have been supported by President Carranza, but now Bonillas is regarded as Carranza's choice.

them. Their worst hardship was uncomfortable beds. They were indignant at two proposals made to them by the authorities, which implied that certain of the men should desert their colleagues. Their attitude was "All or none."

Strike Was in Full Force.

The release of the prisoners is regarded as a complete triumph for the hunger strike and its ally, the general strike, which was in full force today. If funerals were in progress, hearses and the chief mourners were allowed to proceed, all other vehicles in funeral corteges were turned back. An indication of the universal sentiment regarding the prisoners, apart from political bias, was shown by an appeal from Chief Rabbi Hersog to the Viceroy for clemency for "the unfortunate men at grips with death in Mountjoy."

The visit to Dublin of James Henry Thomas, General Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, and Labor Member of Parliament for Derby, is regarded also as having had some share in the decision for the release of the men. It is said that an attempt was to have been made to bring about a strike in England in support of the Irish case. Mr. Thomas made a speech from a window of the labor executive offices this afternoon indorsing the action of the hunger strikers.

As the eighty-nine hunger strikers had been starving themselves for ten days, the form of the official announcement that those requiring medical treatment outside of the prison would be released was taken to mean that all of them would be released, and that this would be a way for covering the Government's retreat from its former position.

Eighty-one of the hunger strikers had not been tried. Twenty were imprisoned under the defense of the realm act, without an indication even of the charge against them other than that their detention was merely preventive. Sixty were awaiting trial, mostly by court-martial for sedition, though no charges had been made against them, and they were virtually in the same position as the defense of the realm act prisoners.

Two fatalities attended the general strike today. Constable Harry Kells was shot dead while on plain clothes duty in Camden Street this morning. The constable's assailant was an unidentified young man. He fired two shots from his revolver and ran away from the scene before he could be apprehended. In the afternoon Sergeant Lavin was found shot to death at the constabulary depot, a revolver lying by his side.

Dramatic Scene at the Jail.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, April 14.—There was a dramatic scene at Mountjoy Prison this afternoon. A crowd of 40,000 people had assembled at the jail, where the hunger strikers were lying in grave condition. It was known that the Lord Mayor while on a visit to the jail had been summoned to the Viceregal Lodge, and that the authorities were modifying their policy was evidenced by the fact that soldiers and tanks, machine guns and barbed wire had been removed from the precincts of the prison.

Suddenly a man clambered to the top of the wall and announced that he had the authority of the Lord Mayor to state that the hunger strikers who were in danger were to be released.

A deeply emotional scene followed, and shortly afterward the Lord Mayor arrived and confirmed the announcement.

"On Sunday the Lord Lieutenant refused to see me," he added. "Today I received an urgent message to go to the Viceregal Lodge."

Patriotic songs were sung and flags were waved. A hush fell upon the throng as ambulances began to arrive, and the crowd appointed voluntary traffic controllers.

When the prisoners were about to be released, however, a document was presented to each man in which he was asked to declare that he would return at the end of six weeks. This document the men absolutely refused to sign. On learning this the Lord Mayor proceeded to the Viceregal lodge. Much excitement prevailed among the crowds. The Lord Mayor returned at 8:30 P. M., and word was passed around that everything had been satisfactorily arranged.

It was intimated that relatives would be admitted to the prison without the restrictions recently imposed, and it was learned that every cell door was open. A cordon of young men was organized across the jail gates, and they examined the credentials of all who wished to enter.

At quarter to 9 the first batch of prisoners was released. The first twenty-five men were taken to the Jervis Street Hospital. The men are being released unconditionally, and are not being asked to sign any document.

The executive committee of the Irish Labor party met this afternoon and declared the general strike at end. Tonight the workers are hurrying back to duty and trains, trams and vehicles are expected soon to run as usual.

Says Macready Ordered Release.

LONDON, Thursday, April 15.—The release of the Irish prisoners was by direct order of General Str Nevil Macready, and marks the beginning of an entire change in the Irish policy, according to a prominently displayed statement in The Daily Mail.

When it became clear some time ago, says this paper, that the policy of repression was leading to disastrous consequences, the Premier decided to change the policy and if necessary get rid of the men associated with the old regime. He suddenly and without warning told J. I. MacPherson, Chief Secretary for Ireland, that he was to be transferred to the Pensions Ministry, and appointed General Macready in command of the troops, without consulting the Irish office.

General Macready, adds The Mail, was instructed to inaugurate a new policy of conciliation and a free hand was given to him. In other words, he was to supercede the existing heads of the Government in Ireland.

General Macready arrived in Dublin yesterday morning and ordered the release of the prisoners after an exchange of wireless messages with Premier Lloyd George, who is on his way to San Remo, the paper continues.

Inasmuch as General Macready reversed the policy for which Viscount French was responsible, the Viceroy, the paper believes, wishes a clear definition as to whether he or General Macready is the chief power in Ireland, and may come to London to inquire.

Viscount French May Resign.

"The answer," continues The Mail, "may lead to his resignation—a contingency for which the Premier possibly planned. Names of a possible successor are being discussed in the lobbies of Parliament, the favorite being the Earl of Granard, although, as he is a Catholic, a special act of Parliament would be necessary to enable him to act as Viceroy."

Andrew Bonar Law, the Government spokesman, had said in the House of Commons yesterday that the Irish Government had decided to treat those prisoners in Mountjoy Prison who were arrested on suspicion by competent military authority differently from other classes of prisoners, and that they would receive ameliorative treatment. He made this announcement in replying to a question by T. P. O'Connor, the Irish Nationalist leader.

The Mail assumes from Mr. Bonar Law's speeches that he was not informed of the decision for the release of the prisoners, and says that the peculiarity of his position is being discussed in political circles.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, April 15.—There is little disposition to inquire too closely into the reason for the Government's change of attitude toward the Mountjoy hunger strikers. The newspapers generally have shown an uneasy feeling that, while the Administration had logic and strict justice on its side, it was almost impossible for it to resist to the bitter end. The London Times, indeed, urged "with all the emphasis at our command that whatever the cost to prestige of the Irish executive and pride of ministers, broader and more merciful considerations should be permitted in this instance to prevail."

Other newspapers that do not go so far have shown equally great concern. Thus, the Evening Standard yesterday asked what, after all, the Government had to gain by making martyrs of these men.

TWO CIVILIANS WOUNDED.

Bullets Ricochet When Troops Fire Over Crowd Stoning Them.

BELFAST, April 14 (Associated Press).—Soldiers fired ball cartridges over the heads of crowds gathered at the Londonderry Station today and two civilians were wounded by ricocheting bullets.

The crowds at the station assembled with the expectation of greeting the arrival of Sinn Fein prisoners. Armed police were summoned to the scene, but the gathering became so threatening that two companies of soldiers, who were accompanied by an armored car, were called and ordered to make a bayonet charge.

The military was subjected to a fierce fusillade of stones and fired volleys of blank cartridges in an endeavor to warn the people. The blanks proving ineffective, several rounds of ball cartridges were discharged over the heads of the people and the two civilians received injuries from glancing bullets.

Later in the day the Sinn Fein prisoners arrived and were taken in motor cars to the Londonderry Jail.

The Internal revenue office at Dundalk was burned this afternoon. A number of men rushed into the building, seized the members of the working staff and set the office on fire. No effort was made to subdue the flames until after the arrival of the soldiers.

LONDONDERRY, Ulster, April 14.—The Unionist members of the Londonderry City Council withdrew from the session today when a resolution of sympathy with the hunger strikers in Mountjoy Prison was proposed. Applause greeted the statement of Mrs. Morris a Nationalist councilor, that she had prayed the previous night to the Mother of Mercy "that these poor men would be triumphant over the savage head of Lord French."

CONFER IN PHILADELPHIA ON RESUMING WORK

Hope Is Expressed That Pennsylvania Railroad Employes Will Return Promptly.

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, April 15.—Representatives of Pennsylvania Railroad employes in this district who quit work, local officers of the railroad brotherhoods, C. S. Kirck, General Manager of the Eastern region of the Pennsylvania, and William J. Tracy, chief of the State Bureau of Mediation, went into conference here last night in an endeavor to reach an agreement to end the strike. They were still in session at 2:30 this morning.

Preliminary conferences leading up to the meeting gave hope that before the negotiations end a recommendation will go out to all the men to return to work. Railroad officials expressed the opinion that if the men here decide to return it will have much influence on those still out on other parts of the system.

The Pennsylvania, it is understood, will take all men back, and if any disciplinary action is taken it will have to be done by the railroad unions under the regulations of their organizations.

ANTHRACITE MINERS UNEASY

15,000 May Strike Today Because of Prolonged Wage Conference.

In fear that the prolonged conference of the subcommittee of operators and miners appointed to negotiate the new anthracite wage agreement would result in a strike of the miners in the Pennsylvania region, a meeting of the Mine Workers Scale Committee has been called for today to take some action to keep the miners at work.

Union leaders here received reports from District 9, headquarters at Shamokin, Pa., indicating that about 15,000 of the 40,000 miners there had declared their intention to stop work today and to remain away until they are satisfied as to the wage adjustment. It is reported that miners in other sections are threatening to walk out unless some definite action is taken immediately toward a new contract. This will be the first meeting of the Scale Committee in three weeks.

ALBANY, April 14.—Repeal of the law regulating the employment of women on elevators was effected by the passage tonight by the Assembly of the Gillett bill which wipes out all regulations as to hours and permits women to operate elevators at night seven days a week. The repeal is another blow at the women's welfare program, according to representatives of the Women's Joint Legislative Conference.

TO TAKE UP ARGENTINE LOAN

England Undertakes to Pay $50,000,000 Due Here May 15.

BUENOS AIRES, April 13.—The Argentine Government has arranged with the British Government for funds to enable Argentina to liquidate the $50,000,000 loan maturing May 15 and payable in New York. President Irigoyen disclosed this fact in a message sent to the Senate today. The President mentioned this arrangement in connection with an urgent request that the Senate immediately approve the measure of the lower house by which Argentina would loan to England, France and Italy $200,000,000 for the purchase of food products, which has been pending for two years.

The President urged the approval of the measure in order to "realize this policy of economic co-operation." His message is generally interpreted as indicating that the British Government in agreeing to care for the $50,000,000 maturing loan, obtained the President's assurance that he would hasten the loan to the Allies.

It is pointed out here that the Allies will spend the proceeds of their loan in Argentina, which means that there will be no actual transfer of funds from the country. Details of the manner in which Great Britain will pay off the loan in the United States have not been disclosed, beyond the statement that it will be under "advantageous conditions."

When issued the loan was half in dollars and half in pounds sterling, but it is explained in banking circles that the British share has been transferred to the United States.

You remember the old story of the bright, new, shiny andirons?

The new andirons made the room look shabby, so it was repapered and painted and then the furniture had to be re-upholstered and new rugs laid. The living room thus "re-done" made the rest of the house look shabby, and when the whole interior was refurnished, a new shingled roof and fresh painting induced the building of a larger veranda and a new garage, with lawns and hedges fixed up. All of this to match the new andirons.

When a man advertises a new feature, he has bought new andirons.

Thereafter, he wants to improve not only the goods, but the package.

With a better product he wants an improved service and a stronger organization, both inside and outside his plant.

To boast of an improvement gives hostages to the public that other improvements will follow.

Business institutions, like men, grow upon what they feed.

Have you any new andirons in your plant?

THREATENS IN HOUSE TO IMPEACH POST

PLUMB LEAGUE ASSAILED

Cooper Declares That Its Paper Has Poisoned Railroad Workers' Minds.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The railroad strike was debated today in the House of Representatives. Representative Davey, Democrat of Ohio, said that the situation demonstrated the need of the anti-sedition legislation.

Representatives Carss, Independent of Minnesota, and Cooper, Republican of Ohio, both former railroad workers, said that the employes on strike were underpaid. Mr. Cooper asserted, however, that the strike "was instigated by certain radical elements in the Northwest," and "ought never to have been called."

Louis F. Post, Assistant Secretary of the Department of Labor, came in for criticism during the debate, Mr. Davey declaring that Mr. Post had "blocked the Attorney General" in deportation proceedings against alien radicals, some of whom, he asserted, were among the strike leaders. Saying that Mr. Post "ought to be removed from office," Representative Davey announced a willingness to introduce an impeachment resolution.

"The sympathies of Mr. Post are evidently with the enemies of our Government," said Mr. Davey, adding that the Assistant Labor Secretary had withdrawn warrants for the deportation of aliens, and also had "allowed Soviet Russian Ambassador Martens to go free" on the recognizance of his attorney.

"If Post had not been in the Department of Labor some of the leaders of the railroad strike would have been deported," said Mr. Davey.

Representative Cooper, though declaring his belief that the Plumb Plan League had nothing to do with the strike, said that the league's official publication had done more to poison the minds of railroad men than anything that had happened in the last year. The publication, he said, was managed by Edward Keating, a former member of Congress from Colorado, and "condemned members of Congress as grafters, tools of Wall Street and bowing to great interests." Cartoons in the publication, drawn by Representative Baer, Republican, of North Dakota, depicting Congress as enacting a transportation bill oppressive to labor, were attacked by Mr. Cooper, who asserted that Baer "ought to take his hat and coat and resign."

Yardmen, Representative Cooper said, were receiving from $4 to $4.60 a day, most of them being paid at the lower figure.

"Common labor is getting more than these skilled railroad workers," Mr. Cooper said. "If President Wilson had used the powers given him by the Railroad bill the strike would have been averted, but the President had to wait until the crisis came before he appointed the Labor Adjustment Board."

Representative Baer, replying to Mr. Cooper, declared that he would continue to draw cartoons for the Plumb plan publication, as he had sufficient cause for his opinion that the Railroad bill was not for the benefit of labor. Mr. Baer added that he did not believe members of Congress "consciously" voted in favor of Wall Street in supporting the Railroad bill, but that many "did not know what was in the measure." Unrest and strikes, he asserted, were not caused by the Plumb plan paper but by "repressive bills passed or pending in Congress."

CAILLAUX TRIAL NEARS END.

Verdict in Treason Case Is Expected Within a Fortnight.

PARIS, April 14.—The case of Joseph C. Caillaux, former Premier of France, on trial for alleged treason, entered the summing-up stage for the prosecution today, with the resumption of the High Court's sessions after the Easter holidays. It is expected that a verdict will be rendered within a fortnight, probably by April 24 or 25.

Early in his address for the prosecution, Theodore Lescouve, the procurator, announced that he would waive all the testimony that had been given in the trial by Leon Rosenwald, an Argentine newspaper man, and would take no account of it in summing up. Rosenwald's identity had been challenged by the defense after he had testified, for one thing, that M. Caillaux had told him in the midst of the war that France must have peace with Germany at any cost.

M. Lescouve said that an investigation had proved beyond doubt that Rosenwald's real name was Leon Kahn, who was born in Alsace-Lorraine in 1851. The prosecutor added that he had ordered proceedings brought against Kahn on the ground that he had used the name of Rosenwald instead of his real one in the documents on which he had traveled in Europe.

In closing his address the prosecutor asked the court to find M. Caillaux guilty as charged, but he refrained from asking the death penalty for the accused.

M. Lescouve, speaking of Mr. Caillaux's alleged pro-German activities, said it was possible that M. Caillaux might have had in view only the interests of France, but that what was permissible before the war became a crime after the opening of hostilities.

VETERANS ASK CANADA'S AID

Urge Increased Allowance for Former Soldiers Living Here.

OTTAWA, April 14.—Increased allowances for Canadian war veterans living in the United States were urged on a parliamentary committee today by E. G. Nightingale, Vice President of the American Volunteers in the Canadian Expeditionary Force. The cost of living, he said, was 20 per cent higher in the United States than in Canada.

In Chicago, Nightingale asserted, men with empty sleeves were victims of arrogant commercialism, and war records and decorations in a "pro-German" city were not worth anything.

He claimed that there were 5,000 Canadian veterans in Chicago alone, but the secretary of the committee said that Canadian pensioners throughout the United States totalled only 5,365.

Nightingale said that some papers in the United States like to hold up a disabled Canadian veteran as an example of Britain's neglect of her soldiers.

DEPEW FAVORS BIG MIDDLE-CLASS UNION

Could Check Unfair Strikes, He Says at Merchants' Association Luncheon.

Speaking at a luncheon of the Merchants' Association at the Hotel Astor, where the subject was transportation, Chauncey M. Depew proposed one big union of middle class people as a solution to the present industrial difficulties.

"I have been dealing with unions all my life," Mr. Depew said. "I never had any trouble with them. I believe in them, if you can get down to a fair, square, man-to-man talk with them, as to what is needed on the one side, on the other, and on all sides. But there is one thing that must not be forgotten, and that is that no section, no class, no occupation can prevent the movements in the other occupations from exercising their functions, and the only way to stop that is to have a new union, a new union of the middle class men of this country, and the middle class women of this country, who constitute 80 or 90 per cent. of our population, and let them form a union which shall declare that all classes must be treated fairly, squarely, rightly, justly and righteously."

A. H. Smith, President of the New York Central lines and former Eastern Regional Director in the era of Federal control, found much cause for optimism in the present strike, despite its seriousness.

"This strike," said Mr. Smith, "is rather a proof of morale. You see, you read and you hear of the difficulties, and what men are not doing. We on the inside see the reverse of it; we see the loyalty of the majority, that stand back there and are doing many things in your behalf and in the country's behalf generally.

"And it proves to me that fundamentally these railroads, their employes, are sound, they are good Americans, and they are proving their worth as American citizens. A few hot-heads have gotten away, but that does not mean that the whole thing is wrong. And so I take courage and I take hope in the experiences that we are going through, that really it is not anything like as bad as it might be. And when we look back to see what we have all been through in the last few years, the railroads have been in this thing since the beginning of the war."

Veering to a discussion of the west side problem, Mr. Smith said a prominent newspaper recently had called the so-called "Death Avenue" line of the company the "life line of New York City." He told of its effectiveness in 1918, when the river was frozen and the food and fuel situations were precarious, detailed the bringing in in the present strike of 1,640 cars of food—some 64,000,000 pounds—as well as fuel and news print paper, and went on to scold the metropolis for "living from hand to mouth" and "having a cold chill in three days as to whether you are going to starve or freeze to death."

The railroad situation, the speaker said, is where it was twenty or thirty years ago in this city. Harlem with nearly a million population has "freight facilities in keeping with a village or an up-State city of 15,000 or 20,000." There is a long freight haul downtown and an expensive truck haul back again, and there should be warehouses lined down the west side so there could be scientific, efficient distribution and a waste of $200,000 a day eliminated.

George C. Taylor, President of the American Railway Express Company, argued against the restoration of the express service to the original separate companies, saying millions had been saved in the elimination of duplicate service. He admitted service had not been up to standard, expressed the opinion that it would take two years to bring it back to normal and outlined reasons for continuing the present united operation.

New Equipment to Relieve Our Car Shortage

A RAILROAD is worth to you what it can give you in transportation service. Our system, like all the railroads of the country, is short of rolling stock, and this problem is yours as well as ours. The cost of railroad inability to handle traffic falls directly on business men, and indirectly on the public at large. A considerable element in the maintenance of the present high prices is the lack of cars for prompt and adequate movement of foodstuffs, raw materials, builders' supplies and manufactured articles.

We have arranged to acquire new equipment which will cost $48,318,300. This will include:

|---|---|
| 196 locomotives | 105 all-steel passenger coaches |
| 4000 all-steel box cars | 80 all-steel baggage cars |
| 4000 coal cars | 30 milk cars |
| 994 stock cars | 12 all-steel combination cars |

We are rebuilding 1000 coal cars now out of service, at a cost of approximately $2,000,000, adding that number of 55-ton all-steel coal cars to our equipment. It is hoped to have a large part of this new rolling stock in service next fall.

WE would like to buy more equipment. We need it and your business next fall will require it, if handled according to the standard of our service before the war. But with the money market as it is at present, and with expenditures of $50,000,000 more contemplated for improvements and extension of facilities which also will have to be financed by borrowing, we are not in position now to order more than the equipment we have contracted for.

RAILROADS today are the bottle-neck of the industrial world. Once they were developed beyond the demands on them. Now industry is being retarded because they cannot meet the demands. The bottle-neck must be widened or the pressure on it reduced.

It is unthinkable that industrial expansion should be checked at a time when intensive production is so urgently needed. Therefore railroad facilities must be improved and increased to be adequate to industry's ever-growing demands. This is your phase of the problem.

We submit for the serious thought of those most directly concerned, the business men of the nation, the subject of aid to railroad development by investment in railroad securities. Our lines are doing, and will do, their best to serve you. But we, as all the railroads, need the co-operation of the public.

JOHNSON AND WOOD CENTRE ON JERSEY

Whirlwind Tours Will Be Made in the Two Weeks Preceding the Primary.

SENATORS AID COLLEAGUE

Borah, Kenyon and Norris to Invade State—General Wood to Speak.

Managers of the campaigns of Major Gen. Leonard Wood and Senator Hiram W. Johnson for the Republican presidential nomination will centre all their attention for the next two weeks upon New Jersey, that being the next State to hold a presidential preferential primary. Elated by his success in carrying the Michigan primary, and over the fact that some 47,000 voters wrote his name on ballots in the Illinois primary, Senator Johnson intends to make a whirlwind tour of New Jersey with the hope of adding its twenty-eight delegates to the list he already has.

Although hampered by the fact that General Wood has given up campaigning to resume his military duties, managers of his campaign do not intend to let Mr. Johnson get the State without the bitterest kind of a fight. Although Senator Johnson personally will invade the State again, he will rely mainly upon prominent speakers to get the support of the voters. Senators Borah, Kenyon and Norris will start speaking in the northern sections of the State early next week. Senator Johnson is scheduled to address several meetings in Newark and Camden on Friday and Saturday of next week.

The Wood managers will match every Johnson speaker with one of their own, their list including Senator Moses, Dr. McN. McElroy of Princeton and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson. The speaking dates arranged for General Wood will be maintained and both factions will flood the State with oratory right up to primary day on April 27.

Lineup in the State.

The Wood supporters have a "Big Four" ticket and candidates in nine of the twelve Congressional districts. The Johnson men have two candidates for delegates at large and candidates in nine districts, the candidates in the other three districts being considered Wood supporters. Senators Frelinghuysen and Edge refused to pledge themselves in advance for either candidate, but Mr. Frelinghuysen, in a letter yesterday to Angus McSween, Eastern campaign manager for Johnson, declared he would vote for Senator Johnson at the Chicago convention "if the majority of the voters of the Republican Party declare for Senator Johnson." Mr. McSween said he had received a letter from Senator Edge pledging his support to Mr. Johnson on the same basis.

Managers of both Wood and Johnson camps expressed satisfaction yesterday over the result of the Illinois primaries. "Senator Johnson's unsolicited vote in Illinois is, in my opinion, the greatest commentary on his popularity yet brought to public attention," said Mr. McSween. "Any statement that we were parties to the 'write-in' movement for Johnson in that State is without foundation. The result of the election was just as much a surprise to us as it was to the country at large. The writing in of 60,000 names is something unprecedented in political history."

Mr. McSween received this message from Senator Johnson from Dorchester, Neb.:

"The most significant and remarkable occurrence in this campaign is the number in Illinois who wrote my name in on the ballots. If I had been on the ballot we would undoubtedly have carried the State."

At the Wood headquarters this statement was received from Chicago: "When it is considered that Leonard Wood had no organization and little newspaper support either in Chicago or down State, the showing he has made is very satisfactory indeed."

Wood Estimates in Illinois.

Reports reaching Eastern headquarters as to the number of delegates in Illinois likely to vote for General Wood differ and range from fourteen to twenty, it was declared.

Bryan Wants Anti-Profiteer Plank.

WYMORE, Neb., April 14.—William Jennings Bryan today went on record as favoring an anti-profiteer plank in the Democratic national platform. Speaking in his campaign for election as a delegate to the Democratic National Convention yesterday, he came out for that idea, and reiterated declarations against universal military training and advocacy of steps to protect the Federal prohibition amendment and the Volstead act.

COULD NOT DECLINE, PERSHING DECLARES

No Patriotic American, He Says, Could Refuse Presidential Nomination if Called.

BUT IS NOT A CANDIDATE

Urges Protection of San Labor and the Farmer in an Address to Nebraskans.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—While General Pershing is not seeking a Presidential nomination, he told fellow-Nebraskans here tonight at a reception in his honor by the Nebraska Society that "no patriotic American could decline to serve" if called by the people.

The statement followed references by other speakers to a movement in Nebraska to name General Pershing as the "favorite son" of that State for the Republican nomination.

"It seems fitting that I should say to you, my friends," General Pershing said, "that my whole life has been devoted to the service of our country; and, while in no sense seeking it, I feel that no patriotic American could decline to serve in that high position if called upon to do so by the people."

General Pershing also expressed his views as a Nebraskan as to labor and agricultural problems.

"Labor in Nebraska is especially honorable," he said, "and the laboring man there is held in high esteem. Through his intelligence he occupies an important place is in the community. He is not carried away by vague or idle theories of government and does not follow false or revolutionary leaders.

"Nebraska labor maintains a sane and patriotic attitude toward our institutions and stands ever ready to defend them. It is for all of us to see that the laboring man always receives the consideration due him and his family and that he be not allowed to suffer in competition with cheaper labor in or from foreign lands."

Agriculture, General Pershing said, was Nebraska's basic industry.

"Although the scarcity of help greatly curtailed their efficiency," he added, "no class of citizens in the union did more to sustain the allied peoples and their armies during the war than the farmers. They must not in future be surrounded with hampering restrictions, onerous regulations or adverse market conditions which prevent the fulfillment of this duty toward the millions of people the world over who depend upon them for food supply."

Praising Nebraska's community spirit, General Pershing said that the welfare of the whole people means the welfare of the individuals.

"Our pioneer people," he said, "have not forgotten that it was the integrity and patriotism of the communities of Colonial days from which sprang the great principles of government handed down to us by our forefathers."

GEN. WOOD DENOUNCES CHARGES BY M'SWEEN

Declares 'Wholly False' the Statement That He Would Deny Rights to Workers.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 14.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood, now on the way to Chicago to resume active command of the Central Department during the strike emergency, denounced as wholly false, un-American and unpatriotic the statement issued in New York yesterday by Angus McSween, campaign manager for Senator Hiram Johnson, in which Mr. McSween charged, among other things, that "it must be obvious to every one that General Wood is making himself the representative of that class which would deny constitutional rights to men and women of humble position."

After reading Mr. McSween's statement, General Wood dictated and signed the following:

"General Wood, when asked about the charges of Senator Johnson's manager, expressed great surprise at the character of the attack, which was to the effect that the General did not stand for constitutional rights of all persons, and that he denied these rights to all except such persons who believe in machine gun government and the strengthening of special privileges.

"The General said that any such implication was wholly false and a direct contradiction of his daily statements insisting upon constitutional guarantees and warning against special class legislation or privilege. He felt that the attack was vicious and did not have Senator Johnson's personal sanction, and was made for the purpose of adversely affecting the vote of those who work.

"The General went on to say that there is no one in America today who is working harder for the establishment of conditions of industrial justice and better understanding, with a view to bettering conditions of those who work, than he, and in support of this referred to numerous addresses recently made in which this subject is dealt with. He went on to deprecate the introduction of false, vicious and misleading statements into politics—statements tending to prejudice one group of our people against another—denouncing this practice as un-American and unpatriotic."

Regarding the election in Illinois General Wood issued the following signed statement:

"I am very much pleased with results in Illinois. We had hoped to make an excellent showing there and we have done so. The victory in Cook County is most satisfactory and significant. As there are many returns still to come in, it is too early to predict what the final outcome will be in other sections of the State.

"I am returning to Chicago and giving up my leave temporarily because of the gravity of the railroad situation. I feel that I should be at my post of duty and that public interest must be given precedence over personal or private interests. I regret I was unable to keep many engagements in the East, but it is simply a case of duty first."

If the strike situation clarifies itself by next Monday General Wood probably will begin that day a week's campaign for the indorsement by Ohio Republicans of his candidacy for the Republican Presidential nomination.

BAR COMMITTEE ASSAILS LUSK BILLS

SEE A PERIL TO THE COURTS

These Would Be Dragged Into Politics If the Bills Became Law, the Committee Asserts.

Sweeping condemnation of the Lusk bills for the barring of the Socialist Party from participation in the politics and government of this State is found in a report made public last night by the City Bar Association's Committee on Amendment of the Law, of which Louis Marshall is Chairman.

"These extraordinary bills are revolutionary in their character," the document says. "They seem like an echo from the days of George III.' To one imbued with the genius of our institutions they sound strange. However to the reader of English constitutional history of the eighteenth century they strike a familiar note. While purporting to preserve 'the rights, privileges and institutions secured' under the Constitutions of the United States and the State of New York, if enacted they would subvert and endanger these Constitutions and destroy the equilibrium of the three great departments of 'the existing Governments' of the United States and of the State of New York."

After reviewing briefly the provisions of the bills, the report continues:

"The fundamental provision of both of these bills is so crude—one is tempted to say raw—an example of draftsmanship, that the proverbial coach and four can easily be driven through them. What are 'the principles, doctrines or policies' which, if carried into effect, tend to 'the destruction, subversion or endangering of the existing Governments'? Are they political, religious, economic? Are they principles, doctrines or policies which, under the terms of any constitutional provision or of statute law, are made criminal? Is there any standard prescribed by which they are to be weighed and measured? The bills are silent on this important point."

It is argued that under the phraseology of the bills believers in the single tax, for example, might be disfranchised, since they do not believe in the right of owning real property and hence advocate the destruction, subversion or endangering of one of the "rights, privileges and institutions secured under such Constitutions." Similarly, it is said, opponents of the Eighteenth Amendment might run afoul of the proposed law, as well as advocates of many other changes in the provisions of the Government.

The report goes on to argue at length, citing many court decisions, that the proposed legislation would be in violation of Article 1, Section 2 of the Constitution of the State, guaranteeing a citizen against disfranchisement except by due process of law or the judgment of his peers, and adds:

"But this is merely preliminary to a consideration of the manifold iniquities of these bills, which are intended to bind and gag and restrict citizens of this State from exercising their constitutional rights and from advocating at the ballot box the principles, doctrines or policies in which they believe. They may be foolish; they may be repellent to a trained mind; if accepted they may even prove injurious, as many other doctrines have been in the past and will be to the end of time; yet never before in the history of this State has it been attempted by legislation to sit in judgment upon the political or economic views of any part of our citizenship.

There resides a more insidious and, we again repeat, a more revolutionary peril in these measures. It lies in the fact that the Appellate Division of the Third Department of the Supreme Court has been singled out to sit in judgment on the principles, doctrines and policies of any political party and is enabled to render an ultimate decree whereby such a party may be excommunicated and outlawed. The judicial department of our Government is called upon to depart from its constitutional functions and to exercise political power. The foundations of our entire governmental system are thereby endangered.

"Fortunately our courts have hitherto been kept out of politics. They have been wisely confined to the determination of justiciable controversies arising in actual litigation relating to property and personal rights and to the enforcement of the penal laws of the State. By this legislation they would be empowered to determine matters of policy, the soundness of political principles, of economic doctrines, of religious beliefs. They are to establish standards by which the rights of citizens to exercise their political privileges are to be governed.

"Fortunately one of the vital principles of the Constitution which the authors of these bills claim to champion prevents this threatened calamity to our judicial system. Almost at the very inception of the Supreme Court of the United States that tribunal laid down the rule in Hayburn's Case, 2 Dall. 409, that neither the legislative nor the executive branch of the Government of the United States can assign to the judicial branch any duties other than those that are properly judicial, to be performed in a judicial manner."

NEWSPRINT STRIKE AVERTED

Manufacturers and Workers Agree to 20 Per Cent. Wage Rise.

Danger of a strike of newsprint paper makers was ended yesterday at a meeting of representatives of the union and of leading manufacturers of newsprint at the Murray Hill Hotel. It was agreed to renew existing contracts in the industry for the next year, with a general increase of 20 per cent. for all classes of labor.

Eleven of the largest newsprint manufacturers in the country were represented at the meeting. Their combined output is more than 3,000 tons daily.

REPORT ON SOVIET TRADE.

Advocates Report Finding Colby "Receptive," Wilson Uninterested.

The special committee of the "American Commercial Association," founded to promote trade relations with Soviet Russia, which visited Washington last month, reported yesterday to that association that the delegates were unable to see Secretary Lansing, but found Secretary Colby more receptive.

"He gave us the impression that things are moving toward the resumption of trade with Russia," said one of the committee members. Another delegate said the commission had been hampered by President Wilson's "lack of interest" in their endeavors, which they were unable to explain.

Santeri Nuorteva, Secretary of the Russian Soviet Bureau, addressed the meeting and again told how Lenin and Trotsky were ready to use a part of their $575,000,000 gold reserve to establish credit with American merchants.

Nuorteva denied there was a large amount of the stolen Rumanian gold in Petrograd.

"We have from $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 of Rumania's gold," he admitted. "But she has grabbed Bessarabia. When she is willing to give it back to us we will let her have the gold."

JAIL LIQUOR SMUGGLERS.

Montreal Man Gets Two Years, Another a Year and a Day.

SYRACUSE, April 14.—Richard Warner of Montreal, whisky smuggler, was this afternoon sentenced to two years in Atlanta Prison when he pleaded guilty in Federal Court to six indictments, each charging him with smuggling whisky into this country. A prison sentence of two years was imposed for each count, but they are to run concurrently.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—A new invention for determining the life of rubber products, notably automobile tires, was announced today to the American Chemical Society in a paper by the only woman member of the rubber section of the society—Miss Irene C. Diner, 25 years old, a student in New York University, who also advanced an entirely new theory of vulcanization and of elasticity, and appeared to explain certain phenomena in the structure of rubber hitherto regarded as mysterious.

It is reported that Miss Diner refused the urgings of certain automobile tire manufacturers that she keep secret her discovery for their benefit, and has chosen to give out the results of her two years of experimentation for the advancement of science.

Miss Diner's invention is said to make it possible to foretell much more accurately and surely than heretofore by microscopic examinations and search for certain wearing qualities, which she discovered, the actual miles any automobile tire may be expected to travel. She is the daughter of the Professor of Chemistry in Fordham University, New York, and is a graduate of Columbia University.

Dyes of a vivid green, as well as the difficult brown and blue vat dyes for men's shirts are the latest property discovered in corn cobs, long lauded in rivalry of meerschaum for pipes. Conversion of certain properties of cobs into the base for dyes was described to the dye section of the society by Dr. K. P. Monroe, of the United States Bureau of Chemistry.

This dye substance is known as furfural, which long has been regarded as a laboratory curiosity, Dr. Monroe says, because its distillation from wood costs about $17 a pound. Recent experiments, however, have disclosed that it can be extracted from corn cobs in the same process by which cellulose is obtained, and at a cost of only 15 cents a pound.

ST. LOUIS, April 14 (Associated Press).—Chlorine gas may come into universal use as an influenza preventive, in the opinion of members of the American Chemical Society. At a conference of the biological section today, members said initial tests during the recent epidemic tended strongly to bear out their theory, but they agreed that the rapid decrease in the number of influenza cases did not permit conclusive investigations.

The most extensive tests, it was said, were conducted at the University of Arkansas by Dr. Harrison Hale, head of the department of chemistry there. Eight hundred treatments were administered to 184 volunteers, who remained five minutes daily in a room containing a small amount of gas. Only one of them developed influenza, it was said, and in that instance, it was believed, the disease previously had been contracted.

King George Honors Louis Tracy.

The recently announced list of British honors shows that Louis Tracy, the novelist, has been made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire. Mr. Tracy was with the British War Mission in this city from its establishment, and remained in charge of the winding up of the affairs of the Bureau of Information, which closed last November. He has recently entered the motion picture field, and several of his books are about to be shown on the screen. Mr. Tracy will sail for England on the Adriatic a week from Saturday but expects to return in October.

Automatic Hot Water Service At All Times

Would you like to have an endless supply of clean, fresh, piping-hot water in your home, ready for use any time—every time—a hot-water faucet is opened? Would it not be a wonderful convenience and comfort, especially if that service was absolutely free from even the necessity of striking a match?

This is exactly the service you have, day and night, winter and summer, year after year, from the

AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER

When you open a hot-water faucet, powerful gas burners are lighted automatically from a tiny pilot light. Fresh water is heated instantly and hurried to you. Piping-hot water comes at once and continues as long as the faucet is open. A thermostat maintains uniform water temperature. Closing the faucet shuts off gas. Expense stops. Only water needed at the time is heated. Supply is not limited as from a tank. And water is always fresh—never re-heated. All this costs but a few cents a day. Cheaper than the furnace coil or kitchen tank.

The Humphrey is beautiful and durable; strongly and sturdily built, and handsomely finished in green and gold. No other would bring a greater daily comfort for every member of the household. Investigate the Humphrey NOW. See any plumber; or come to our show-rooms for demonstration.

Gov.
Calvin Coolidge
Says:

"WE need forever to remember that representative government does represent. A careless, indifferent representative is the result of a careless, indifferent electorate. The people who start to elect a man to get what he can for his district will probably find they have elected a man who will get what he can for himself."

Forty-three public addresses by Governor Coolidge have been gathered into a book under the title

"Have Faith In Massachusetts"

It is a book of sound guidance for times like these—a book that will make you a little prouder of being an American. There is something almost Lincolnesque in the independence of Coolidge's thinking and the vigorous simplicity of his style.

The Morning World of April 7 states that a good custom tailored suit cannot be purchased at $40.00. This is true—based upon the cost of production at present-day high prices, plus 25% for overhead expenses, which The World's article concedes is necessary to the Retailer to conduct his business.

We also pay high wages and high prices for woolens and trimmings—BUT instead of 25% for overhead—we figure 10%—BECAUSE we operate OUR RETAIL DEPARTMENT from our Wholesale Headquarters.

in Park-Taylor Suits and Topcoats and the ordinary run of Clothes. Ours are distinguished by the skilled workmanship of Master-Tailors—that quality which makes our Clothes look better for a longer time than others.

That's why we are sometimes sorry our prices are so low. Men find it hard to believe that they can get smart style, all-wool fabrics and expert workmanship for prices as low as $30 to $75.

But forget prices—come up and judge Park-Taylor Clothes on their own merits. When you've picked your Suit or Topcoat you'll pay a low price because

IF mechanics is the chief appeal and means more than appearance and beauty, the new Mitchell will delight you.

Its appearance you can appraise at a glance. You'll note that it is the latest in style and finish.

But go into the mechanical features, if you wish. We'll enjoy showing you its superioritics. Its over values. The many ways that the Mitchell adds endurance.

We'll be glad to take you for a road demonstration. Let you sit at the wheel and drive it—let you feel the eager response, the easy driving qualities.

Then sit in the rear seat, while we take you over smooth and rough roads. Get the comfortable way this car rides, due to the famous Mitchell cantilever springs and finest upholstering in real leather.

Let us examine the car all over, standing still and on the road. We invite every question, every comparison. We have a case to prove that you'll be glad to have us prove.

For it'll mean a finer car for you at a real saving. You can't duplicate the Mitchell for considerably more. Come in today.

INJUNCTION IS THREATENED

Trustees Asked in Petition to Enforce Restrictions in Original Covenant.

Gramercy Park property owners are planning to oppose actively the use of the old Stanford White house at Lexington Avenue and Twenty-first Street by the Young Women's Christian Association as a clubhouse for girls.

Contending that such occupancy would violate the Gramercy Park restriction permitting only dwelling improvements along the park, a large group of interested owners have presented a petition to the Gramercy Park Trustees, invoking the power of the restriction. It is maintained that the occupancy of this prominent corner by a charitable organization would be against the spirit of the restriction, that it would create undesirable traffic and would seriously affect realty values. One owner declared that, if necessary, he would institute injunction proceedings to prevent its use for the purposes announced.

Miss Grace Bigelow, daughter of the late John Bigelow, who is one of the trustees managing and maintaining Gramercy Park, said yesterday, that the proposed use of the corner was clearly a violation of the restrictive covenant.

"The Board of Trustees has not officially met to consider the petition," said Miss Bigelow.

"No definite action will probably be taken until Mrs William Fellowes Morgan, who is head of the Young Women's Christian Association, returns from out of town.

"So far as we know, the International Institute for Young Women intends to utilize the property for the teaching of English to aliens, a worthy purpose, but one nevertheless which might just as well be conducted in other parts of the city, where long established residential communities might not be so adversely affected."

The property is located at the northwest corner of Lexington Avenue and Twenty-first Street and has been owned for a number of years by Henry A. C. Taylor, who sold it about ten days ago to the Young Women's Christian Association. It consists of a five-story structure with a two-story addition, on a plot 58 by 131, and at one time was occupied by the Princeton Club.

HARTS DEFENDS HIS WORK.

Tells House Committee He Improved Army Conditions in Paris.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Brig. Gen. Harts, former Commandant of American troops in the Paris district, told a House investigating committee today that General Pershing gave him full responsibility to cope with conditions arising from misdemeanors of American officers and enlisted men.

General Harts said he had not sought command of Paris but it was given him by General Pershing, who declared that "officers and men in Paris were behaving in such a way as to give the American Army a bad name."

"I think I improved conditions and did it well," the witness added.

Asked by Chairman Johnson who was responsible for prison conditions at Chelles, France, the General replied that Colonel Grinstead, Commander of the Prison, had been found efficient by a board of officers.

Responding to a query concerning the three-year sentence given Lieutenant "Hard Boiled" Smith for brutalities toward prisoners, General Harts said Smith must have exceeded his authority.

TYPHUS RAGING IN UKRANIA.

250,000 Cases Reported in the Area of Polish Occupation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, April 14.—According to a statement of the Ukrainian Bureau in Copenhagen, health conditions in the territories occupied by the Poles are terrible. Typhus fever is spreading, and there are now 250,000 cases in Eastern Galicia, Volhynia and Podolia, and the number of deaths per month is 25,000.

INQUIRY ON DE MOTT CASE.

State Department Announces Thorough Investigation Will Be Made.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A thorough investigation of the killing of Paul R. De Mott, an American citizen, who was shot while attempting to escape from a prison at Wesel, Germany, will be made, it was said today at the State Department. An official report of the shooting was received today from American Commissioner Dresel at Berlin.

Commissioner Dresel said that following the shooting of De Mott a representative of the German Foreign Office called at the headquarters of the American Mission to express "the profound regret of the German Government." The Foreign Office, the Commissioner's report said, also had called for further details of the incident, which would be communicated to the American Mission.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

George M. Cohan has agreed to write a comedy in which Leon Errol will be presented in the Fall. The Messrs. Erlanger and Ziegfeld will be the producers.

"Ladies' Day," a farce by Edward Peple, will be produced in Atlantic City on April 26 by H. H. Frazee. The piece calls for a cast of forty.

"Alice in Wonderland" will be continued at the Little Theatre next week, with performances scheduled for Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons and Saturday morning.

Graduate students of Carnegie Institute of Fine Arts will be seen at the Neighborhood Playhouse on Saturday and Sunday, April 24 and 25, in "John Gabriel Borkman." The Neighborhood Players will give their final performances of "The Glittering Gate" and "The Beautiful Sabine Women" this week-end.

MARY GARDEN SAILS.

She is to Sing in Paris in June—Walter Damrosch Leaves.

Mary Garden of the Chicago Grand Opera Company sailed yesterday for Havre on the French liner France to sing at the National Opera House in Paris during the month of June. In July she will go to Italy for study and then spend a vacation at her country place near Monte Carlo.

"I had a wonderful season this year," the singer said, "and expect to have even a better one next year. I feel it now and shall be eager to return to America in November."

Walter Damrosch, the conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, also sailed on the France, accompanied by his wife and daughters. The orchestra will follow him on the Rochambeau, sailing April 22. He said he looked forward to a triumphal tour of his orchestra through France, Italy and England.

Helen Jeffrey, Violinist, Plays.

Helen Jeffrey, who gave her only violin recital of the year yesterday at Aeolian Hall and the second public concert of her local career, played with a wealth of vivid temperament and a tone of surprising power, not always controlled, some string-searching classics for the bow arm of past-masters of the fiddle. Fritz Kreisler's arrangements of a Bach prelude in E and gavotte in the same key were grouped with Bach's air on the G string and another Kreisler version of the Tartini ("Devil's Trill"). Miss Jeffrey's audience was plainly swept with her communicative enthusiasm, the unconscious delight of a girl in storming forbidding heights of violin technique. She gave with Samuel Chotainoff the concerto by Conus, that Heifets lately played, with two lesser Kreisler pieces and others by Nachez, Sarasate and Wieniawski.

Two Killed in Rome-Tokio Flight.

KARACHI, British India, April 13.—Captain Gordesco and Lieutenant Grassi, two Italian aviators engaged in the Rome-to-Tokio flight, were killed at Bushire, on the eastern shore of the Persian Gulf, today. They were attempting to land after crossing the gulf when their machine crashed to the ground.

THE OPERA

By Richard Aldrich

The New Symphony's Last Concerts.

The New Symphony Orchestra is bringing to a close its season and its existence under its present name. It will start next season as the National Symphony Orchestra. Its last evening concert was given yesterday in Carnegie Hall, to be repeated tomorrow afternoon. The program comprised Pergolesi's Concertino in F minor for string orchestra, arranged by Sam Franko; Bach's violin concerto in E, played by Fritz Kreisler, and Beethoven's "Pastoral" symphony.

Mr. Franko's editing of Pergolesi's concertino has doubtless been in the way of making it "practical" on the modern concert platform. As it stands now, it is an impressive piece of pre-classical music; music of essential nobility and dignity, dealing not in eighteenth century formulas but in substance and expression. The strings of the orchestra played it with sonority and with finish of phrasing, if not with all the mellowness and transparent beauty of tone that might be wished for.

Mr. Bodansky's reading of the Pastoral symphony was marked by animation, by a pointed and elastic rhythm that was a delight to hear, and by an elaborate working out of the light and shade.

The concerto by Bach has in recent years been a stranger to the New York concert stage; but it may be recommended to violinists seeking some escape from the limitations of their repertory. Mr. Kreisler made much of it; his playing was warm and deeply expressive, sometimes not exactly in tune, but not often enough falling therein to matter seriously. The slow movement has an especial beauty thoroughly characteristic of Bach's most poetic musical thought and Mr. Kreisler's delivery of it had that kind of beauty. He was most enthusiastically greeted and enthusiastically applauded for his performance, being recalled to the platform several times.

SAYS SIMS OPPOSED MINES.

Strauss Declares Navy Prepared for War and Laid Barrage.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Some sidelights on the navy's preparation for war were given the Senate Investigating Committee today by Rear Admiral Strauss, former Chief of Ordnance, who was in charge of laying and later of removing the North Sea mine barrage.

Admiral Strauss said that as soon as the World War started in 1914 the navy began laying in a large supply of reserve guns of all calibres, powder and projectiles with the result that when the United States entered the war, there was no shortage of this equipment.

The witnes told the committee that the navy deserved full credit for the North Sea mine barrage, as the British Admiralty and Rear Admiral Sims failed to approve the project when it was first suggested.

"Butterfly" Sung for Eighth Time.

"Madame Butterfly" was sung at the Metropolitan last evening for the eighth time this season, which is more often than any other Italian favorite has been heard. Indeed, its record will be matched only by a French novelty, "The Blue Bird," reaching an eighth performance at tomorrow's special matinee. Mme. Farrar as usual was the Butterfly last night, Miss Gordon the Suzuki, Mr. Scotti the Yankee Consul. As the American Navy Lieutenant, illstarred in Japan but not on Broadway, Mr. Lazaro appeared for the first time, as previously Martinelli had done on four occasions, and once each Kingston, Harrold and Hackett, the last two Americans. Mr. Moranzoni again conducted, and there was a full house.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Metropolitan's last day for accepting renewals of subscriptions for next season will be on Saturday of this week. An official member of the Opera House staff said yesterday that the rush to subscribe was "practically unanimous."

An invitation performance of Weber's "Abu Hassan" tomorrow at the Institute of Musical Art will be repeated on Saturday in the Recital Hall.

The Zimro Chamber Music Ensemble will give a benefit for the Misrachi Fund on Saturday evening at Wadleigh High School.

CIRCUS FOR ORPHANS.

This Year's Special Performance to be a Record-Breaker.

The biggest party that this town has known in many a day is coming off a week from Monday—on April 26. The hosts are the Ringling Brothers; the guests—the kids of the city orphan asylums and homes for crippled children; the occasion, a special morning circus performance in Madison Square Garden.

The engravers could not finish in time the 15,000 or more invitations that are required, it was explained yesterday, so the circus managers have asked the newspapers to spread the word. Here it is:

"Matrons and Superintendents of orphan asylums and crippled children's homes in Greater New York are requested to communicate at once—by letter (do not use telephone)—with Secretary, Ringling Brothers, Madison Square Garden, stating the number of orphans cared for in their asylum."

In years past an afternoon had been set aside for the orphans, but owing to the big rush to the circus this year and the limited season here that plan had to be abandoned.

When the Ringling Brothers spoke to some of their performers about an extra show—which means three shows a day for them—there was an immediate response.

"Say, we'd rather play to that bunch of kids than anybody in the world," said one of them.

George Hartzell, who for more than twenty years has been one of the chief funmakers for the Ringling Brothers, called a special meeting of the clowns right away and they are working overtime to get up new "stunts" for the kiddie audience. The animals are being "slicked up," the aerialists and acrobats are devising new thrillers, and the equestrians are working on stunts that have never been tried.

The Ringling Brothers, themselves, have already decided upon several additional features which, added to the regular program, will combine to make this the greatest performance ever.

BREAKING UP.

It is an old truth, the threadbareness of which doesn't change its permanency, that no strike can be successful unless it is supported by public opinion. Against the present strike public opinion is unanimous. It has become evident that the public sees no essential element of justice in a strike arranged by nobody knows whom, not for the advantage of the strikers, and to the disruption of the great labor unions. They can go no further than public opinion sustains them. If necessary, volunteer service would supply, as it supplied in the great English railway strike, a competent substitute.

That being the case, the best thing the strikers can do is to give up a movement into which they were seduced by a misrepresentation of the facts. They were induced to believe that their action was in harmony with the real wishes of their leaders. They know better now. They know now that they were led by false pretenses; that the strike was against their permanent advantage and the security and strength of labor organizations, sagaciously and competently led.

The appointment of the Railroad Labor Board sufficiently answers the dissatisfactions and unrealized expectations which have been played upon so adroitly by the radicals who are seeking to subvert the judicious processes by which organized labor has attained so much. It has attained, it can attain, nothing in which it does not have general public support.

This strike was a mistake. It was founded on a misconception. The sooner all the strikers return the better for their interests and for the permanent interest of organized labor. They can depend upon Washington always for justice.

HEAVENLY HARMONY.

We are assured by our Republican friends, early and often, that the Republicans are going to elect the next President. It would be indelicate to doubt it in view of the spirit of concord and brotherly love that speaks and works so impressively among them. Brethren in unity can have no fear that their eirenic disposition will not be rewarded. So, to the student of friendship and amenity it is edifying to observe the equal temper of heroic Republican hearts. Mr. POMERENE assails General WOOD. The friends of Mr. HARDING and of Mr. WOOD give their unprejudiced and always delightful opinions of one another in Ohio and Indiana and elsewhere. Lowdenite and Woodite clash. The wise and deep BOIES PENROSE justies the equally wise and deep and engaging FRANK HITCHCOCK in the South, where so many Republican votes are cast. Each candidate shudders at the vile attempts of every other candidate to debauch the electorate. A happy band of brothers!

It may be said that this sodality of Republican candidates, pleasing as it is, is only natural. When, however, we find the two chief pluckers at Mr. ROOSEVELT'S mantle, the two main inditors of the Giant's Robe, dwelling in Progressive peace and amity, even the lachrymal ducts of the cynic must exude eye-offending brine. Mr. JOHNSON'S manager in New York, Mr. JAMES MCSWEEN, drips with campaign honey:

> In his latest utterances it must be obvious to every one that General WOOD is making himself a representative of that class in the United States which would deny constitutional rights to men and women of humble position and further reveals him as the opponent of all that THEODORE ROOSEVELT stood for. The pretense of the supporters that General WOOD is the natural heir to the Roosevelt strength is, on the face of it, ridiculous.

When not only the sometime Republican reactionaries, but the opponents of the reactionaries, when Rooseveltians and anti-Rooseveltians are so fond of one another, so sweetly specific, so thoroughly united; when the Republicans are so thoroughly agreed not merely in regard to candidates but to principles; when Mr. HENRY CABOT LODGE, for instance, is so sympathetic to Senator COLT of Rhode Island; when Mr. BRANDEGEE and Mr. MCCUMBER, Mr. LA FOLLETTE and Mr. KNOX clasp hands; when Mr. BORAH surrounds the entire party, and indeed the world, with his gracious benediction, what well-thinking and benign mind is not stirred to better and loftier thoughts by the absolute harmony and unison of the Republican Party?

A LIVING WAGE FOR TEACHERS.

The crisis in the public schools does not admit of compromise. Only a policy that is constructive and far-seeing can prevent an undermining of the very foundation of American institutions, which is in enlightened character. The problem cannot be attacked too soon, or too boldly. Almost every day brings new evidence of its imminence and urgency.

When the Lockwood-Donohue bill was first urged we learned that in addition to the losses by death and old age the schools of New York had lost, in a single year, more than one thousand teachers, through the resignation of those who could no longer live on their salaries in a self-respecting manner. The number of applicants from the normal schools had fallen off sharply, so that the shortage threatened to be permanent and progressive. Now comes a final touch in the picture of educational destitution. In order to relieve the overburdened teachers who remain, the children in the higher grades have been called upon to teach those in the lower. The "little mothers" of the poorer quarters, pathetic in the impotence of their good-will, are duplicated in "little teachers" throughout the city. And still thousands of children, and tens of thousands, are admitted on part time or denied altogether the American birthright of an education.

Now comes a bit of news even more deeply disquieting. Hitherto the ablest teachers—ablest in character and traditions as well as in intellect—have come from the colleges. A poll taken at Vassar discloses the fact that, though the college has hitherto sent out a constant stream of educators, not one of the graduating class intends to become a teacher. The reason given—lack of adequate pay—may sound selfish and sordid. It is not really so. In no profession can good work be accomplished by men and women who are starved in mind. And that is what the present salaries mean, as also the slightly increased salaries now urged at Albany. Under the conditions of today, parsimony in education means not only a shortage of teachers and the overburdening of those who remain, but an actual drying up of the source of character and efficiency.

The opposition at Albany argues that, as the urgent need is for mere numbers, the chief increases of salary should be in the lower grades of the service. The need of numbers is manifest; but it is not the most urgent need. Equally great is the need of teachers of ability and character. Such teachers will not be secured by any pay schedule which, though it offers attractive terms for the present, gives no promise of advancement of a dignified and productive life work. The Lockwood-Donohue bill is constructive, far-seeing; it contemplates not only the surface requirements of the present, but the vital needs of the future. In that it is at one with all parents, who, absorbing as are the love and the sacrifice of day to day, are inspired and sustained by the thought of the future of their children and of their country.

AT SAN REMO.

The troubles of our day are so exacting that we can rarely give attention to more than one of them at a time, but there are always more waiting. For the moment the Franco-British dispute over relations with Germany is closed, but there are other things to be settled. The Supreme Council meets again at San Remo next Monday. Mr. MILLERAND is taking Marshal FOCH along with him as military adviser, so as to be prepared in case the question of enforcing the Treaty is raised again. The Belgians, it is said, will seek admission to the Supreme Council; not without reason, since that body has shrunk to the representatives of England, France and Italy, and deals with matters in which the Belgians have a very keen interest. But since the Belgians sided with France in the recent difference, and since Italy is known to agree in general with the British opposition, it may be that the French desire to get support in the Council will bring the whole question of Treaty enforcement up again.

There is enough to do without that. Mr. NITTI, who wants Russian wheat to feed Italy, and who, for reasons connected quite as much with internal as with foreign politics, favors complete opening of trade with Russia, is understood to have the intention of bringing up the Russian question to see if something definite cannot be done about it. The Poles are so far repulsing the Bolshevist attacks with ease, but the proposed peace negotiations between Poland and Russia have not yet begun, on account of disagreement over a place of meeting. Poland can hold her own for a long time, but she cannot fight Russia forever single-handed. Something will have to be done about Russia before long, and the San Remo meeting is likely to see a lively exchange of views. Then there is the Turkish question, now complicated by a threatened civil war in Turkey. In the circumstances, it looks as if Belgium deserves representation, for the Council is no longer supreme over anything except the countries represented on it, and Belgium's past and present both entitle her to a voice in its discussions.

THE VOTE OF ILLINOIS.

Governor LOWDEN'S victory in Illinois will not be entirely satisfactory to him. It is his home State and he is its Favorite Son. He ought to have a unanimous delegation, according to the old rule of weighing the candidacies of Favorite Sons. Instead the delegation is split, with LOWDEN, of course, in control of the majority. He made no great showing in South Dakota and did not run well in Michigan, the neighbor State of Illinois. His managers have been actively at work in the South, with results; but the time has passed when Southern delegates could make a nomination in a Republican convention. Besides, his headway in the South was made before FRANK H. HITCHCOCK allied himself to the Wood candidacy and went down there.

WOOD and JOHNSON showed unexpected strength in the Illinois poll. It is becoming more and more evident every day that they are dividing the old Roosevelt strength between them, with WOOD getting the simon-pure Rooseveltes and JOHNSON getting that element which was attracted to ROOSEVELT solely because they counted him a radical—"the lunatic fringe," as ROOSEVELT himself once called that kind of support. Down-State Illinois voted for LOWDEN, with the exception of a few counties, and the real fight was in Chicago. There JOHNSON accomplished the remarkable feat of having more than 40,000 voters take the trouble to write his name on the ballot. He got 5,000 more down-State, but it is the Chicago vote that counts in the political calculations.

The plurality of over 27,000 cast for WOOD in Cook County is undoubtedly a Roosevelt vote in the main, though local opposition to Governor LOWDEN may have played some part in it. It is more likely, however, that voters affected by this consideration voted for JOHNSON. Mayor THOMPSON announced at the beginning that he would keep his hands off, but his lieutenants were busily at work for JOHNSON, in obedience, it is said, to a statement issued by the Mayor Tuesday night. The natural affiliations of THOMPSON and his radical following would be with JOHNSON, and if he did violate his promise to keep hands off it was in JOHNSON'S interest, as the Wood and Lowden managers charge. JOHNSON, of course, got the pacifist and pro-German vote, as he does everywhere. The State outside of Chicago was organized for LOWDEN, and WOOD'S vote was probably made up almost entirely of straight-out Rooseveltes. The same conditions would not exist in some other States, where WOOD'S support might be more mixed in character.

COMMERCIAL CONSTRICTION.

After the conference of the Governors of the Federal Reserve Banks with the members of the Federal Reserve Board a few days ago Washington sent out an authoritative statement that the subject discussed was some "means of checking the increasing flow of commercial paper into the Reserve institutions." This is less welcome than the movement of the Federal Reserve Board to check speculation. It is no particular concern of the Federal Reserve Bank if speculators in either stocks or commodities find it necessary to pay dear in the call money market. It is all in the day's business for speculators to face whatever comes along, consoling themselves that their profits and losses are both liberal and that one recompenses the other.

It is different with trade. Commercial profits are smaller and margins narrower, and stability of the cost of money is the lifeblood of those whose times of turnover in the processes of production and distribution are always long, and exceptionally long in present conditions of both domestic and international trade. The Federal Reserve Bank was created to divorce commercial accommodation from the vicissitudes of the security market, into which it had been necessary for merchants to put their reserves in their dull season, and out of which it was necessary to retrieve them when trade was brisker. But now the Federal Reserve is worried because "commercial paper has almost doubled since November," and there is under discussion a proposal to check the increase by making trade funds more costly.

There is presumption in favor of the Federal Reserve's position, because its information is the best and its prestige is one of the assets of the situation. The country gets most of its information from the Federal Reserve, and comment is based upon it. But the country will hope that the Reserve will think twice before it discourages the rediscount of what it describes as "commercial paper." If it is truly commercial paper, the welfare of merchants requires that accommodation should be as abundant and cheap as the Reserve Board can make it by liberality of rediscounts. There is room and verge enough for the Reserve to exercise its authority. For example, its last weekly statement shows that war paper increased $9,400,000 and its reserve ratio improved. There is now in all Reserve banks $1,410,000,000 of discounts secured by war paper and $957,469,000 of "all others."

While the Reserve is considering raising commercial discounts the security market is absorbing new securities by scores and hundreds of millions. Without prejudice to the quality or necessity of these flotations—some of them choice and almost commercial in their character—it may be said that their claims are inferior to true commercial paper. When it is quoted at rates anywhere near what speculators pay the impression is given that there is scarcity of credit of that sort. Such an idea would be unfortunate at a time when the Treasury is asking accommodations from the banks below the commercial rate, and Congress is not acting in strict accordance with Secretary GLASS'S counsel to foreign budget makers.

Raising the rate of rediscount is the approved method of restricting applications for accommodation, but there are times when the rule fails. The Federal Reserve has reason to know that its restriction of speculative credits in New York was followed by hospitality to them in the other districts. It is only repeating the experience of other national banks which are discovering that time-tried methods produce unexpected results in abnormal times, a description which certainly applies to our conditions of trade, credit and speculation.

THE MERCHANT MARINE.

Rear Admiral BENSON, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, expresses perfectly the national American desire and purpose when he says:

> Our merchant marine must be sustained if it is to be permanent. We are convinced that, to make it so, the ships now owned and controlled by the United States Shipping Board must be ultimately absorbed by private capital, owned and controlled by Americans, and operated in open competition with the merchant fleets of the world.

Consequently it must be true that the United States Shipping Board is not going to consent to build up the German merchant marine, to lend ships temporarily to the great German steamship lines, to allocate American ships to the builders of German foreign trade and propagandists of German ideas. Naturally, no part of the three billions which has been spent in building up the American merchant marine will be given to building up its German rival. Admiral BENSON'S words are good. At least they will be when made good by the action of the Shipping Board.

THE HOUSE BONUS PLAN.

One dollar a day (to be exact, $30 a month) was the pay of the private soldier during the war. Trying to solve the bonus problem, the Ways and Means sub-committee proposes to award one dollar a day for every day of service, provided the term of service exceeded sixty days, to every man who wore the uniform abroad or at home, except men who enlisted in the regular army, all officers, those who enjoyed special financial advantages, whatever that may mean, and drafted men who received more than army pay as workers in shipyards, the Forestry Department, &c. This arrangement is an attempt to reduce the number of bonus receivers from 4,800,000, the estimate of the total number of service men, to the minimum, so that the burden of liquidation shall not fall with full weight upon the backs of consumers already staggering under their post-war economic impedimenta.

It is the consumers, including the beneficiaries themselves, who will pay the bonus, not the business men, that is to say all dealers and producers who "do an annual business of $2,500." The money is to be raised by a tax of one-half of 1 per cent. upon sales. This will be saddled upon the long-suffering consumer, together with whatever addition the business men think the "traffic will bear"—1 per cent., 2 per cent., 5 per cent., what can be charged under cover by profiteers, whose name is legion. Does any one suppose that they will miss the chance to get more out of the bonus law than the ex-service men receive themselves?

It is estimated that 3,000,000 veterans will be entitled to draw about $1,000,000,000. The House committee is considering a special payment of $2 a day to service men needing vocational training, and the entire cost of bonuses will be not less than $2,000,000,000. This amount can be obtained from the tax of one-half of 1 per cent. on sales. The bonus law may cost the consumers $5,000,000,000 or more, and it would not be surprising if the bonus receivers in the end paid their $300 out in taxation, deriving no benefit at all from the legislation supposed to be in their favor.

It should be pointed out that the plan of the Senate sub-committee will not please all the ex-service men excluded from it; many of them will protest that they are the victims of discrimination, that they are to be unjustly treated. They will call upon the American Legion to intervene in their behalf. The expectation was that it would be a blanket bonus, share and share alike. There is disillusion. If it was politics for Legion posts to back the demand for a bonus, there will be more politics, a continual siege of the Treasury. How secure and unassailable would have been the position of the American Legion if it had made its campaign for the disabled veterans and the dependents of those who gave their lives for their country!

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

No Royal Road To Economy.

It is in the fact, rather than the causes, of high living costs that people are most interested these days, and they seemingly are more desirous of legislative action of some kind for the abolition of profiteering and the punishment of profiteers than for advice as to how by changing their habits they themselves can do something to reduce their expenditures.

This attitude is unwise, for legislative interference with the working out of natural laws, and especially with the law of supply and demand, has always had unhappy results, sooner or later, while results entirely satisfactory have sometimes followed judicious restrictions on, or alterations of, consumption by the consumers. They, and not legislatures, can affect the relation between supply and demand, and they usually can do it without making any serious trouble for anybody, either immediate or deferred.

The ingenious folk down in Alabama who have taken to wearing overalls instead of buying new Spring suits, being numerous enough to keep one another in countenance, are saving money without undergoing any hardship, and though the clothiers are displeased by the innovation—so displeased that they have tried to persuade the local papers not to encourage or even to print the news about the queer movement—yet they are making no open complaints, probably because they have no real or just grievance.

Overalls, for those not accustomed to wearing them, are apparently a source of innocent merriment as well as of economy for the members of the large and rapidly growing Overalls Clubs of Birmingham and its vicinity, and that is something that doesn't often happen when money is saved by personal endeavor.

Bargaining Is Out of Fashion.

A contributory cause of high prices that has not been often, if at all, mentioned hitherto in discussions of the subject is offered for consideration by The St. Louis Globe-Democrat. One reason why living is so expensive, it declares, is because the art of bargaining—of "beating down," as it used to be called—has been almost forgotten in most parts of the country and is never practiced by a majority of its inhabitants.

To the big department stores is due the introduction and firm establishment in practically all our shops of the one-price system of selling. Its advantages and benefits for buyer as well as seller are many and well recognized, and nobody seriously would propose a return to the old method of adjusting retail prices more or less to whatever amount it was thought by the dealer the customer would pay. There is at least excuse for contending, however, as The Globe-Democrat does, that the one-price plan has done much to decrease buying with discrimination.

Purchasing has come to be largely, and perhaps too largely, a matter of "take it or leave it," and as things often cannot be left, and must be taken, taken they are, whatever they cost. The opportunity for exploitation thus offered to the retailers is obvious, and that some of them utilize it would be denied only by those whose faith in human nature is—well, a little pathetic, so lacking is it in basis of experience.

Just how much the loss or diminution of the bargaining—sometimes called the haggling—instinct should be regretted is a matter of opinion. The old struggle of buyer with seller was not a very seemly or ennobling process for either party to it, and perhaps the reduction of expenditure it produced was not really large.

Railroading Done by Amateurs.

To say that the railway strike is over would be untrue, unfortunately, and, still more unfortunately, its effects will be felt long after the inevitable treaty or truce between the contesting employers and employes is made. Still, the end of the strike, as a strike, is in sight for all except the most confirmed of pessimists, and what the end would be became a certainty as soon as its chief victim, the public, had made plain, not only that it had no sympathy for the strikers, but that it could and would replace the missing labor to a degree and with an efficiency that destroyed the coercive power of the emergency.

The volunteer trainmen are not the equals of their predecessors in skill, but much of the difference they are making up by their zeal and intelligence. In case of need, they can run passenger trains in an easily tolerable manner. Freight trains they will not be so eager to tackle, but even those they could manage if worst came to worst, and that is probably enough to preclude the necessity for them to do so.

The success of the amateur railroaders is now illustration of the fact that the trades, or most of them, are more easily and quickly learned than those who follow them like to have it believed—that their mysteries are not very dark, and that their secrets are simple ones. The pretense that they can be learned only by a long apprenticeship is carefully sustained by the initiate, but it rarely survives a practical test.

Especially disquieting to the strikers, or to those of them who wanted and expected to win the immediate contest, should have been the readiness of college undergraduates in so many of the best educational institutions to take their places. These young men are far from being representative of wealth in their ideas. As a rule they have theories quite sufficiently "advanced," and if the cause of the strikers had been good the student bodies would have been more likely to fight for than against it.

In the Russia of other days, education and rebellion went together. When they stand apart, the quality of the rebellion is disclosed.

His Travels Took Him Too Far.

Evidently Mr. DE VALERA made a mistake when he ventured into the South. In both of the Carolinas, at any rate, he has met with rebuffs, and the inhabitants of those two States strangely misjudge themselves if they have not a right to express Southern sentiment on any subject.

The Carolinas, too, can fairly claim to be peculiarly and distinctively American. They are of the—or an—old stock, and though some can recall when their Americanism did not harmonize with the brands found in other parts of the country, yet the authenticity of theirs was not then denied nor can it be now. That they have no welcome for Mr. DE VALERA is therefore perhaps considerably more significant than is the cordiality with which he has been received by some groups in our higher latitudes.

Of course, the Carolinas do not hate Ireland, and they are not famous for a special love of England. It must just be that they have their doubts about the existence of an Irish republic, and still graver doubts about the wisdom of affronting a friendly nation.

EXCLUSIVENESS OF SMITH.

One-Eighth of the Girls Are Paying Part of Their Expenses.

John A. Sexson, who is the High School Superintendent of Logan County, Col., charges Smith and Bryn Mawr with seeking "to limit their attendance to girls from exclusive social circles and to assume an attitude hardly less than snobbish toward publicly supported preparatory schools"; also with catering "to wealth and to socially preferred classes."

In the class which entered Smith as freshmen last September 225 students came from public schools; 144 from private schools; 96 from both public and private. This looks almost as if the discrimination were in the opposite direction.

So far as "wealth" is concerned, 12½ per cent. of the students now in the college are earning part, very often a large part, of their expenses. More than fifty girls earn their board by table and pantry work. Each of these is earning the equivalent of $300 a year. Six students conduct a lucrative furniture exchange. Three students hold valuable salaried positions in the gift of student organizations, such as the Student Council and the Smith College Weekly. Two are giving all their spare time to doing stenography for professors. Almost a score are earning money as student reporters for the city newspapers. More than a dozen are employed by the art gallery as custodians. A very considerable staff has regular work in the college library. Many of the particularly good students earn substantial sums as tutors. Two or three are teaching the nurses at the training school of a neighboring hospital. The college operates two co-operative houses where the girls, by doing a share of the housework, materially decrease their living expenses.

It is the very fact that there are so many infinitely desirable students who find it difficult to meet even the present expenses of board and tuition which make it imperative for Smith College to increase her professors' salaries, not, as Mr. Sexson suggests, by raising her tuition, but by appealing to her graduates and to the country at large for a $4,000,000 endowment fund.

Appomattox Day.

Your correspondent, "A Boy Who Wore the Blue," awakens memories of another "boy" in connection with Appomattox Day. A few years ago it was my privilege to spend several days in the home of Captain Robert Lee, the General's youngest son, on his "ranch" on the James River, and it surely made history seem much more real to hold in my hand and draw from its scabbard the sword which was worn by his illustrious father at Appomattox. It was equally stirring to be permitted to spend an afternoon reading over almost a trunkful of letters written by him from the time of his graduation almost to the time of his death. No pen ever indited words of larger affection, of higher counsel and wisdom than were breathed through the entire correspondence.

I was on the other side in the battling, but Lee, the man, has always appealed to me!

When the surrender came, our great President sent Major (General) Anderson down to Charleston to restore to Fort Sumter the flag which had flown over the fort during the first battle of the war. It was permitted to me to carry back to Sumter, in a boat from the ship to which I was attached, that flag and all the surviving officers of the initial event of the war.

In the midst of all our rejoicings Mr. Lincoln was lying, all unknown to us, the victim of the assassin's bullet. Nor did we know of it for more than a week after its occurrence, for there was no telegraphic communication between North and South then and we had been ordered further South to watch for the possible escape of Jefferson Davis. In our present day such important tidings would be flashed almost instantly to the entire world.

From Appomattox to his last days the career of General Lee was worthy of the highest praise and honor, in which I am glad to join. JOHN R. ANDERSON.

Work for Prisoners.

The National Committee on Prisons and Prison Labor finds that the increased expense to maintain its standard of efficiency necessitates an appeal to a generous public. One of the objects of the committee is to make prisons and prisoners self-supporting. The Governors of the different States and prison administrators depend on the committee for expert aid and advice. This organization has accomplished much since 1909. It has made surveys resulting in exposure of exploitation in prisoners and prisons by private contractors. It has co-operated in work for betterment of prison labor conditions which the American Federation of Labor was carrying on; it has educated the public on prison laws and supported special penal legislation; it has established the principles that prisoners are human beings and that prisons are training institutions. Much detail work has been completed, all having the tendency to make an honest man of the prisoner and lessen the responsibility of the general community with regard to his future. Surely, such an organization deserves generous support. ADOLPH LEWISOHN.

IN APRIL.

With a beckoning staff of green
Till I meet his eyes
With a swift surprise
And feel my soul swept clean—

Clean and sweet and vernal
With not one scar nor stain,
Quick for the boon eternal
Of April's sun and rain.

Against the morning gold,
And his song is hurled
Till no man more is old.

For he will not walk with sorrow,
But with bursting buds, in sooth,
He lets me glimpse tomorrow,
And the feast he spreads for youth.

While I—my heart's aflame!
Young Spring waits on a hill-top,
And calls—my name!

American and British Authors May Obtain Rights Held Up by War.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Secretary Colby made public today a copyright proclamation which was signed by President Wilson on April 10, granting to subjects of Great Britain and the British dominions, colonies and possessions, except the self-governing dominions of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Newfoundland, the protection of the American copyright law of March 4, 1909, and its amendments. Protection is also granted to records, perforated rolls and other devices by means of which a musical work may be mechanically performed.

It was found that many American and British works had failed to obtain copyright due to difficulties in transporting books during the war. Before it was possible for the United States Government to carry out the proposed arrangement it was necessary to obtain authority from Congress. This was granted on December 18 last.

The proclamation does not afford protection to works republished in either country since August 1, 1914, but does provide protection for all works first produced or published since that date and before the President's proclamation of peace is issued. An Order in Council has been issued by the British Government extending copyright protection to works first published in the United States between August 1, 1914, and the termination of the war and enjoyment of the rights conferred by the British copyright act is conditional upon publication of the work in England not later than six months after the termination of the war.

The State Department advises interested American authors and publishers to take immediate steps to obtain copyright protection in England for works published in this country since August 1, 1914, which have failed to obtain such protection in England.

PLEAD FOR ARMENIA.

500 War Veterans March to State Department with Petition.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Five hundred Armenian veterans of the European war who fought with the United States forces marched to the State Department today and presented to Secretary of State Colby, who acted for President Wilson, a memorial asking that the United States grant recognition to the Republic of Armenia, as has been done by Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan. Major V. H. Kazanjian of Harvard University was spokesman for the delegation, which was gathered from the Middle West and various cities of the East.

Similar memorials were later presented to Senator Lodge, as Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, and Congressman Rogers, acting for Chairman Porter of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The memorial said in part:

"When we were called to arms, and while we were on the field of battle, we were happy in the conviction that we were fighting, not only in defense of the beloved country of our adoption, but also for the triumph of the principles for which she stands as applied to the protection and liberation of oppressed nationalities, among which we naturally placed first our motherland, Armenia. And if we had been told that a year and a half after the date of the armistice our kinsmen would still be at the mercy of the Turk, would still be subject to violence and massacre, would still be prevented from returning to their homes by an undisarmed foe and forced to the humiliation of subsisting upon charity, we should not have believed it.

"We, therefore, respectfully urge our Government to take the necessary measures for the immediate protection of the Armenian people, now in imminent danger, to furnish them with adequate means of self-defense, and to provide them with facilities for the repatriation of the Armenian people, so that they may resume their normal life, and to extend immediate recognition to the republic of Armenia, already in existence."

FUND FOR POST-GRADUATE.

Medical School Faculty Pledges $250,000 at Dinner.

The members of the Faculty of the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital held in the Hotel Biltmore last night their first annual dinner since the war, and pledged $250,000 toward the $2,000,000 endowment fund being raised for the institution.

Many large subscriptions have been made and others are expected, but some novel appeals for smaller contributions are under way. Among these is a campaign among prominent clubs, such as the New York Athletic Club, which is being conducted by Dr. Graeme M. Hammond with the object of inducing such organizations to endow beds in the hospital, which is to be materially enlarged.

Another appeal is to be made to transit employes on different lines in this city to endow beds for the benefit of such of their workers as need medical or surgical attention.

Dr. J. Bentley Squier, a member of the Board of Directors, delivered an address, illustrated with lantern slides, which began with the establishment by New York University Medical College of a post-graduate course in 1875, and led up to a group of modern buildings which the institution hopes to become.

"The task of achieving such an institution," said Dr. Squier, "is not too great. The steps are simple. They involve absolute belief in our plan, saturating ourselves with enthusiasm to add our endeavor to the work of the men who brought the Post-Graduate through the trials of the past and going out and finishing the present campaign. Prove that we can do it. Every one must contribute his energy now for this, and then in the future we shall see our whole dream come true.

"Gentlemen, have you ever come up the harbor and found the fog obscuring the high buildings of New York, and then under the influence of a morning sun seen the mist disappear and reveal the skyline of the Battery with its inspiring towers? In a similar manner will the fog of our financial difficulty be dissipated by the warming influence of the bonds of friendship that the present drive will make for the Post-Graduate, and the minarets of the greater Post-Graduate will loom high on the horizon if we have the will to wipe the dust from our eyes and realize our opportunity."

ANGELL SUCCEEDS CARNEGIE

Scientist Elected Head of the Corporation by Trustees.

Dr. James Rowland Angell, internationally known as a scientist, for many years Dean of the University of Chicago, has been elected President and chief executive officer of the Carnegie Corporation of New York. Announcement of his election to this office, which has been vacant since the death of Andrew Carnegie, who filled it, was made yesterday by the Board of Trustees through Elihu Root, the Chairman.

Dr. Angell, who is head of the National Research Council, will assume his duties on July 1. He is the son of the late James Burrill Angell, long President of the University of Michigan. He was born in Burlington, Vt., May 8, 1869.

The Carnegie Corporation was founded by the Ironmaster in 1911 with an initial endowment of $125,000,000. He made the corporation his residuary legatee.

M'CUMBER OFFERS PEACE RESOLUTION

Way Left Open for Reaubmission of Treaty and Covenant—Referred to Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The views of the mild reservation Republicans of the Senate on the peace resolution were embodied today in a resolution introduced by Senator MCCUMBER of North Dakota, as a substitute for the House peace resolution. Mr. McCumber's resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

The mild reservationists have been inclined to disapprove the House resolution, as well as the Knox resolution presented in the Senate some months ago, because they felt that the adoption of either might be construed as shutting off action at this session of Congress on the League of Nations covenant, or would at least serve as an excuse for delaying action should the treaty be resubmitted by the President.

The resolution offered today, therefore, avoided any reference to the Peace Treaty or the league covenant and was confined to a statement that, as hostilities had ceased, Germany had acknowledged defeat, and commercial relations had been, to a measure, resumed, the pre-war status should be restored between the United States and Germany so far as trade and commerce were concerned.

The adoption of this resolution, the mild reservationists said, would remove all limitations of which American business men complained, and would permit Americans to trade in Germany as though there had been no war. At the same time it would leave the Senate free to ratify the treaty and the league covenant if it wished to do so, without conflicting with the terms of the peace resolution.

The resolution reads:

Whereas, Actual hostilities between the warring nations in the late war ceased on the 11th day of November, 1918, under and by virtue of the terms of an armistice of said date; and

Whereas, The German Government has acknowledged its defeat and has by treaty yielded to every demand imposed by its enemies in said war, including the disbanding of its armies; and

Whereas, Commercial relations have been resumed between the said German Government and other Governments associated with the United States in said war; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress assembled, That commercial relations between the United States and Germany be, and the same are, hereby resumed to the same extent and under the same limitations as though no war had existed between the said Governments, and all laws prohibiting trade and commerce between the nationals of said Governments, enacted since the 6th day of April, 1917, are hereby repealed in so far as they are in conflict with this resolution.

EFFORT TO SIGNAL MARS.

Professor Todd Ready to Use Stevens's Balloon on April 23.

OMAHA, Neb., April 14.—The attempt by Professor David Todd, late of Amherst College, to signal Mars from a balloon will be made on April 23, according to an announcement by A. Leo Stevens, balloon expert at Fort Omaha, whose gas bag will be used in the effort. The professor suggested next week because Mars then will be nearest the earth.

In a telegram to Lieut. Col. Jacob Wuest, commander of Fort Omaha, Professor Todd referred to the apparatus he will use to ascertain whether sound waves or other disturbances are coming from the far away planet and whether they are electrical or otherwise.

The tests, Professor Todd says, will be made with a recorder he has worked on for several years. The device records all atmospheric waves and will hold impressions made in such form that they may be studied when the balloon has returned to earth.

To ascertain the chemical composition of the air at each altitude small vacuum containers will be carried. These will be opened at various altitudes and the air collected, to be subjected to analysis after the balloon has descended.

Dust particles in the atmosphere will be examined by means of apparatus furnished by Professor R. W. Wood of Johns Hopkins University.

Experts from the Rockefeller Institute are preparing methods for studying the pathological and physiological properties held in the upper air. The bearing of pressure changes on cures for various diseases, they say, will be of especial interest.

Meteorological tests will be made by means of a special wind testing apparatus which is said to be an innovation in that no device formerly had been invented which would tell the velocity of air currents from a free balloon. Moisture, pressure and temperature gauges also will be used.

It is hoped by so studying the upper air strata to get new facts bearing on the origin of hot and cold waves, typhoons, cyclones and tornadoes. Pilot Stevens expects to reach a height of 50,000 feet.

DENY 'SLUSH' FUND CHARGE.

Speakers at Teachers' Mass Meeting Urge Passage of Pay Rise Bill.

A meeting of more than 4,000 school teachers was held yesterday at the Washington Irving High School to protest against charges by Mrs. Edna M. Bryant and Frederick C. Lewis before the Board of Estimate last Monday that a "slush fund" had been collected from the teachers to support the Lockwood-Donohue bill and that teachers had been "coerced and intimidated" into their support of the bill.

Mrs. Clarence M. Daright, one of the chief speakers, made a plea that the teachers in the majority as well as those in the minority get together. She said that she believed it was just that the teachers' salaries be increased at once and added that she believed that they should find out exactly the factions that opposed the raise before going to the Board of Estimate.

District Attorney Lewis of Brooklyn said today that he had received a telegram from Assemblyman Donohue and Senator Lockwood stating that there was a "slush fund" among the teachers to get favorable action on the salary increase bill in the Legislature. The telegram stated that it was reported that some of the teachers were being coerced into subscribing to the fund. The prosecutor said he would investigate the matter, but before taking action it would be necessary for some one who had subscribed to the fund to make a complaint.

REALISTIC EFFECTS AT AVIATORS' BALL

Debutantes Wear Headdresses Patterned After Insignia of American Flying Club.

Society flocked to the annual Aviators' Ball held last night at the Ritz-Carlton under the auspices of the American Flying Club. This is the second ball in the history of the club, and the proceeds will go to build a fitting memorial for the aviators who made the supreme sacrifice in service.

The occasion marked the reunion of the aeronautic personnel, and all of the ex-service aviators appeared in their uniforms. A touch of realism in the decorations of the ballroom added much to the effectiveness of the scene. The ceiling resembled the roof of the world, with fleeting clouds and now and then a shadowy airplane speeding among the stars.

Suspended here and there were miniature aeroplanes and models of all the Allies. The insignia of the club in colored electric design blazed over the stage, where a professional entertainment was held preceding the ball. The boxes were arranged on the floor level, with white standards decorated with gilt wings and separated by hedges of spruce.

The members of the Junior Committee, composed of the season's debutantes, wore special headdresses patterned after the insignia of the club. The programs were souvenirs of art, with full pages given over to the work of leading illustrators, some in color.

James M. Dillon and Eugene Bowen, both boys, directed the entertainment, and the magic hand of George Spink was seen in the properties. The entertaining was almost continuous, some of the artists appearing on the ballroom stage and others in the dining room.

The Ball Committee was composed of Dr. H. G. Brownell, Jacques M. Swaab, Maurice Cleary and Roy Conger. The Misses Adelaide Sedgwick and Marion Tiffany headed the Junior Committee.

Appearing on the program was a galaxy of talent, including Stella Hoban, Louise Groody, Evan B. Fontaine, Bert Levy, Belle Storey, Anna White, Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield; Lieutenant Gits Rice, the Avon Comedy Four, Lieutenant Basil Hilliam and Nate Leipsig.

It was said that some of the aviators present flew from their stations in other cities to the ball. Lieut. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard and Rear Admiral James H. Glennon represented the army and navy, and the air service was represented by Major Gen. Charles T. Menoher and Brig. Gen. William Mitchell.

Among the patronesses, many of whom occupied boxes and entertained, were Mrs. Henry A. Alexander, Mrs. J. Philip Benkard, Mrs. Edson Bradley, Mrs. James A. Burden, Mrs. Henry P. Davison, Mrs. Newbold LeRoy Edgar, Mrs. Sidney W. Fish, Mrs. Lytleton Fox, Mrs. James W. Gerard, Mrs. George Jay Gould, Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Mrs. Francis Burrall Hoffman, Mrs. Walter E. Maynard, Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell, Mrs. John F. Mitchel, Mrs. Lewis Gouverneur Morris, Mrs. T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.; Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey, Mrs. Burke Roche, Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Mrs. James Talcott, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. Robert E. Tod and Mrs. Arthur Woods.

Daughter of Mrs. C. E. Bateson Marries Capt. Morgan B. More, Whom She Met in France.

The wedding of Morgan Berkeley More of Buffalo, N. Y., a son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. More, and Miss Lucinda Davis Bateson, a daughter of Mrs. Charles E. Bateson of New York and a great-grandniece of Jefferson Davis, took place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's brother, E. Farrar Bateson, 66 Fifty-fourth Street, the Rev. Herbert Shipman of the Church of the Heavenly Rest officiating.

Her sister, Mrs. William E. G. Gaillard, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. E. Farrar Bateson, in pink charmeuse with pink hats sprayed with shaded pink roses, were her matrons of honor, and carried Spring fowers. Little Miss Mary Gaillard, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. Richard Bateson, a nephew, was the page.

William A. More was his brother's best man and the ushers were Charles Wagstaff Bateson, Harold Rowe, George Mentally, and William Olmsted. A small reception followed at 5 o'clock, but the bride's family being still in mourning the wedding was a quiet one. Mr. and Mrs. More will live in this city.

Mr. More was a Captain in the Aviation Corps, U. S. A., and served abroad. Mrs. More spent several years in France doing war work, first as a chauffeur, for a year, and then when America entered the war she served as a volunteer nurse in Dr. Joseph A. Burke's Hospital. She and Captain More met in France. She returned to New York after the armistice.

MISS WALKER ENGAGED.

Daughter of Mrs. Starr King Walker to Wed F. Whitney Morrill.

Mrs. Starr King Walker of 128 East Thirty-eighth Street announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Evelyn Sheldon Walker, to F. Whitney Morrill, also of New York. Mr. Morrill was an Ensign in the Naval Aviation Service during the war, and previously was a member of Squadron A. He is a Harvard man.

Miss Walker is a granddaughter of the late James O. Sheldon of this city. She was a Spence School graduate, and came out several Winters ago. No date has been mentioned for the marriage.

LAST BRILLIANT AFFAIR AT DEVONSHIRE HOUSE

Historic London Mansion Scene of Notable Gathering of British, French and Americans.

LONDON, April 14 (Associated Press).—Historic Devonshire House, which during the last three centuries has been the scene of many brilliant functions, tonight held probably what was its last distinguished gathering when one thousand guests, including royalty, members of the Diplomatic Corps and leaders of society, danced at a fancy dress ball organized by the Duchess of Albany for charity.

The main features of the evening were allied quadrilles—English, American and French—in which demure Martha Washington frocks, worn by American women, vied with the picturesque eighteenth century Gainsborough costumes of the British and those of the French dancers, halt of the latter of whom were dressed as the marquises and peasants of that period.

The Duchess of Albany received the guests at the top of the grand marble staircase. She wore a magnificent gown of white and gold brocade, made for her at the time of the coronation. Mrs. Davis, wife of the American Ambassador, led the American quadrille, while the Countess of Curson and Kedleston was at the head of the English and the Countess de Montholon the French dancers.

EMANU-EL ANNIVERSARY.

MADE $8,000,000 IN GAS

"Read Out" of His Party by Bryan, He Led the Movement That Finally Made Wilson President.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Roger C. Sullivan, for many years the leader of the Democratic Party in Illinois, died suddenly late this afternoon at his home, 342 Wellington Avenue, this city. Mr. Sullivan had been suffering for several weeks from an acute attack of bronchitis, but had been reported as making a satisfactory recovery. The immediate cause of death was heart disease. His entire family was present when he passed away.

In spite of emphatic denials, rumors of Mr. Sullivan's illness persisted, especially during the last year. Mr. Sullivan spent the Winter at Palm Beach, where it was repeatedly said that he was not his old-time self.

After leaving Palm Beach he went to Washington in order to keep from the strong winds and sharp cold of Chicago. He was later taken to a sanitarium, ostensibly for bronchitis, and only within the last few weeks returned to Chicago. On his arrival here Mr. Sullivan declared that he was feeling "fit as a fiddle."

His heard election returns Tuesday night with great interest. He was propped up in bed and listened to bulletins read by his secretary. He died in complete control of his party machinery and master of the delegation to the national convention at San Francisco. He had intended, it was said tonight, to put his political enemies, Edward F. Dunne and Carter H. Harrison, in the delegation.

Roger C. Sullivan was the benevolent "boss" of the Illinois Democracy. For a quarter of a century he was a dominant factor in the State party and for the last dozen years he was a national figure in politics, due largely to the advertising he got from the attacks of William Jennings Bryan, until recently his arch enemy.

His career was one of those evolutions typical of American politics—a climb from the position of manipulator in "practical politics" to a leadership more constructive than otherwise.

He was planning to abdicate after the San Francisco convention in July, but he would still have remained in the background as a director emeritus.

To Mr. Sullivan, perhaps, more than to any other human agency, Woodrow Wilson owed his nomination at Baltimore in 1912. Champ Clark had the Illinois instructions, but Sullivan controlled the delegates. After enough ballots had been taken so that no reproach of ignoring instructions could be raised, Roger Sullivan threw the Illinois delegation to Wilson and started the rush which broke the deadlock.

Largely this was a concession to idealism. Mr. Sullivan's son, Boetius, then in Yale, was strong for Woodrow Wilson, so the father threw his influence to the academician. Yet when Mr. Wilson was elected Mr. Sullivan was given no recognition.

His early years rose up and by the President his was placed in the category of political bosses in to whom the threshhold of the White House was closed. Patronage and recognition instead went to the Illinois groups with whom the Sullivan men were eternally at war.

Roger Sullivan was born near Belvidere, Ill., and as a boy worked on a farm at $8 a month. In 1879 he came to Chicago and started as an apprentice machinist in the railroad shops at $1.25 a day. His estate is now estimated at about $8,000,000, most of the fortune made from the cracker business and gas interests. He was President of the Ogden Gas Company of Chicago, and had offices at 122 South Michigan Avenue.

In 1885 he married Miss Helen M. Quinlan of this city. He was a Catholic and belonged to the Union League, Iroquois, Chicago Athletic and South Shore Clubs.

GIANTS AND YANKEES LOSE BUT ROBINS WIN IN OPENING GAMES OF MAJOR LEAGUE SEASON

GIANTS' INAUGURAL STEEPED IN GLOOM

MAYOR TOSSES FIRST BALL

Eayrs Baffles Local Batsmen While Jess Barnes Is Batted from the Box.

That cool, superior hauteur which characterizes everything Bostonese spread a slight chill over the Giants yesterday when Jawn McGraw's players endeavored to tickle some 20,000 natives at the opening game of the season at the Polo Grounds. Instead of glowing in the warmth of a New York triumph, the Braves failed utterly to behave as advertised and the crowd had no chance to yell itself into a fever when the Braves plastered the home boys with a 6 to 3 defeat.

Up to the time the game started, the baseball inaugural of 1920 was as happy as it could be on a frapped April afternoon, but all the joy was extracted from the occasion when the Braves pounded Jess Barnes out of the box in the second inning and got such a big lead that the Giants didn't ever catch up. As none of Manager Stallings's pitchers is in very good shape, he sent a left-handed outfielder to the pitching mound. This individual, Eddie Eayrs, held the Giants' batsmen in runless subjection for seven innings, and when he got tired in the eighth, the New Yorkers uncorked a rally which gave them three runs.

Aside from the ball game there was plenty to satisfy the public appetite for diversion. The Giants' mascot, a Texas wildcat, was fondled so much and had to pose so many times for pictures that it grew wilder and wished it was back in the cactus. The mascot wasn't the only member of the Giants who was wild yesterday.

Hylan and Edwards Welcomed.

The band played and Manager McGraw was presented with a floral horseshoe by Katherine and Jane Lee, the winsome children from the movies. Mayor Hylan and Major Gen. Arthur MacArthur, accompanied by John Whalen, one of the Directors of the Giants, and flanked by several military and civic officers, marched across the field. Some one was out of step, but it was difficult to tell whether it was the soldiers or the civilians. Mayor Hylan wore his warmest smile and General MacArthur a heavy overcoat.

His Honor didn't wear his stovepipe hat, but had a lighter top piece, which he took off and waved at the crowd. There was plenty of cheering when Mayor Hylan took his seat. There was more cheering when Governor Edwards of New Jersey came across the field with his own escort. The crowd appeared to be decidedly anti-prohibitionist in its reception to the New Jersey Governor. Just how the Governor got over here with the railroad strike on a lot of Jersey commuters would like to know.

Mayor Hylan threw out the first ball to Umpire Henry O'Day, and his Honor's heave displayed a strong likeness to the disposition of the Giants' mascot. O'Day had to leap in the air, but made a pretty catch, saving the Mayor from an error in the box score.

George Washington Grant, who owns the Braves, wore chamois gloves for the occasion and just about ruined them applauding his players when they trimmed the Giants.

McGraw's batsmen were unable to do anything with little Eayrs's pitching for seven innings. Arnold Stats was in centre field in place of Benny Kauff and he got the first hit off the Braves' southpaw in the fourth, when he plugged a three-bagger to left centre. There were two out at the time and Stats's big bang went to waste, as Frisch sided to Cruise for the third out of the inning.

Barnes Driven from Box.

If any one tries to tell you these Braves can't hit, don't believe it, because in the second inning they fell upon Jess Barnes and drove him out of the game. Holke started with a walk. A wild pitch sent him to third. Boeckel's double over Burrs's head sent Holke home, and Mann's single sent Boeckel to third. Mickey O'Neil, Boston's young catcher, slugged a single to right and scored Mann. This young O'Neil used to be Giant property and is alive wire. O'Neil once upon a time used to be a copy reader in St. Louis, but he thought better of it and became a professional baseball player.

Eayrs poked a bounder to Kelly, who threw to Gonsales to get Mann at the plate, but Mann beat the throw home. Maranville sacrificed for the first out of the inning. Pick slammed a single to right and O'Neil romped home. Kelly got rattled and intercepted Young's fine toss to the plate, and Eayrs also counted. That was enough of a severe April pasting for Barnes, and he gave way to Hubbell. The first thing Hubbell did was to catch Pick napping off first, and Charley died going to second. Hubbell fanned Powell for the third out.

In the fifth, with two out, Powell hit a grounder down to first, but there was a wide gap between Kelly's feet, and the ball went to right field.) Kelly didn't even touch it as it passed. Cruise whacked a long double to deep right and Powell tallied. That was all the scoring the Braves did, and it was plenty.

Jess Winters pitched the sixth, seventh and eighth innings and gave only one hit. In the Giants' half of the eighth Lee King batted for Winters and propelled a liner to Powell. Burns started a Giant rally with a single to centre. Young rolled a grounder to Charley Pick at second, and Charley was too anxious to make a double play and he fumbled the ball. He got Young at first after a quick recovery. That fumble of Pick's, however, was costly to Eayrs for a double play should have ended the inning right then and there.

Giants Make a Rally.

The Giants, grasping the opportunity of this break, made the most of it and gave the crowd its only thrill of the cool afternoon by starting an attack which led the rooters to believe that the Giants were going to make up for lost time and overtake the enemy. Fletcher jammed a single to centre and scored Burns. Fletcher went to third when Laughing Larry Doyle shot a double to right. Arnold Stats again showed his worth by rattling a hard-hit single to centre, sending Fletcher and Doyle home.

Eayrs was wobbly, but Stallings didn't take him out. The little left-hander showed a lot of gameness and faced the Giants' fire more eagerly than ever. Frisch singled to right, sending Stats to second and Kelly hit a grasser to third which Boeckel knocked down, but Stats slid into third ahead of him. It was a close decision and the Boston players gathered around Umpire Pete Harrison and wildly suggested that he change his mind. Fete wouldn't and the bases were full. Gonsales squelched the rally when he hit a grounder to Maranville, who tossed to Pick, forcing Kelly for the final out of the inning.

Enthusiasm again ran high in the ninth. Eddie Sicking batted for Bill Ryan, who pitched the ninth inning. Sicking got a pass and Burns singled, sending Sicking to second. Young made about two dozen pinch whacks he was at the bat and then rolled a grounder to Eayrs, who whipped the ball to third, forcing Sicking. Eayrs was getting pretty tired, so Stallings yanked him out and sent McQuillan to the mound. McQuillan was suspected of violating the new rule which forbids tampering with the ball and Umpire Hank O'Day went out and gave the pitcher a scolding. Fletcher skied to Maranville and the game ended when Doyle hoisted a foul to Boeckel.

Curves and Bingles.

A bad start may mean a strong finish. That's better than a good start and weaken later as the Giants did last year.

The Braves have an outfielder named John L. Sullivan. He ought to be popular when he gets to Boston.

Mayor Hylan was greeted enthusiastically by one group of fans back of first base. Probably fellow members of the Bricklayers Union or the last of the Democrats.

The grand stand population didn't seem affected much by the gentle boost in prices but there were not as many fans in the bleachers as at some of the former openings.

Among the added duties which the umpires have this year is rubbing the gloss off the baseballs before the game. Hank O'Day massaged two dozen and hid them in a hole in the ground near the home plate.

When George Burns came up in the first inning, he thumped a drive into the right field stand which came within about half an inch of being a home run.

A little encouragement to George Kelly would do him a lot more good than the reception he got from the fans yesterday when he displayed bad judgment. Kelly is inexperienced at first but should improve in every game. He had a perfect batting average yesterday with two hits and two passes in four times up.

With Stats in center field yesterday, it looks as if Benny Kauff would be used only against right handed pitchers. Stats, who is the best golfer in baseball, uses the same stance and follow through when he is batting.

Stats made the sensational grab of the afternoon in the first inning when he raced far back toward the fence and made a graceful catch of Walton Cruise's wicked smash.

Arthur Nehf may go against his old team mates today. After the way the Braves rapped Barnes however, Manager McGraw may not use a former Bostonian, as Benton and Toney are about ready for action.

DODGERS OPEN WITH AN EASY VICTORY

Bunch Hits Off Rixey While Phillies Perform Poorly—Score Is 9 to 2.

Brooklyn baseball got away on the right foot yesterday, with all the ceremonies that have attended openings across the bridge as far back as the oldest fans can remember. The Dodgers displayed the same vim that had marked their preliminary campaign, Cactus Cravath's Phillies furnished but weak opposition and the Robinson troupe simply breezed along to the easiest kind of a triumph. The score was 9 to 2.

The players put on the old-time parade out to the flag pole in deep centre field, the Phillies showing themselves the equals of the Dodgers while on parade. That was the best that could be said of the Phils. Once the game started they stepped so far behind the home troupe that the game at no time took on the appearance of a contest. Weak pitching in the pinches, uncertainty in fielding and a generally poor performance made the Phillies appear even worse than the preliminary dope on the team had promised.

The honor of starting the Dodgers on their way fell to the lot of Charles Jerome Edwards, a prominent Brooklyn fan, and in view of the success attending his maiden effort in this line he shapes up as a fixture for future openings. Before the game and while the teams trotted to and from their positions between innings Shannon's band dispensed all the jazz that has been written since the Dodgers broke away a year ago. Shannon's band and baseball openings in Brooklyn pal together like ham and eggs.

Rixey Fails to Puzzle.

Cravath pinned his hopes for a successful start on the lofty shoulders of Eppa Jeppa Rixey, sometimes referred to as the Virginia College yell, but even the huge frame of Eppa could not stop the Dodgers on their rush to victory. In the second and third innings the Flatbush bats waved in the path of Eppa's offerings and a total of six hits, coupled with an error, chased five runs over the plate. After these prosperous innings it was simply a case of the Robinson boys coasting along to an easy victory as Leon Cadore pitched much the same as he has been pitching all Spring against the Yankees.

The Phils had a narrow escape from a shutout. A low toss by Olson in the seventh inning, while the Brooklyn infielder was hurrying to make a double play presented Cravath's crowd with its first marker, and the other was manufactured in the ninth after the first two batsmen had been set down in order. Cadore seemed to ease up at this stage with the game safely packed away, and three succssive hits served to produce the second run for the visitors. Aside from these two frames the Quakertown representatives made no headway against the masterly flinging of Cadore.

The timely hitting of Ed Konetchy and a stop by Jack Miller were the outstanding features, aside from Cadore's pitching. Koney chased Brooklyn's first run over the plate in the second inning with a solid single to left and in the second frame big Ed toed the plate with one out and third bases occupied, and he lined to centre for another hit, two runs resulting. These were more than enough for the home cause. Miller made his fourth play on Krueger in the fourth inning, grabbing an apparently sure hit directly behind second base. His throw went into first base on the bound, but it got there ahead of Krueger.

Rixey furnished two distinct surprises, first with a single to right field in the third inning, and again with a duplicate of this hit in the fifth. Eppa's hitting was far more impressive than his pitching. Official confirmation that this stickwork was all a mistake was furnished in the ninth inning by Manager Cravath when he derricked Eppa and sent up a pinch hitter to perform the big pitcher. The substitute, Le Bourveau, also slapped a single into right field.

Two Innings Settle Game.

The Dodgers went out in order in the opening frame, but it required a circus catch by Cy Williams against Bernie Nies to turn the trick. In the second inning the noise started. Zack Wheat led off with a single to left, and grabbed off an extra base on a poor throw to second by Meusel. Zach was retired between the bases when Myers grounded to Bancroft, Hi reaching second base on the play. Then came the single by Konetchy which started the Dodgers on their way to victory.

In the third inning the Phils passed out as contenders. Cadore opened with a single to left and stole second. Olson's Texas Leaguer to right and a pass to Nels filled the bases, but Johnston's effort was a grounder to Bancroft on which Cadore was forced at the plate. Zack Wheat's single to right on the first ball pitched to him sent Olson and Nies over the diah, and Johnston to third. Jimmy died at the plate when Myers rolled to Rixey. Wheat reaching third and Myers second on the run-up. Konetchy followed with a single to centre and both runners completed the circuit.

That was all the scoring until Brooklyn's half of the sixth, when Myers opened with a drive over Emil Meusel's thatch in deep left field. Hi rested on third while Koney was going out and then he scored on a pretty squeeze play executed by Chuck Ward.

The Phils made their first gasp in the seventh inning. With one out, Ralph Miller singled to right field and hustled along to third when Mack Wheat hit to the same section. Rixey hit to Olson and Ivy tried for a double play, paying no attention to Miller. After forcing Wheat at second Olson threw poorly to first base and Rixey was safe, Miller scoring.

The Dodgers grabbed off a brace of unearned runs in the eighth. With one out Konetchy was safe on an error by Ralph Miller and Ward reached first on a misplay by Jack Miller. A pass to Krueger filled the corners and Cadore sent Koney home with a long sacrifice fly to Williams. Ward reached third on the out and scored on a double steal with Krueger.

After the first two batsmen had been retired in Philadelphia's ninth inning R. Miller, Wheat and Le Bourveau singled, the first named scoring.

Baker to See Huggins Today About His Old Job at Third

It developed today that, despite Frank Baker's withdrawal from the Yankees' roster, the cry "Play ball!" has reached the fastnesses of Trappe, Md., and the war horse is champing at the bit. Baker got into touch with Manager Huggins today by long distance telephone and arranged for a conference tomorrow. It is believed in baseball circles here that the episode means that the veteran home run artist will be bombarding that right field stand at the Polo Grounds again this season, and that he will cavort as of yore around the quarters now occupied by Meusel. Some members of the Yankee squad expressed the belief tonight that Baker would be on hand to go with the team to Boston on Saturday night.

BABE RUTH'S MUFF TOSSES GAME AWAY

Slugger's Fielding Blunder in Eighth Gives Athletics Victory Over Yankees.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—The petted Babe of the New York Yankees appeared today in the rôle of enfant terrible. When, with two of the Athletics retired in the final half of the eighth inning and the score a tie at one run each, Ruth gracefully stumbled backward and raised his capacious cupped hands heavenward for Joe Dugan's long fly, only to fluff the catch. 12,000 Philadelphians arose and volubly criticised New York's methods of training children.

There was no resentment discernible in the remarks of the local fans. There was rather a distinct flavor of malicious glee. For Ruth's misplay meant the downfall of the Yankees and it meant, too, that the Athletics—think of it, the Athletics—would be in the first four of the American League when the sun had gone down upon the opening battles of the season of 1920.

At the time selected by the Babe to demonstrate that he is only human, if that, two youthful Philadelphians, Walker and Griffin, were prancing around on third and second base respectively. The two-base muff scored them both easily and made the score 3 to 1 in favor of the Athletics, at which status it remained until the close of hostilities.

The actual hero of the lost cause today was Sefior Walter Pipp, who pays no more rent for his quarters at first base now than he paid last year, but has not been evicted because he's a highly desirable tenant. Pipp slashed the ball over the right field fence in the first inning for New York's only tally of the afternoon. The bases at the time were strictly depopulated owing to the demise of Messrs. Gleich and Peckinpaugh on their way to first base.

Pretty Chilly for Baseball.

There was a good-sized crowd out, as has been intimated above, in spite of the fact that a chill twang pervaded the air, and the sun's rays were too feeble to make much headway against it. Overcoats and furs were the thing today, and they constitute a garb of which the baseball fans of Philadelphia, as well as of all other garment cities, heartily disapprove. Actually speaking, the baseball season opens in each big league burg on the first day when it is too hot even for a coat, and you keep that on only because two giggling damsels have had the nerve to take the seats immediately behind you. Today was a day, however, when lemon pop was an affront and even the peaceful peanut was not yet in midseason form. It was such a day as required either a home run or a disastrous error by Babe Ruth to raise the temperature of the calm Quaker City fans by a single degree.

For it was obvious from the outset that Ruth was the drawing card.

Scott Perry, the leading figure in the recent unpleasantness between the Braves and the Athletics, did the twirling for the home team and attended to it quite well. Pipp, Ruth and Pratt nicked him for two hits apiece and Lewis got one safety. That was the extent of the Yankee bombardment. Bob Shawkey, Miller Huggins's selection for the initial game, pitched soundly also, allowing the Athletics only seven hits, and received good backing from his comrades save for Ruth's blunder.

The game was a pitchers' battle almost throughout, but it started out as if the Yankees' heavy artillery was planning severe damage. After Dugan had disposed of Gleich in the first inning, Peckinpaugh laid down a grounder which Galloway nailed and shot over to first in time to head off the Yankee shortstop. Then came Wally Pipp with a heavy club and a look of determination. He let a couple pass and then caught a twister on the end of his cudgel and it sailed on a non-stop journey of seventy parasangs over the barrier in right field.

Ruth Produces a Single.

Babe Ruth now came ambling forth amid applause and cries of "Pipp's crabbing your act, Babe," "He's stealing your stuff," "You haven't got a hit in your bag." Babe fooled them, however. He had a perfectly good hit, which he promptly produced. It was a slashing single to right, which proved unprolific of results, because Perry fanned Lewis right away for the third out.

Witt started the Athletics' half of the same inning with a sharp single to left, and Strunk was passed by Shawkey. Then Walker bunted safely, and matters began to look serious. With the bases full and nobody gone, Shawkey tightened up. Griffin dumped the ball in front of the plate, forcing Witt, Shawkey to Ruel. Dugan fanned, and Gleich took care of Galloway's fly.

Two runless and hitless innings followed. Pipp opened a fresh attack in the fourth with a single, and took second when Galloway threw the ball high over Griffin's head at first. The fans shrieked for a strikeout when Ruth came forth again, and Perry obliged. The stands blossomed with an outburst of joy. Lewis lined to Dugan at second, and the latter shot the ball to Galloway, doubling Pipp.

Aside from the disastrous eighth that was all there was to it. In the eighth, if there is any real demand for the facts, things went like this:

Witt, the first man up for the Athletics, drove a scorching drive between Shawkey's legs for a single. Strunk sacrificed him a base onward. Pratt knocked down Walker's liner, but couldn't get his man at first, and Witt went on to third. Griffin hit to Meusel, who threw to Ruel, retiring Witt at the plate. Then came Dugan's long fly to centre and Ruth's mischief-making muff, and Walker and Griffin galloped home. Pratt made a nice stop of Galloway's grounder and got him at first for the third out.

Misplays Help New Yorkers Defeat Colgate in Pitchers' Battle by 2 to 1.

After a stiff battle the Columbia baseball team captured a pitchers' battle from Colgate yesterday afternoon on South Field. The home players trailed for four innings before they overtook the Maroon nine, and it was not until the seventh frame that Coakley's aggregation was able to jam the winning tally across the plate. The score was 2 to 1.

Norman Meany started the pastime for the Blue and White and had rather an interesting time before he completely subdued the visiting team. The tall Columbian was reached for only four hits, but his own generosity with bases on balls made the going difficult for him. Arrayed against the New York twirler was Leonard, who struck out eleven home players with a deceptive drop ball. Meany struck out an equal number.

The winning tally was the result of some unorthodox playing on the part of Colgate in the seventh inning. Marty Tynan, the basket ball player, who played third base for Columbia, inaugurated the inning by singling over second. When Barnes did a juggling act with Tedford's weak grounder, Tynan moved to the keystone bag and advanced to third when Leonard unleashed a hectic wild pitch over the catcher's head.

At this moment Donahan stepped to the plate and, after some bickering with the opposing pitcher, slammed a grounder to Barnes. The first baseman chose to try for Tynan who had made a break for the plate, and, although the heave was perfect, the Columbia man slid safely under Catcher McBride and tallied the winning run.

Columbia's other run-producing effort came in the fourth period, when Colgate had amassed a one-run lead. Ackermann went all the way to second when Herman, the visiting shortstop, threw his grounder into the stands behind first base. Ackerman stole third and ambled home when Johnny Hauck singled to left.

Colgate's most threatening gesture came in the first inning, when the Maroon-clad batters jumped on Meany with malice aforethought. Barnes, the first man up, sauntered on four wide ones, was sacrificed to second by McBride, and scored on Steffen's burning triple to right field. The latter hit, incidentally, could have been kept down to less proportions if Goodman had not messed up the proceedings by booting the ball into the far corner of the yard.

For the other eight innings the visitors enlivened the large crowd by making repeated onslaughts on the home nine's peace of mind. Meany's pitching in the pinches and flawless support from his team mates saved the day for the Blue and White. In the eighth frame, immediately after Columbia had apparently put the game on ice, Colgate threatened again. Both McBride and Steffen walked, but Herman drove a hot liner into Tynan's glove. The Columbia third baseman threw to Hauck and doubled McBride off second.

Meany aroused the throng by fanning five opposing batsmen in a row in the third and fourth innings. Leonard also had an easy time in the matter of striking out, and continually turned the home sluggers back with his deceptive offerings. The score:

TILDEN RETAINS NORTH AND SOUTH TENNIS TITLE, BEATING VOSHELL IN FOUR-SET MATCH

TILDEN AGAIN WINS N. & S. TENNIS TITLE

Champion and Shafer Lose to Voshell and Hardy in Straight Sets—Miss Zinderstein Retains Laurels.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 14.—The tennis champions of the United North and South successfully defended their honors on the courts of the Pinehurst Country Club in the wind-up of the big tournament today. William T. Tilden, 2d, again won the men's singles with a spectacular four-set victory over Howard Voshell, scoring 6—4, 11—13, 6—3, 6—4, while Miss Marion Zinderstein retained the women's challenge cup by defeating her fellow Bostonian, Miss Edith Sigourney, in the final round, 6—4, 6—3.

The two title holders combined for a clean-up in the mixed double events, when they triumphed over Miss Florence Ballin and Harold Throckmorton in two sets, scoring 6—1 and 6—2. Miss Zinderstein made it a clean sweep by winning the women's doubles also, paired with Miss Helen Gilleaudeau.

In the men's doubles, however, Tilden and Carlton Shafer lost in straight sets to Voshell and Samuel Hardy, 10—8, 6—8, 6—2. The veteran of the winning team came out as perhaps the biggest hero of the entire tournament through this triumph and his virtual defeat of Voshell yesterday, which he refused to accept.

Ideal Weather for Finals.

Wind and rain did their best to break up the earlier matches of the tournament, but conditions today were ideal, a cloudless sky and absolute calm combining with a comfortably warm yet bracing temperature to make tennis a pleasure for spectators as well as players. The concluding matches were all of a kind to keep the gallery in a state of enthusiasm.

The men's singles final was a brilliant exhibition from start to finish. The national indoor champion played his usual dazzling game, losing many points on errors, but earning almost as many by his sensational placement drives, volleys and service aces. The stroke analysis proves Voshell slightly the steadier of the two, but Tilden had a big advantage in the total of earned placements.

It was on ground strokes that his superiority was most apparent. Voshell outserved him, and was at least his equal in volleying, but off the ground the left-hander had all the worst of it. Tilden slipped his forehand drive again and again straight down the side lines or across court for clean aces, and his both speed and accuracy on his backhand as well. By way of variety he switched occasionally to his elder chopping style, and here also he could place the ball to advantage for forcing openings which resulted in points at the net.

Voshell, on the other hand, depended largely on his short pushing shots to get the ball past his opponent, and rarely let go with a full swing. A few times, however, when in desperate straits on deep court, he drove viciously for clean placements, to the great delight of the gallery. His service was working beautifully all through the match, and he was credited with thirteen aces, only one double fault being scored against him.

Tilden's Overhead Game Erratic.

The champion did well enough on service, sending over ten clean aces and forcing many technical errors in addition by the puzzling assortment of versatile deliveries at his command. Overhead he was erratic, missing several ridiculously easy chances, and occasionally he also clubbed his low volleys disastrously, two such errors in succession costing him the second set.

Tilden was off like a whirlwind and broke through Voshell's opening service with four straight points. He kept this advantage without great difficulty, merely winning on his own delivery until the first set had been put to his credit at 6—4.

The second session was a terrific battle of service, with neither man able to break through until twenty-four games had been played. When leading at 6—5, Voshell almost did the trick by forcing set point three times in his grasp. Tilden got out of the first hole with a tremendous drive, and forced his rival to net on the next. The third time Voshell seemed to have him passed clearly when he poked a short one down the side line. But Tilden made an amazing backhand pickup which Voshell could not reach, and then pulled out the game on two errors.

Voshell Wins Second.

When the score had mounted to 10—11, with the left-hander again leading, Voshell again brought up the set point with an earned placement, and then drove one to the extreme corner which looked like a finisher, but Tilden got to the ball somehow and drove it diagonally across the court with remarkable speed, clipping the opposite side line for the tying point. This effort, however, brought an immediate relapse, and when he netted two easy volleys in succession the set was Voshell's at 13—11.

Tilden struck his best stride in the third set and got his first break in the third game when Voshell netted a volley. His lead advanced to 5—3 on a well served game, and on the next he broke through again, in spite of a service ace, and took the set 6—3.

Tilden had to pull out of a love-40 situation at the start of the final session, but after winning this game by a close base line shot he went along on service up to 3-all with little to worry him. In the next game Voshell almost broke through following a double fault, but a fine bit of anticipation resulted in a winning volley for Tilden, and although he again put himself in the hole with a double fault he pulled out by a good smash and another successful volley.

Voshell then contributed a double fault and Tilden promptly seized the opportunity for a break, taking the deciding point with a marvelous get which turned into a winning lob, dropping near the base. Voshell came back with fine fighting spirit and broke through Tilden's service for the second time during the match, closing a magnificent rally with a volley which gave him the game.

Tilden's Speed Finally Counts.

Tilden, still leading at 5—4, then broke loose with the fastest drives at his disposal, shooting the ball straight at Voshell so hard that it could not be volleyed. He took three points in this fashion, then drew his rival out of position and whipped another beautiful forehand shot into deep court for the decision at 6—4.

Forty Candidates Out for First Yale Football Drill

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 14.—Spring football practice began at Yale this afternoon, when forty men reported to Captain Tim Callahan. They were set to work on the gridiron at Yale Field and plans were laid to perfect forward passing, punting, interference and defense before the daily drill closes in about four weeks. Assisting Captain Callahan was Dr. Billy Bull, and it was stated that Douglass Bomeisler, Ray Bigelow, Clinton Black, Ted Lilley, Jack Field, Ray Paige, Jack Owsley and several other former players and captains will be here for part of the practice. Head Coach Tad Jones will be unable to be present this Spring, but will be in constant touch with the situation. The veteran players who reported were: Herbert Kempton, Fred Webb, Billy Galvin, Ray Munger, John Oosta and Bob Lay.

DARKNESS STOPS CADETS.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 14.—Army has yet to win a ball game this year, but the Cadets played well enough today to tie up the contest with Stevens Institute, 4 to 4, in their half of the ninth. Army's brace of tallies in the fourth tied the score at 3 all, but the Hoboken collegians, on an error, a steal and Barry's single, scored what looked like the winning tally in the seventh. Rowland's free ticket and Eastman's scorching single to centre sent in an Army run which tied the game up in the ninth. The teams went through until the end of the eleventh, when the contest, which got a late start, had to be called on account of darkness.

CHANGES IN HARVARD CREW.

Kane Goes to Second Eight and Others Are Shifted.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 14.—Coach William Haines made another radical shift in the Harvard 'Varsity crew this afternoon, which sent Keith Kane, the football tackle, from No. 4 in the first boat to the second. Sherman Dawson, whose place he took, was advanced to No. 5 on the regulars. Terry, rowing at No. 7, was shifted to No. 6 and McCabe went from the latter position to No. 5. Haines will try out this order against the second crew Saturday afternoon.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS DEFEAT CUBS, 7 TO 3

CINCINNATI, Ohio., April 14.—The world's champion Cincinnati Reds opened their season here today by beating the Chicago Cubs, 7 to 3. Alexander was hit freely and was unsteady, but his batting was responsible for all three of Chicago's runs.

Ruether held the visitors well in check, except in two innings. The Reds clinched the victory in the seventh by scoring three runs on a walk to Daubert and hits by Groh, Duncan and Kopf. The score:

MAGEE SUES CHICAGO CLUB.

Ball Player Asks $9,500 Damages in Cincinnati Court.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 14.—A suit asking for $9,500 damages against the Chicago National League Club and for an attachment against that club's share of the receipts of the opening game at Redland Field was filed in Common Pleas Court here today by Lee Magee, former member of the Chicago team. The suit was filed about two hours before the Cubs and Cincinnati Nationals took the playing field for the opening game of the season.

Magee claims in his suit that he has a contract, and the amount that he seeks in damages is based on his $4,500 salary and a possible $5,000 that he might receive as a participant in the world series games should the Cubs win the National League pennant. He also alleges that he was dropped from the Cubs' roster and that the club will not permit him to play baseball in either of the big leagues. He said he would formally offer his services to Manager Mitchell before the start of today's game as a procedure in connection with the suit.

"We will fight Lee Magee's suit to a finish and we fail to see where he has a legal chance to collect a red cent," said President Veeck of the Cubs, who is here to witness the opening game.

"Magee's suit is a joke," said August Herrmann, President of the Reds and former Chairman of the National Commission.

"C" BASEBALL MEN MEET.

Columbia Veterans of Many Teams Make Plans for Future.

Former 'Varsity baseball players from teams as far back as 1887 gathered last night at the Columbia University Club, 4 West Forty-third Street, for the first meeting of the newly organized baseball branch of the Columbia 'Varsity "C" Club, composed of all former winners of the sports insignia in a major form of athletics. Robert W. Watt, Captain of the 1916 championship team, who later was signed by the Detroit Tigers, presided and outlined baseball plans of Columbia for this year and coming seasons. Among the other speakers were Coach Andy Coakley, the former major league pitcher; William B. Symmes, '00, and Harry A. Fisher, '04.

One of the new plans is to provide enough benches at baseball games on South Field so that returning alumni may watch the playing and take a more active interest in the team. Columbia has won both games so far played, and enthusiasm at Morningside Heights is greater than in any year since 1916. During the next week Harvard, Yale and Princeton will be met on the diamond, both the Crimson and the Tigers being scheduled to perform on South Field. The Yale game will be played Saturday in New Haven.

BONDAGE CAPTURES FEATURE AT BOWIE

Shows Surprising Form in Six-Furlong Dash and Outsprints Good Field.

BOWIE, Md., April 14.—The large crowd which gathered for the racing here this afternoon was treated to a surprise when James Arthur's Bondage suddenly developed a liking for a short distance and easily captured the Prince George Consolation Purse which was the feature of the day's sport. By a great run through the stretch Bondage led home the favorite, The Lamb, by three lengths in this seven-furlong sprint, with My Dear bringing up third in a field of eight starters. This concluded a very good day for Arthur, who also sent to the post the winner of the second race, Enrico Caruso, another easy winner.

Bondage is a notoriously slow starter and requires a distance to show his ability as a rule. Today he found his racing legs after he had gone about half a mile and when he finally got under way he made a show of his field, which included such good sprinters as Tailor Maid and The Decision, besides the others named. The Lamb, which has been training very impressively, was supposed to be ready for an excellent effort today and was accordingly well played. At post time he was quoted at 17 to 10, while Bondage was generally neglected owing to the distance of the race.

Instead of trailing far back, as is his custom, Bondage was right up with the field from the start, though nearly last, and was never very far from the front runners at any time. Rodriguez kept hustling him along, and, making the turn, went around the others and made a dash as he entered the stretch. Here The Decision, which had been raced into submission by The Lamb, gave up the contest completely and let everything in the race pass him.

The Lamb kept on with good courage, but Bondage was at top speed by this time and drew away with ridiculous ease as he neared the finish line. The Lamb was three lengths in front of My Dear at the end, the latter having made a strong finish, and moved up from next to last. Tailor Maid lacked her usual speed and was never a contender.

YALE ENTERS MEN FOR PENN RELAYS

Names Two-Mile Team to Run Against Oxford-Cambridge Combination in Carnival.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 14.—Yale today nominated a two-mile relay team for the Penn Relay Carnival which will be heavily backed to defeat the Oxford-Cambridge combination. The Elis won the American intercollegiate indoor championship during the Winter, twice defeating Harvard, and winning from the University of Virginia at the Johns Hopkins meet.

The quartet that will probably start will be Captain Frank Peavey Heffelfinger, Harvey S. Read, Thomas J. O'Brien and Egbert G. Driscoll, although W. D. Prizer, F. W. Hillies and H. W. Siemans have also been entered as members of the team.

Senate Sub-Committee Outlines New Policy for Government Craft.

GOVERNMENT TO OVERSEE

But All Vessels Would Go to Private Ownership Within the Period Stated.

WASHINGTON, April 14. (Associated Press).—A provision that merchant craft owned by the Government shall be disposed of to private interests within ten years is contained in the Merchant Marine Policy bill, which was virtually completed today by the Senate subcommittee to which the task was referred.

It will be reported soon to the full Commerce Committee, which held extensive hearings before Senator Jones, Republican of Washington, appointed the subcommittee to draft a policy bill.

The measure differs widely from the Merchant Marine bill passed by the House. It provides for a permanent Shipping Board of seven instead of five members, the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts to be represented by two members each, the Gulf and Great Lakes by one each and the seventh member to be a man from the interior. The board would be directed to devote special attention to development of new trade routes.

In stating a Government shipping policy, the bill asserts that "it is necessary for the national defense and the proper growth of our foreign and domestic commerce that the United States shall have a merchant marine of the best equipped and most suitable type of ships sufficient to carry the greater portion of its commerce and serve as a naval or military auxiliary in time of war or national emergency, ultimately to be owned and operated privately by American citizens."

It further declares it to be the policy of the United States "to do whatever may be necessary to develop and encourage the maintenance of such a merchant marine, and in the disposition of ships and shipping property, as hereinafter provided, in the making of rules and regulations and in the administration of our shipping laws this purpose and object should always be kept in view by the United States Shipping Board as the primary end to be attained."

To stimulate the merchant marine, the bill exempts profits of American ship owners, derived from foreign trade from all Federal excess profits taxes for ten years, provided an equivalent sum shall be used by such owners in the building of new tonnage in American shipyards. Purchasers of Government vessels would be permitted to charge off 10 per cent. of the net earnings of such vessels as depreciation.

The Shipping Board would have authority to take possession of all docks, warehouses, wharves and terminal equipment acquired under war legislation and which includes the Germans-owned piers in Hoboken, N. J., used as transport docks.

The board also would be directed to determine the need for ships between the ocean terminal of the Government railroad in Alaska and other ports, and if necessary to furnish "suitable service until the same can be taken over and supplied by private capital and enterprise." Adequate service to insular possessions "at reasonable rates" also is provided for in the same way.

War on Jersey Profiteers.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 14.—Reports from all sections of the State having reached him to the effect that prices demanded for foodstuffs and other necessaries have risen within the last few days and that the railway strike is being pointed to as the cause, Governor Edwards today directed a letter to the twenty-one County Prosecutors calling upon them to investigate the situation and refer the facts to the Grand Juries if developments warrant.

tion; so that holding the matter in abeyance you have, in effect, tied up this large amount of valuable securities and rendered them wholly unmarketable for our stockholders.

"While we believe that you are not empowered to place any such ban on our shares as your order of suspension involved, we nevertheless awaited your further action in the hope that you would speedily restore our stock to its just privileges. But inasmuch as this has not been done, we are unwilling to suffer any longer this injustice to our stockholders.

"While we shall not attempt to characterize your motive and purposes in this treatment of our securities, it is clear beyond a doubt that your action was not designed to better our stockholders and did not in fact work to their advantage.

Ask Removal from List.

"Therefore, pursuant to a resolution of the Executive Committee of our Board of Directors, we hereby respectfully request you at once to remove our stock from your list and to consider as withdrawn our application for the listing of the additional 20,000 new shares."

This letter came before the Board of Governors yesterday afternoon, and while no formal statement was made, it was announced by one of the Governors that Stutz had been stricken from the list, in accordance with Mr. Ryan's request. On Wednesday Mr. Ryan submitted his resignation as a member of the Exchange, and included denunciation of the Board of Governors. This letter also was before the Governing Committee yesterday. The verdict of the Exchange was embodied in the following resolution:

"Resolved, That action upon the request of Mr. Allan A. Ryan to sell his seat be deferred until the investigation now being had in regard to transactions in Stutz Motor Car Company of America, Inc., is completed."

The letter which carried Mr. Ryan's resignation denounced the Exchange for having men sit in judgment on the Stutz controversy who were directly interested financially in the outcome of the proceedings. The names of several Governors of the Exchange were mentioned by Mr. Ryan as being short of Stutz stock, either for themselves or for their customers. It is understood none of the men mentioned by Mr. Ryan passed on any of the measures directly affecting Stutz stock or Mr. Ryan himself at yesterday's meeting.

Resignation Not Permitted.

The investigation referred to in the resolution is one undertaken several days ago by the Stock Exchange, which promises to be the most intensive of any initiated by the Business Conduct Committee of the Stock Exchange in connection with the Stutz corner. As a member of the Exchange Allan A. Ryan & Co. would be subject to this investigation. It was pointed out that the rules of the Exchange do not permit of a resignation. The only manner in which a member can sever his connection with the Exchange is to sell his seat, the membership following the seat.

When told of the action of the Stock Exchange in striking Stutz from the list and of the further action concerning his membership, Mr. Ryan issued the following statement:

"I am gratified that the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange has promptly seceded to the request of the Stutz Motor Car Company of America, Inc., that its shares be removed from the New York Stock Exchange list. As a result, the Stock Exchange's jurisdiction over these shares ceases and there will be a return at once of a market that has been arbitrarily denied to the stockholders since March 31 last.

"I was also pleased to note that the President of the New York Stock Exchange, in his statement this morning, has expressly recognized the sanctity and inviolability of Stock Exchange contracts upon which I have stood and will continue to stand.

"I have already stated that I am prepared to prove each and every one of my statements with respect to the 'short' interest in the stock and that a thorough investigation of the situation will disclose the facts. Each and every one of the houses mentioned were borrowers of the stock and, whether for their firm or their customers, were actually representing 'short' interests.

"It is noteworthy that the proposed amendment to the constitution and by-laws of the Stock Exchange designed to give the governors power to suspend trading only demonstrates their lack of authority when they arbitrarily suspended trading in Stutz stock on March 31. This proposed amendment now emphasized the justice of my contention and that of the Stutz company against the high-handed action in forbidding dealings in Stutz shares.

"Their official removal of the ban prohibiting Stock Exchange houses from dealing in Stutz stock is a belated attempt to repair the unwarranted damage done to the company and its stockholders.

"My desire to secure a market for Stutz stockholders and to protect their interests has been accomplished."

A proposed amendment to the constitution of the New York Stock Exchange was drawn up yesterday designed to give the Governing Committee power to prevent any duplication of the Stutz situation. The amendment is a direct attack against corners. Such a measure, it was explained, had been made necessary because of the position in which the exchange finds itself due to the listing of the shares of companies with a small capitalization. The proposed amendment reads:

"Whenever it shall appear to the Governing Committee of the Exchange that a corner has been created in a stock or security listed upon the Exchange the Governing Committee may suspend deliveries of such stock or securities on contracts therein, subject to the rules of the Exchange, unless by mutual consent, and may continue such suspension until in the judgment of the committee a free market has been re-established or the respective transactions are closed upon terms agreed upon between the parties thereto or upon terms determined by the Governing Committee to be just and reasonable after the parties have been given an opportunity to be heard.

Discretionary Powers Conferred.

"Such hearing may be had either before the Governing Committee or before a special subcommittee appointed for the purpose, which shall report the testimony, together with its conclusions thereon, to the Governing Committee, which may act upon such report or in its discretion may accord the parties further hearing."

Wall Street was interested in further sales of Stutz stock at the Vesey Street auction room of A. H. Muller & Son yesterday. In all, 155 shares were bought, at a price of $700 a share. The shares were sold in six different blocks, and the odd feature was that shares carrying the stock dividend and those selling ex-dividend all brought the same price. Thomas M. Day, an attorney of 233 Broadway, bought all of the lots offered, stating he was making the purchase himself and was not acting for a client. At the price of $700 a share the stock was worth $108,500.

In a statement to members of the Exchange yesterday, Winthrop Burr, Chairman of the Committee on Business Conduct, which is investigating the Stutz situation, denied the investigation was being carried on to aid the protective committee representing the shorts. He said:

"The attention of the Business Conduct Committee has been called to the following statement contained in a news item in THE NEW YORK TIMES in relation to the request for information regarding Stutz Motor stock made by the Business Conduct Committee:

"'It was the belief that this exhaustive information was being gotten for the benefit of the protective committee representing the shorts, in case it was determined to carry the fight to the courts.'

"This statement is, of course, without foundation. The information called for is sought solely for the use of the Business Conduct Committee."

They're Paying Up Well.

With the Spring "pay up day" for the wholesale dry goods trade—April 10—far enough passed to get a real idea of how the retailers have been meeting their bills, it can be said that they have been coming to scratch in good form. Although here and there some weak spots are seen, more noticeably in the Eastern part of the country, serious delinquency is rare. At the same time, it cannot be said that there was anything like the amount of anticipation on the part of the smaller and medium-sized merchants that marked recent seasons. The reason for this was said not to be any decided lessening of consumer demand, but the curtailment of bank credit that has been such a source of uneasiness to many merchants in the past several months. Briefly, however, it is the opinion of experienced credit men that the retail trade is fundamentally sound. It was further said that there is no reason to look for even a normal pre-war crop of failures unless something unforeseen happens.

Strikes Hit Drug Trade.

Strikes which paralyzed the railroads closed many of the dye plants. Drug and Chemical Markets will say today, owing to the inability to obtain raw materials. As deliveries of the finished products were impossible, except by truck, buyers kept out of the market and trading was at a standstill. The same troubles, coupled with the marine workers' strike, have also seriously affected the drug trade. Warehouses are full of goods waiting the lifting of railroad embargoes, and many imported drugs are becoming scarce because of the inability to unload ships that are arriving daily. Acids are likely to be advanced in price soon, owing to the great demand for them and the present scarcity. For the most part, prices are firm throughout the market.

Trucks for Getting Supplies.

Some of the large stores in neighboring cities are using their own delivery trucks to get merchandise from wholesalers unable to make deliveries. In the wholesale district yesterday several trucks were noted bearing the names of out-of-town department stores. Manufacturers of ready-to-wear were using every type of car, from luxurious limousines to "flivvers," to move out parcels most urgently needed. Experience gained in former tieups was liberally drawn on to find means of shipping. Word that parcel post regulations would be changed to permit heavier packages being shipped was regarded as a step that would go a long way in relieving the situation.

Gray Goods Sales Not Large.

Although there was no particular snap to the demand in the local gray goods market yesterday, a feature of the day's business was the selling of a new high record price on 38½-inch 64-60s when Eastern cloths of that construction sold for spot delivery at 26½ cents. For deliveries running through the rest of this month the same goods brought 26 cents. May and June business was done in 38½-inch 60-48s at 24 cents, and some May sales of 39-inch 72-76s were also put through at 30 cents. Buyers again took nearby 39-inch 64-104, 4.20-yard sateens at 42 cents. Other sales of interest were lacking.

Active Demand for Flowers.

Continued activity marks operations in the flower trade. Wreaths in combinations of all flowers as well as grapes and fruits are generally regarded as the present favorites. They are used for trimming leghorn, maline, braided and hair hats. For Summer wear trailing effects are among the leading numbers. Daisies and field flowers, combined with grasses and made into wreaths, have lately arrived in the popular class. The colors most sought are pink, jade, old rose, nasturtium and white. Quite a little trade is being done with dress manufacturers who are using flower wreaths to ornament evening models.

Different Allotments Proposed.

An association executive connected with a retail organization has the suggestion to make that, instead of the present form of allotments made by mills and others in the dry goods trade, something patterned on the plan used to sell automobiles might prove more beneficial all around. This would mean setting a figure for yearly production and prices based on capacity volume, and then asking customers to put themselves down for the portion of merchandise desired. On staple materials a large saving in the cost of manufacture would be effected since all selling hazards would be removed.

Popularizing Marabou.

New life has been put into the trade in marabou by the step taken to popularize this material in its various forms and uses. The efforts of dealers will be centred on pointing out the advantages which marabou possesses as an adjunct to the Summer wardrobes of women. In capes and scarfs, it is pointed out, feathers are much cooler to wear than furs, and the effect is just as smart. There is also the matter of price to be considered. While fur prices have soared, marabou still continues to be sold at very reasonable rates. All told, the trade considers a number of advantages can be named for wider use of marabou, and there will probably be a campaign for that purpose.

Regular and Sale Prices.

In the garment trade the same situation is presented to buyers, according to one of them, that has been placed before the consumer. He pointed out that Fall lines bearing advances over the previous season are shown almost right after the time when sales were made at reduced prices. In other words, the buyer after picking up numerous bargains is asked to place orders for new goods at much higher prices. This, the buyer said, has been one of the principal reasons why the retailers have been so backward in placing orders. "While such comparisons occur to the buyer," he said, "all the wholesale trade can expect is a lagging demand that will keep just one step ahead of actual needs."

Taffetas in Juveniles' Hats.

The most brilliant shades of taffeta, made up both in solid effects and combinations, are to a great extent responsible for the attractiveness of a leading line of models for juveniles seen in the local millinery trade. A "Summery" model of apple green designed for a young girl and made entirely without a frame, is among the newest hats of this order. It is described as a "symphony in soft lines." Brilliant tones of a shade known as bermuda, called ripe tomato by the house making the line in question—as well as American Beauty and rust, are used in the production of small, soft capeline and rolling brim effects. Among the favored color combinations developed in taffeta for sports wear is that of rust and emerald.

St. Louis Fur Offerings Big.

Purchasers of furs are not going to have any difficulty in locating all the goods they want this Spring, for not only do announcements of the merchandise to be sold in this city and London at the forthcoming auctions show record quantities, but the St. Louis auction also sets a new high mark. At the last-named sale approximately $30,000,000 worth of skins will be sold, this quantity setting a new world's record. For the account of the United States Government will be sold 6,000 dressed and dyed sealskins, while 5,500 similar skins will be sold for other shippers. In the raw state 772 sealskins will be auctioned for the Japanese Government. The other offerings range from seven-sea otter to 2,250,000 moles, among the largest collections being 1,200,000 squirrels, 1,080,000 assorted raw muskrats, and 492,000 pounds of Dutch, Belgian, Australian and New Zealand rabbits. Other large collections include skunk, opossum, muskrat and white hares. Due largely to freight embargoes now existing, the opening date of the St. Louis sale has been changed from May 3 to May 10.

GOUGERS AND LAWS BLAMED BY GOMPERS

Unrest Due to Uncurbed High Costs and Restrictive Legislation, He Asserts.

URGES RESTRAINT BY LABOR

Condemns "Wildcat" Strikes, but Warns Lawmakers and Employers to Consider Wage Demands.

CLEVELAND, April 14.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, here to attend a convention of cigarmakers, today issued a statement regarding the general industrial unrest. He said that nothing practical had been done to prevent the high cost of living, and that laws made to protect the masses from exploitation have been turned against them.

He urged all workers to practice self-restraint, so that rational demands of labor may be obtained.

The statement follows:

"The condition of the workers in the United States has been tense since the signing of the armistice. That condition has been aggravated by profiteers, by a number of employes and by the action of National and State legislators in enacting, or attempting to enact, legislation not of a constructive, but of a restrictive character.

"Not a practical thing has been done to prevent the soaring of the price of the necessities of life.

"Laws made to protect the masses of the people from exploitation have been turned against them, while the profiteers and exploiters chuckle with glee.

"No wonder, then, that the workers who did so much to win the war and who are now 33 1-3 per cent. worse off financially than before the war, are discontented and resentful on account of their present conditions and surroundings. It requires no close social or economic student to understand the situation.

"Unless wages are increased to meet the increased cost of living it is equal to a reduction in wages and a corresponding lowering of the workers' standards.

"No wonder, then, that we find workers, non-members of organized workers, and even some who are union men, becoming impatient and disregarding the discipline usually practiced in labor unions.

"I urge upon all the workers, in their own interests, to organize and practice self-restraint, so that in an orderly and rational manner the demands of labor may be presented and secured. Little or nothing can be accomplished by wildcat strikes.

"Employers, business men and men in official and public life, whether in or out of the legislative or administrative bodies, should also understand the acute situation and heed the normal demands made by the organized labor movement, for the rumblings are menacing."

CARNEGIE'S WORK PRAISED.

New York Peace Society Commends Efforts of Late President.

The New York Peace Society, at its annual meeting in the Astor yesterday, adopted resolutions commending the work of Andrew Carnegie, its late President, in the cause of world peace, and advocating the immediate ratification of the Peace Treaty, with such reservations as may be found necessary. Submission of the treaty to the voters in November was disapproved in the resolution.

The following officers were elected: President, Oscar S. Straus; Secretary, Charles H. Levermore (re-elected); Treasurer, the Central Union Trust Company. Thirty Vice Presidents were re-elected. The Rev. John Kelman was chosen to succeed John Henry Jowett. Mrs. Abram I. Elkus, William L. Ransom and Talcott Williams were added to the Directors for one year, and ten Directors for a three-year term were chosen.

FREE RICHMOND WOMAN.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, April 14.—After the trial of Mrs. Helen Reid Marshall, Richmond society woman, originally from Norfolk, indicted on the charge of sending a box of poisoned chocolate drops through the mail to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lucy Harwood Marshall, wife of William Marshall, Jr., civil engineer, formerly with the Pennsylvania Railroad in Philadelphia, had been in progress for several hours in Federal District Court today, Judge Waddill brought the case to an abrupt end by directing a verdict for the accused woman.

The Government had concluded its side and Mrs. Marshall, Sr., first witness for the defense, had just got under way with her testimo when the court intervened.

Miss Harwood, a niece of David Garland, New York attorney, was married to young Marshall here Sept. 7, 1918. The two lived for five months thereafter in Philadelphia and then moved to Baltimore. There, it is alleged, they became estranged, the wife returning to the home of her parents.

The poisoned candy is alleged to have been received at the Harwood home June 11, 1919, and, according to J. C Page, defense counsel, criminal action was not taken until after an ineffectual effort had been made by members of the Harwood family to effect a reconciliation between the estranged pair. The candy was found to contain arsenic. The Government failed in its effort today to prove that the handwriting on the package was that of the accused woman.

THOMPSON LIED, ASSERTS ASSEMBLY

Calls False Charge That Members Were Drunk When They Expelled Socialists.

BAR HIM FROM CHAMBER

ASK THE SENATE TO ACT

Adopt Resolution Asking It to Expunge His Attack from Its Records.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—In an angry mood as a result of the charges made by Senator Thompson of Niagara on the Senate floor yesterday that the ousting of the Socialist Assemblymen was attended by a drunken orgy and that Mark Brady, lobbyist for a group of up-State manufacturers, had supplied liquor to influence votes, the Assembly today adopted resolutions branding his utterances as untruthful, denying him the privileges of the floor in the Assembly, and calling upon the Senate to expunge his remarks from its records.

The resolution, introduced by Assemblyman Cuvillier, after its adoption in the Assembly was sent to the Senate for such action as that body might deem proper. It was not a concurrent resolution.

Senator Henry Walters, President pro tem. of the Senate, said late tonight that the Senate might take the subject under consideration tomorrow. Senator Thompson went to New York tonight without making any comment on the action of the Assembly.

The Cuvillier resolution read as follows:

"Whereas, Senator Thompson has committed a high breach of personal privilege in attacking and assailing a co-ordinate branch of the Legislature and its members, the Assembly of the State of New York, and made a false and malicious statement in regard to the conduct of its members, tending to bring the members and the Assembly into popular odium and contempt;

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Assembly of the State of New York, jealous of it's dignity, that since Senator George F. Thompson unwarrantedly and untruthfully attacked the members of the Assembly in words uttered and spoken on the floor of the Senate, April thirteen, nineteen hundred and twenty, he be denied during the session of the Assembly, nineteen hundred and twenty, the privilege of the floor, and

"Be it further resolved, That the Senate be respectfully requested to expunge from the records of the Senate the remarks of Senator George F. Thompson, delivered April 13, 1920, attacking members of the Assembly of the State of New York as to their conduct in night and morning of March 31 and April 1, 1920."

The long debate in the Assembly on the Cuvillier resolution followed a conference among Speaker Sweet, Simon L. Adler, the majority leader, and Assemblymen Jesse and Cuvillier of New York.

"Thompson," he continued, "is a deliberate, malicious and wanton liar. He ought to be denied the privileges of the floor of the Assembly. He should be ostracized by decent men. When he dies his body should be taken to some isolated spot, where it could not pollute the earth and air where it is laid to rest."

Assemblyman Martin G. McCue, Tammany Hall, declaimed that Senator Thompson was "drunk with arrogance and conceit, and was sore that the Socialists were ousted." "There was another little fellow over there, Senator Miller, who also attacked us," said McCue. "Some one kicked him in the place where his brains ought not to be but are, and woke him up. Thompson intimated that we were bribed by Mark Daly to throw out the Socialists. The skunk season has arrived, and all the skunks are letting themselves be known by their stink. Thompson is not only a confounded liar; he is a contemptible liar. Some one ought to land a long swing on him. But as for us, we cannot afford to lay hands on him or to wipe our feet on him, even. We would dignify him by doing so. He is not worth it."

Cuvillier went through a series of pugilistic motions as he declared that if it were not for his wife and daughter and his dignity either he or Senator Thompson would be occupying a hospital cot before night.

"Thompson said we had to have liquor to acquire courage to throw the Socialists out," shouted Cuvillier. He is a liar. If my resolution is adopted his lying remarks reflecting on this body will be wiped off the Senate record. Thompson is a snake in the grass. He is like a detective in a house of friends."

Colonel Fred A. Wells, Republican, representing a Brooklyn district, called Thompson an "unmitigated liar" and declared he should be expelled.

Both women members of the Assembly took occasion to pay their respects to Thompson. One, Miss Gillette of Schenectady, said she had been in the Assembly Chamber throughout the night when the Socialist ouster resolution was under debate, and had seen nothing to justify the Thompson charges. She urged the adoption of the Cuvillier resolution. Miss Marguerite L. Smith of New York also declared her intention to support the resolution.

About twenty members remained in their seats when Speaker Sweet ordered a rising vote on its adoption.

"The resolution is adopted unanimously," he announced.

The Mayor's Committee held a meeting last night at the Fifth Municipal Court, Broadway and Ninety-sixth Street, starting a series to be held every Wednesday night to adjust grievances between tenants and landlords. Leo Kenneth Mayer and Julius Appelbaum, counsel to the committee, and Miss Julia Grant, Secretary, noted complaints and gave advice in more than one hundred cases. Landlords will be asked to appear next Wednesday night, so both sides may be heard.

mith Signs Last Rent Bills, Also Income Tax Amendment

ALBANY, April 14.—Governor mith today signed two of Senator ockwood's bills, the last of the eries of bills designed to remedy he housing situation.

One of the measures amends the aw so as to require thirty days' notice to vacate instead of twenty days or summary proceedings, and the other makes provisions for a stay of thirty days in cases of eviction.

The Governor also approved Senator Davenport's bill allowing nonresident personal income tax payers the same exemptions with respect to net incomes as is allowed residents.

ILLINOIS RESULTS START RIVAL CLAIMS

LOWDEN HAS AT LEAST 44

This Would Give Wood 13, Johnson 1—Lowden's Lead in State About 80,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The result of the primary election in Illinois yesterday has confused political leaders here. Late returns give Lowden a probable plurality of about 80,000 in the entire State, but to offset this General Wood captured Cook County, which includes Chicago, by a plurality of 27,533 on the complete returns.

General Wood in the popular election for Presidential preference carried nine of the ten Congressional districts in Cook County, each of which has two delegates to the National Convention, thus giving him a claim on paper to eighteen delegates to the convention. Among the delegates elected in the Cook County districts carried by Wood are four who are avowedly for Lowden and one who is for Johnson. So it is probable that the best Wood can hope for on the first ballot at the National Convention is thirteen votes.

It is understood that the unpledged delegates elected in the district carried by Wood will vote for him on the first ballot, but they have asserted that they will stick with him to the end in the fight for the nomination.

Governor Lowden, on the basis of the popular vote by districts, has a paper claim to all of the thirty delegates elected outside of Cook County and two in that county. The eight delegates at large to be elected at the State Convention on May 10, also will vote for Lowden on the first ballot in view of the fact that he obtained a plurality of the votes in the entire State. This would give Lowden, if the popular vote in districts is to be the guide, thirty votes outside of Cook County and two in Cook County and eight delegates at large, or a total of forty, as opposed to eighteen to which Wood could make claim.

Forecast of First Ballot.

On the present basis, however, with the avowed Lowden delegates in districts in Cook County carried by Wood sticking by the Governor and Johnson's one delegate sticking by him, the vote in the National Convention will be as follows:

Wood—Thirteen delegates from Cook County.

Johnson—One delegate from Cook County.

This is about the best summary of the situation possible today, as far as what will happen on the first ballot at the National Convention is concerned. As opposed to this, the paper claim on the result of the popular vote for Presidential preference in the districts is as follows:

The Lowden forces were maintaining today that the fact that Governor Lowden carried the State by a plurality of about 80,000 was sufficient indorsement of his record and candidacy, despite the setback which he received in Cook County. There is no denying, however, that Lowden's followers are somewhat depressed by the fact that Cook County went to Wood, but they do not accept it as a fatal blow to his cause, especially because of the bitter local fight which marked the Cook County election.

The general feeling here seems to be that the result has weakened the cause of both Wood and Lowden, because neither obtained a complete sweep. It is felt that from this time, both must give evidence of very strong support in some other direction if their candidacies are not to suffer.

In this situation Senator Hiram Johnson has gained considerable prestige. The size of his vote, despite the fact that he made no campaign, is one of the sensations of the primary, and it is expected his managers will make the most of it in his behalf in other States.

Reports are heard in Chicago that Johnson sentiment is on the increase in Indiana, where the primary will be held on May 4. It is believed the real fight in Indiana will be between Johnson and Wood, as things are now shaping up.

The importance of the victory which Mayor William Hale Thompson won for himself in the organization fight in Chicago is not to be overlooked in the national situation tangle. Thompson is the virtual Czar of Chicago today. His organization is stronger than Tammany Hall. He probably will control the State convention and is sure of re-election as National Committeeman. He will be in a position to dictate the makeup of the delegation-at-large to the national convention.

The Chicago Post, which supported Lowden, says: "The 40,000 votes polled by Johnson in Cook County must be conceded an extraordinary achievement for a candidate whose name was not on the ballot. City Hall support had much to do with piling up this record. It will no doubt put new vim into the Johnson campaign and he must be counted upon as a serious factor in the race for the nomination."

The Chicago Journal, which supported Wood, says: "In Governor Lowden's home town of Chicago, in the entire county, General Wood got 105,877 votes, Lowden 78,344 and Hiram Johnson 40,881. In other words, Lowden polled only one-fourth of the Republican vote of Cook County, which is his home county. No man can go into a national convention with the handicap of that record and have the remotest chance of success."

As for the actual figures of the primary, returns had been received at a late hour tonight from all except 249 out of 5,690 precincts in the State. These gave Lowden 234,220 votes and Wood 153,426, making Lowden's plurality 74,813 over Wood. Johnson's votes in these precincts totaled 46,909, and 40,881 of these were "written in" in Cook County.

CHICAGO, April 14.—While less than half the vote in the State was cast at Tuesday's primary and only one-sixth as many women as men went to the polls, feminine thrift added to the pluralities by which four bond issues for $34,000,000 for municipal improvements were defeated in Chicago. On the primary candidates the proportion of women to men was about the same for the two leading candidates, but on the bond issues the female percentage ran much higher on the negative vote.

WILL OPEN FIGHT ON 'PET DOG' FLATS

Mayor's Committee Learns of Scheme to Cut Up Five and Six Room Apartments.

TO SCRUTINIZE ALL PLANS

Justice Robitzek's Life Threatened Because Decisions Favor Tenants.

Arthur J. W. Hilly, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, sent out letters last night asking the Building Superintendents of the five boroughs to meet him in the office of the committee at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to confer on a new situation which threatens to curtail the number of dwellings for families. Almost overnight, said Mr. Hilly, landlords owning houses having apartments of five and six rooms each have begun sending dispossess notices to tenants asking for possession on the ground that the apartments are to be remodeled into two and three room apartments.

Mr. Hilly said that the rents to be charged for each of the smaller apartments will be just as much as are now being paid for the entire apartment. In five and six room apartments, he added, families with several children are able to live comfortably. Such families will be ousted and will give way to bachelors or to married couples whose entire family consists, according to Mr. Hilly, of "a pet dog." Mr. Hilly told of a six-room apartment renting at $75 which was converted into three two-room apartments which rent at from $80 to $100 each.

An extremely careful scrutiny of plans submitted for conversion of buildings with a view to discouraging if possible the new practice will be submitted at the meeting. Tenement House Commissioner Frank Mann and Captain Leo of the Bureau of Standards will be present at the conference.

Justice Gets "Death" Letter.

Justice Harry Robitzek in the Second District Court in the Bronx has received letters threatening his life, written presumably because of his strict interpretation of the law in favor of tenants. One letter said "Landlords are capable of sending bombs the same as tenants." Other letters threaten the Justice with removal from the bench.

The Mayor's Committee received a complaint yesterday from a Bronx landlord who produced a letter purporting to be from a friend of all the tenants," threatening his life. The letter said the tenants were "of the best class a landlord could have."

The number of landlord and tenant cases in most of the courts are decreasing daily. It is believed by the members of the Mayor's Committee that the landlords have decided to accept the new laws as interpreted in the courts. In the Fourth District Court there were ten cases, as compared with 100 a week ago, and in the Second District Court there were ten, as compared with 400 last Monday. In both courts Assistant Corporation Counsel James D. O'Sullivan drew up individual leases for cold water flat tenants, who had never before had leases.

Reports Big Rent Rise.

Edward F. Messer of 612 West 172d Street, a Health Department inspector, told the Mayor's Committee that his rent, which was $36 on May 1, 1919, was being raised to $58 next month, but that he was notified by Jacob Shapiro of 261 Broadway that in view of the fact that his rent had already been raised, the new rent would be $54.

"Your arithmetic is a little wrong," wrote Assistant Corporation Counsel O'Sullivan on the notice. "I was paying $36 a month on May 1, 1919; 25 per cent. of that is $9. I tender you $45 as my rent for my premises by advice of the Mayor's Committee, J. D. O'Sullivan, Assistant Corporation Counsel, acting for Assistant Messer signed the letter. He recently has been paying $48.

The Mayor's Committee, which had 1,200 cases before it on Monday, had 400 cases yesterday. In answer to tenants in the high-grade apartment houses who report attempts to coerce them into signing leases at exorbitant rentals, the committee is urging tenants to offer reasonable increases. If these are refused application for stays of eviction will be granted a month or two at a time up to one year.

Announcement was made that six bills framed by the Merchants' Rent Committee had been introduced in the Senate by Senator Peter J. Abeles, Republican. The bills in substance extend the benefits conferred on tenants in dwellings to business men occupying stores and lofts, and efforts are being made to have them cover office tenants.

FIVE HURT IN COLLISION.

Trains Crash on Elevated Curve at 185th Street.

Five passengers received minor injuries in a rear-end collision on the Third Avenue elevated road shortly after 7 o'clock last night near the 183d Street station. The injured, who received cuts and lacerations from flying glass and falls, were Alfred Holm of 2,778 Marion Avenue, the Bronx; Mrs. John Miller and Miss Helen McNulty of 2,762 Bainbridge Avenue, the Bronx; Miss Rose Schumm of 334 West Eighty-second Street and John Schlinger of 155 East Eightieth Street. They were treated by Dr. Epstein of Fordham Hospital and proceeded to their homes.

The accident was at the sharp curve at 185th Street. A southbound train, operated by Motorman John J. Heany of 489 East 183d Street, was approaching the curve slowly, according to Heany, who said that when the automatic signal suddenly flashed red his brakes refused to function and his train crashed into another ahead. Some of the woodwork took fire, but the flames were quickly extinguished by employes of the railroad.

HITCHCOCK ATTACKS BRYAN.

Latter Practically Challenged President's Leadership, Asserts Senator.

HASTINGS, Neb., April 14.—Senator G. M. Hitchcock in an address tonight asserted one reason why he had consented to permit the use of his name as a Presidential candidate in Nebraska was because he felt that if the State were to present a candidate to the Democratic National Convention "he ought to be a man who is at least in harmony with the present attitude of the Democratic Party, and not one who is attempting to displace President Wilson as leader of the party."

William J. Bryan, he declared, went to the Jackson Day dinner in Washington "with a prepared speech in which he practically challenged the leadership of President Wilson and announced himself as an advocate of an extraordinary program at the approaching Democratic convention." Mr. Bryan's action "was regarded practically as an avowal on his part," Senator Hitchcock asserted, "that he would be or might become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President."

Bronx Man for Supreme Court.

Democratic leaders of the Bronx have received assurances from Governor Smith that he will appoint a Bronx man to the Supreme Court to succeed Justice Francis Pendleton, who resigned recently. Several delegations have gone from the Bronx to Albany to ask the Governor to select a citizen from that borough for a place on the bench. The Governor, it was said last night, told them that, while he was willing to give the place to a Bronx man, he would not appoint a man holding an elective office.

Overalls Clubs Spread in South and West; National Organization is Now Started

Special to The New York Times.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 14.—Organization of a National League of Overalls Club was announced today, with Birmingham as the headquarters. The national emblem is a pair of scissors inscribed with the letters "H. C. L."

The local club now has more than 5,000 members, including Judge Martin of the Records Court, City Controller, City Purchasing Agent and all of the City Commission.

A woman's auxiliary will be formed tomorrow and plans are under way to organize a "Brogan Club" to combat the high prices of shoes.

ATLANTA, April 14.—Support for the "overalls and old clothes" movement initiated here is announced from several sections of the South, and in addition to the "overalls clubs" among the men, the women are forming "apron clubs."

John A. Manget, chairman of the Georgia Fair Price Commission, today announced that he had placed an order for 3,000 pairs of overalls to be furnished members here at wholesale prices.

At Columbia, S. C., every member of the student body of the University of South Carolina has agreed to wear overalls until "such time as the prices of clothing reach a reasonable figure."

At Richmond, Va., fifteen hundred men have joined the "Old Clothes and Overalls Club" organized by the Renters and Consumers' Protective Association.

Roanoke, Va., reports that three overalls clubs and one apron club have organized there at four different meetings of citizens. A total membership of 1,400 was enrolled.

EMPORIA, Kan., April 14.—An overalls club was organized here today. City firemen and policemen will wear denim and the Rev. J. C. Brogan, recently elected Mayor, probably will wear overalls at his inauguration.

SPOKANE, Wash., April 14.—Fire Chief A. L. Weeks and many city firemen reported for duty today in $8 khaki suits. Chief Weeks said hereafter that regulation blue uniforms, which cost $72, would be required only on formal occasions.

ROSEBURG, Ore., April 14.—To combat the high cost of wearing apparel many business men here today signed an agreement pledging themselves to wear overalls and soft shirts until the price of clothing is reduced.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 14.—An "old clothes club" in Sheffield Scientific School at Yale University materialized today. Students are asked to wear old clothes "in order to bring down the present high cost of clothing," and those arraying themselves in new suits will be regarded as "guilty of a serious breach of social etiquette."

COMMITTEE DIVIDED ON MARTENS'S GUILT

WANTS PALMER TO ACT

Borah Will Exonerate Envoy in a Separate Report to the Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A report on the investigation of the activities in the United States of Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, Soviet representative, made to the Foreign Relations Committee today by Lee which is to be carried to the Senate stirred up a controversy in the committee, which is to be carried to the Senate floor.

Senator Moses was Chairman of a sub-committee of the Foreign Relations Committee which made the investigation. He presented the report today as representing his personal views of what the inquiry had developed. But before the report was received it was amended, on the ground that Senator Moses had agreed with Attorney General Palmer's view of Mr. Martens's activities.

Members of the sub-committee declared that the investigation did not bear out the contention either of the Attorney General or of Senator Moses that Mr. Martens's personal activities had been directed toward the overthrow of the American Government by violence.

Borah Sides with Martens.

Senator Borah announced that he so far disagreed with the report made by Senator Moses that he would file a separate one of his own tomorrow, exonerating Mr. Martens of any attempt to overthrow the Government of this country by force or violence. Mr. Borah also indicated an intention to bring up the subject in the Senate, where the Moses report may be discussed in connection with a letter to Mr. Martens from A. V. Rutgers, who was sent by Trotsky and Lenin to preside over the Congress of the Third International in Amsterdam, and which was made public today by the Department of Justice. This letter speaks of Mr. Martens as a supporter of Communist principles.

The report made by Mr. Moses, as it was amended, makes the following findings:

"1—Martens has no staus whatever in this country in any diplomatic or other Governmental representative quality.

"2—Martens assumes to represent the Russian Federated Soviet Republic—a régime established in Russia by a revolution and functioning under a constitution which has been above summarized; a régime which has never been recognized by the Government of the United States, and which in international law has no standing as a constituted authority.

"3. Martens has received no recognition officially or even personally by the Government of the United States.

"4. Martens, by the accepted practice of this Government in all its treaty or other international usages, is a German subject, and in consequence an alien enemy.

"5. Martens's propaganda in this country for the overthrow of governments is established by his own testimony, as shown in the body of the report. He has publicly associated and sympathized with those advocating such courses. He has admitted to the committee his persistent revolutionary character, his desire to see the establishment of the 'dictatorship of the proletariat in all lands,' and his opinion that it would be better for this country if the Soviet Government were established here. It was also proved that he continued to employ in the staff of his embassy persons who have publicly and in his presence advocated the bringing of bolshevism to America and he admitted to the committee that 'any means that would produce this condition would be justified.'

"All this leads the committee to the conclusion that Martens's activities here have been of a nature to render him more suitable for investigation and action by the Department than by the committee of the Senate."

End of Anglo-French Dispute Marked by Return of the British Ambassador.

FOCH GOING TO SAN REMO

Will Support French Demand for Disarmament of Germany at Meeting of Three Premiers.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 14.—At 5 o'clock this afternoon Lord Derby, the British Ambassador, notified Premier Millerand he had received instructions from his Government to retake his place on the Committee of Ambassadors, charged with enforcement of the Versailles Treaty. Thus the Franco-British incident was officially closed.

It was announced this afternoon that Premier Millerand and Marshall Foch would leave Paris on Friday for San Remo.

The French will enter the conference in a firm determination to obtain the disarmament of Germany. Recent events, they argue, show the necessity for that work being pushed vigorously.

Today's reports from Germany say that General von Luttwitz, associate of von Kapp in the Berlin coup of March 13, is at the head of a body of troops in Pomerania, which has refused to obey Government orders.

Despite the Berlin reports that the Reichswehr is withdrawing from the Ruhr region, the French reports say the Reichswehr is advancing south of the Ruhr River.

Premier Millerand appeared before the Senate today and repeated the announcement he made in the Chamber yesterday at the close of the Franco-British incident. He added:

"At the moment when Bonar Law, speaking for the British Government, was making his statement before the House of Commons, the two Ministers of War, French and British, joining acts to words and stating by that fact the value of our alliance, were meeting at Paris to confer with their military experts on the disarmament of Germany."

At the end of M. Millerand's address, President Bourgeois of the Senate said:

PARIS, April 14 (Associated Press).—Berlin advices say it is reported from a reliable source that no additional German soldiers have entered the neutral zone.

Reports that the Reichswehr have commenced to evacuate the Ruhr industrial district are incorrect according to other advices from Cologne. The workmen are threatening to take up arms again if the evacuation is delayed.

All the mines have been found to be intact, the advices say, adding that numerous secret depots of arms and munitions have been discovered in various cities, particularly in Schleswig-Holstein and at Kiel.

MILLERAND HAILS REUNION.

Message to British People Declares Friendship Cannot Be Broken.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 14.—Premier Millerand, in the course of a message to the British people, which he has given to the Paris correspondent of The Morning Post, says:

"This trivial incident has now come to an end, and we may rest assured that good relations between England and France cannot be imperilled by such paltry difficulties. The union between our two countries cannot be broken because it is founded not only on our common interests, but on our common sufferings and our glorious memories. It is impossible to disunite two peoples who have fought side by side for five years, during which English battalions and French battalions were often mingled in the same trenches and mingled, too, in the same common grave.

"Our mutual affection is firmly rooted in the common sacrifice of our sons. They were loyal and faithful comrades in arms, and their friendship in these long years of strenuous conflict, of disaster and of glorious final victory strengthened our alliance better than many treaties could have done.

"We shall continue to honor our beloved dead by remaining united, since it was for this that they died, and our friendship will be as everlasting and unchangeable as is the memory of our glorious dead."

AN interview with Governor Alfred E. Smith on his reconstruction plan, which would rationalize New York State's governing machinery and save vast sums for the taxpayers, will appear in The New York Times next Sunday. Governor Smith's plan would eliminate the 187 commissions, bureaus and offices in the State government and erect an administrative branch of 18 departments.

MAX HOELZ AGAIN ESCAPES PURSUERS

HE SEES HIS END NEAR

Correspondent Visits the Outlaw in His Mountain Retreat and Talks with Him.

BERLIN, April 14.—Max Hölz, the Communist leader, who was forced to flee from Plauen, Saxony, appeared early this morning at Auerbach with a small band. The local guard attempted to seize him and shots were exchanged. Ten of his companions were captured, but Hölz escaped in an automobile.

BERNE, April 14.—Max Hölz, the German Communist leader, with 6,000 armed workmen, who plundered Plauen and Falkenstein, Saxony, is reported to be at a standstill on the Bohemian frontier of Eastern Saxony.

The negotiations of Hölz with the authorities of Czechoslovakia for admission to that country have resulted only in the Czechoslovaks reinforcing the frontier guard.

A serious encounter between Hölz's forces and the Reichswehr troops advancing against him appears to be imminent.

Hoelz Admits Defeat.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KLINGENTHAL, April 13.—Accompanied by an English colleague I have come from Plauen to Klingenthal to see Max Hölz. For the first few miles the journey was uneventful, but presently we came to the village of Markneukirchen. Here we were summarily held up by Hölz's outpost, armed with rifles and wearing a red armlet.

Hölz's outer guards asked our business and whether we were armed. They seemed considerably impressed when we said we wished to speak with none less than Hölz himself, and they passed the word along the line to let us pass.

Soon we entered a narrow valley which cuts through Erzgebirge—or the mountains of the Saxony-Bohemian borderland. We mounted steadily and there was a curious feeling as of climbing up to Highland Eyrie. Hölz has installed himself in a hotel, but we found him drinking coffee in a neighboring café.

He is a man of fine appearance, well groomed and with that intense look in his deep set eyes which marks the sealot on learning. He addressed us in English—he worked for a year in London as an engineer—but he fell back on German.

He claims 5,000 men are enrolled in his army and that the workers to a man are behind him. Both of those statements should be taken at a generous discount. Anyway Hölz admits he has absolutely no hope of success.

Owing to the hopelessness of this cause Max will not fight, he says, and he will either cross the Bohemian frontier and surrender his arms to Czech troops, or he will quietly dissolve and hide among the working classes.

Speaks Carefully of Plunder.

As Max does not intend anything beyond saving himself, his whole movement becomes one of sheer plunder, but he shows the utmost delicacy in the language which he uses to describe his acts of incendiarism and arson committed against private people. He calls "reprisals against the Reichswehr" the levies, imposts and extortions which he has visited upon towns and magnates that have fallen victims to him. He calls "contributions" such weekly "loans" as he has wrung out of the communities of Plauen and Falkenstein, and his seizure of and Red misrule and revelry in the baronial castle of Falkenstein he would term "hospitality."

Even here in little Klingenthal, Hölz has ordained that the village must pay him 1,000,000 marks, which would be $250,000 in other days.

What condemns Max as a political leader is that knowing he must soon surrender or hide he nevertheless continues to allow his force to fatten upon a country for which he knows he can promise, or at any rate perform, nothing.

Still, let us be fair even to Hölz. When he ruled in Plauen and Falkenstein he bought food supplies, although by forced credits, and he saw that the people were fed. He meant his movement to be a part of a much larger one and he seems, like Alexander the Great, to recognize himself that the smallness of his zone of conquest has inevitably resulted in lowering the tone of his army.

A seriously earnest, honest and educated Communist as I believe him to be he knows he is faced personally with two dangers. There is the danger from the Reichswehr, and what is more, he is under no illusions as to the danger which may confront him from his own troops, who may suddenly turn against him because of sharp measures he adopts against their propensity to loot. For Hölz, I am sure, would never plunder except for the sake of his movement, and then he would speak of it as a mere "appropriation," but one leaves him and goes in to Klingenthal's main street and one has the feeling of having met a man worth meeting.

GERMAN PAYMENTS LAG FOR OUR RHINE ARMY

Cost to This Country $1,220,000 a Day, Kahn Says—Proposal to Drop Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Failure by Germany to make full payments for the maintenance of American forces in that country, as required by the armistice, was said by Chairman Kahn of the House Military Committee in a speech today to have resulted in the troops being maintained at a daily expense to the United States of $1,220,000.

Representative Kahn said that "he doubted if this country would ever be able to recover the great amount of indebtedness from the German Government." Several payments on account have been made by Germany since the armistice, he stated, but no payments for the transportation of replacement troops or supplies for the troops already in Germany have been made. A total of 433,000,000 marks has been paid on account up to April 4.

"The President and the Peace Commissioners deliberately bartered away the rights of this country for the League of Nations," Representative Longworth, Republican, of Ohio, interjected.

"We asked for nothing and the Allies took us at our word," Mr. Kahn replied.

Mr. Kahn's statement brought forth debate as to the possibility of inserting an amendment in the Army Appropriation bill now before the House, cutting off any appropriation for the further maintenance of troops at Cobienz or in Silesia. Mr. Kahn contended that President Wilson had absolute control over the army and navy and "could detach units anywhere he pleased."

Representative Garner, Democrat, of Texas, stated that, as Congress had authority to cut off appropriations when it saw fit, War Department auditors always followed such provisions.

SOVIETS BALKING ON LEAGUE INQUIRY

TRADE PARLEYS BROKEN OFF

Copenhagen Negotiations Fruitless Now That Soviets Have Abolished Co-operatives.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 14.—The allied project of sending a League of Nations commission to Russia to report on the advisability of the recognition of the Soviet Government may be abandoned. The reason is that the Government of Lenin and Trotsky appears to be unwilling to be subjected to scrutiny. Furthermore, the conversations at Copenhagen for the purpose of arranging the execution of the much-discussed plan of dealing with the Russian co-operatives have been discontinued.

From the point of view of the French Government, Lloyd George's two Russian projects are therefore unworkable.

The allied Russian policy thus being on the rocks, the Premiers will meet at San Remo to formulate a new policy. The Soviet Government has asked, through the French Foreign Office, that it be allowed to send delegates to San Remo. No attention will be paid to the request. To comply with it would be to recognize the Soviet Government.

It is five weeks since the Council of the League of Nations sent to Moscow its request for authorization to send its mission of inquiry. No reply has yet been received, but unofficial information is to the effect that the Bolshevist leaders doubt the wisdom of granting the request. Foreign Minister Tchitcherin, in an interview has said:

"I cannot permit these gentlemen to come into Russia to act for such a purpose. The Government of the Soviets cannot wait upon their judgment like a school boy. In the interest and for the interests we must control the movements of the foreign army officers who will be part of the commission. The inquiry ought to be made in a manner compatible with the dignity of the Soviet State."

The Temps tonight publishes the following inspired statement:

"In well-informed circles it is believed that the project of the League of Nations to send a mission to Russia to study on the spot the economic and political situation of the country very probably will be abandoned for the following reasons:

"In the first place, the Government of Lenin has not answered the offer of the League of Nations, and, in the second place, the project has been received with coldness in the United States. Finally, the opinion prevails in the League itself that the failure of this mission would damage the prestige of the League.

"The Supreme Council will consider again at San Remo the resumption of commercial relations with Russia and the recognition of the Soviet Government. It is understood that Italy will insist that a definite decision be taken.

"The Copenhagen pourparlers were broken off when the French delegates quitted the conference after the Russians had refused point-blank to give any consideration to Russia's debt to France. The French Government supports the action of its delegates, arguing that it is not worth while to effect an undertaking with a Government which now declines all previous national undertakings of Russia wiped off the slate, since there is no assurance that at some future time it may not disavow the undertakings made at this time.

"The conversations at Copenhagen began in all humor, for England had refused to allow Litvinoff to go to London, where the negotiations were to have taken place, and Krassin, the head of the Russian delegation, refused to go to England unless Litvinoff went, too. It will be remembered that Litvinoff was at one time Soviet representative in London and was shipped out of the country."

The French say that the Soviets attempted to use the economic conference for political purposes. Moscow did not send members of the co-operatives, but Soviet politicians. Furthermore, the following order has been issued at Moscow:

"With a view to preventing the overlapping of the work of the co-operatives with Soviet organizations, the local co-operative societies will be gradually abolished and their functions transferred to the corresponding central and local Soviet organizations, the Commissariats of Food, Agriculture and Education, which are parallel and competing bodies."

Thus there can be no longer a question of dealing with the co-operatives, since there will soon be no more co-operatives, and the arrangements made by them now worthless.

The Matin learns that the American negotiators were able to make no headway with Krassin, since he refused to conclude any arrangements for the export of raw materials from Russia, but sought to buy American goods with gold, which was not the sort of arrangement the Americans wished to make.

Unionists Guarantee Safe Conduct to Cabrera if He Will Leave the Country.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—An armistice between the Unionists in Guatemala and forces of President Estrada Cabrera has been signed and the proposal has been made that President Cabrera leave the country, according to advices today to the State Department.

The armistice resulted from a conference requested by both sides, held at the American Legation in Guatemala City last Sunday night, in which the entire diplomatic corps participated. The suggestion that President Cabrera leave the country was made by the Unionist leaders, who guaranteed safe conduct for him and his family.

The State Department has been informed that before these negotiations there had been a considerable exchange of shots. Many shells passed over the city on April 10 and several were reported to have struck the Brazilian Legation, which led to protest by the diplomatic corps. The firing was then suspended, but was resumed on April 11 until the armistice was proposed.

Swiss Want to Float Loan Here.

BERNE, April 14.—Some light is being thrown on the question of the new Swiss loan to be floated in America. Switzerland wants between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000. The first loan of $15,000,000, floated in America in 1918, bore interest of 7.5 per cent.

PARIS, April 14.—A plot to restore Czarism in Russia has just been discovered by the French police, and the man who was said to be at its head has been arrested. The plot was being hatched, the police allege, by Russians in Paris and Berlin, and German aid was to be used to restore the old régime.

It was on the double request of the Ministry of War and Ministry of the Interior that the police arrested, as he stepped from a train from Cologne, Alois Oznobichine, a former member of the Russian Duma and Chamberlain to the late Czar. From his house in Paris, it was stated at the preliminary inquiry before a Magistrate, a vast conspiracy was being organized among the former functionaries of the Russian court to restore the throne and place on it one of the Romanoffs.

The charge on which Oznobichine was arrested was that of conspiring against the security of the State and having intelligence with the enemy. The latter part of the charge, it appears, is retrospective and refers to dealings which the accused is said to have had with Germans before the state of peace was declared. It was then that suspicion was first aroused. The frequency of visits and telephone calls made by the accused man to German headquarters in Paris led to a watch being kept. More recently Oznobichine has been making various journeys in Germany, and it was on his return from the last of these that he was arrested.

At the time he was carrying a stout valise with papers relative to the activities of a committee on Russia of which he was President and of a society called "The Union of Russians." In his house more of these papers were seized.

Search warrants have also been made out in twenty other cases and investigations are now going on at the houses of other Russian refugees and the banks with which they deal.

In court it was alleged by police that the plot entailed the suppression of the Polish Constitution and the reannexation of that country to restored Russia. Germany was now supply arms and money for the enterprise and it was stated that papers exist which will show that Germany had undertaken to support the conspiracy to the extent of 30,000,000 francs.

Oznobichine himself protests that he has done nothing against France, to which country he is, on the contrary, a sincere friend. His friends also declare that he is innocent of all charges against him and that they are at a loss to understand the whole affair. The journeys to Germany are explained as being made necessary by the fact that all the money saved from Russia, where the accused man had large estates, was in German marks. They state he was an Octobrist and was never an advocate of the restoration of the Czar. Oznobichine's brother was at one time Military Attaché here, and since the revolution has helped to keep himself privileged with money by the painting and sale of pictures of considerable merit.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Speculation Stirred by More Stock Dividends—Call Money High.

Trading in stocks was carried on with zest during the greater part of yesterday's session, speculative operations being stimulated by several large stock dividends. Action of Directors of the American Tobacco Company in recommending a distribution of 75 per cent. in Class B shares and a 30 per cent. dividend declared by the F. W. Woolworth Company were in line with current events, but lost nothing of their force on that account. While industrial stocks were the most prominent, especially petroleum issues and a number of miscellaneous issues, the railroad group developed a number of strong spots. Toward the end of the day prices came under the shadow of a stiffening call money market and after 12 per cent. was quoted an extensive selling movement occurred. This failed to leave the market weak or even unsettled, but eliminated a sizable portion of the morning advances.

The high cost of credit was reflected again in Government bond issues, the Victory 4¾s supplying an example of the readjustment of investment return now going on. At 96⅛ this issue offered a return to buyers of around 5.90 per cent. if the notes were held to the maturity date in 1923. Today the semi-annual interest of the Fourth 4¼ Liberty bonds falls due, which presumably has had some effect upon the money market this week. The Treasury will disburse an amount in excess of $140,000,000. There is a sizable total of other interest and dividend payments also due today and all of these factors have tended to restrict offerings of call loans. In some banking quarters the impression prevails that with the return of coupon and dividend money into the bank the call loan rate will ease, but estimates along this line should be viewed conservatively until developments in the great railway strike become definitely more favorable. The security markets received with relief news yesterday that the strikers in the East were displaying a somewhat more conciliatory attitude, allowing, however, for the chance that even though the strike began to break up it might be slow in disappearing. Steel trade reviews draw a vivid picture of the handicap which the strike has put upon the nation's leading industry and the fact that producers have large amounts of finished products tied up in their yards speaks of an increase of inert working capital. That, of course, has a direct bearing upon bank credit, although the ability of manufacturers to move their goods rapidly with a dissolution of the strike would soon relieve the situation. The country has not yet realised the heavy loss in production and wages accompanying the epidemic of railroad walkouts, and it is to be hoped that the outlook will grow better instead of worse from now on. In connection with the constricted situation of credit in this country, dispatches from London forecasting an increase in the Bank of England's discount rate to at least 6½ per cent. were interesting.

The foreign exchange market showed some irregular and rather puzzling movements. Lire moved forward 72 points, coincident with a decline of 15 points in francs, while sterling gained a cent to 3.86½ for checks. The mark rate was soft. The market contained no new developments.

CHICAGO, April 14.—A new bond issue aggregating $213,653,000 to be dated May 1, 1920, and mature in 117 years, was authorized by stockholders of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad yesterday. The issue would provide for refunding the present indebtedness and financing permanent improvements. Purchase of eleven subsidiary railroad companies, capital stock of which is owned by the parent company, also was approved.

$100,000,000 ISSUE OF STANDARD OIL

TO PROVIDE NEW CAPITAL

Earnings for 1919, Before Deduction of Federal Taxes, Estimated as $90,725,673.

Stockholders of record April 23 of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will be asked, at a special meeting on May 5, to authorize the issuance of $100,000,000 cumulative, non-voting 7 per cent. preferred stock, which, if approved, will be offered to the holders of the company's common stock at par. The new stock, according to the recommendations of the Board of Directors, will have the same status of the preferred stock issued last September. It will have preference in liquidation to the extent of its par value, plus accrued dividends, and it is provided that it shall be callable, at the option of the company, at 115 per cent. at any time after three years from date of issue.

Subscriptions to the new preferred stock may be made in cash on or before June 15, or in four installments, June 15, July 15, Aug. 15 and Sept. 15. Stock paid for in full will bear cumulative dividends at 7 per cent. from June 15, while that paid for in installments will be dated Sept. 15, and will draw dividends from that date. The money paid in the first three installments will draw interest at the rate of 6 per cent. Payments are to be made to the Guaranty Trust Company. J. P. Morgan & Co. will underwrite the new issue, for which it will receive a commission of 1 per cent. of the par amount of stock offered to holders of the common stock. As there is only $98,338,300 of outstanding common stock, there will be a balance of $1,661,700 of the preferred stock to be disposed of. The shareholders, at the special meeting, will be asked to authorize the Directors to dispose of this balance "to such person or persons, at such time or times and in such amount or amounts as they shall deem proper."

In a letter sent out yesterday to common stockholders, and signed by President W. C. Teagle, it is stated that the proceeds of the proposed issue will be used to acquire oil lands, to enlarge and improve refining and distributing facilities, to pay for tank steamers under construction and to provide additional working capital. "It is expected," states the letter, "that the present issue of preferred stock will be sufficient, taken with surplus earnings, to provide the company with all the new capital required for the balance of the year 1920 and throughout the year 1921."

Accompanying the letter is a preliminary consolidated balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1919, together with a statement of estimated earnings for the period. The balance sheet thus presented is as follows:

ASSETS.

|---|---|
| Current assets— | |
| Cash, U. S. Government bonds and other marketable securities | 117,761,921.35 |
| Accounts receivable | 236,859,859.49 |

| Current assets | $540,613,350.64 |
| Net current assets | $384,349,404.13 |

In the statement of earnings for last year it is estimated that the earnings before deduction for Federal taxes were $90,725,673, against $101,941,263 in the previous year. Taxes for last year are estimated at $14,000,000, compared with $44,022,604 in 1918. This drastic reduction, it was explained by an officer of the company yesterday, was made possible by the reduction in war profits exactions by the Government. The balance available for dividends after taxes last year amounted to $76,725,673, from which $1,550,899 was deducted for dividends on the preferred stock issued in September, leaving $75,174,774 available for the common stock, against $57,918,658 similarly applicable in 1918. Figuring this on a per share basis, the 1919 earnings were equivalent to $76.44 on each outstanding common share, while in 1918 the earnings were equal to $58.90 on each share. The statement of earnings before and after Federal taxes for each year since 1912 follows:

*Estimated.

In his remarks to stockholders, President Teagle says:

"The plants and equipment, valued in the balance sheet at $312,479,161, cost upward of $100,000,000 in excess of this amount.

"The balance sheet includes nothing for good-will nor the very considerable enhancement in the value of physical properties accruing over a period of years. When the proposed issue shall have been made, the $100,000,000 of preferred stock then outstanding will have behind it, on this basis of cost less depreciation, $725,000,000 of assets after all current indebtedness has been deducted. This amount will represent in round numbers $312,000,000 in plant, equipment and other investments of a permanent character, $365,000,000 in present net working assets and $98,000,000 of proceeds of the new issue of stock. This indicates, as applicable to each share of the preferred stock as increased, $400 in total net assets; the present net working assets are equivalent to $196 per share.

"Excepting a purchase money mortgage of $300,000 owing by a subsidiary the company has no bonded indebtedness nor is there any mortgage on any of its properties or on the property of any of its subsidiaries.

"The company's production of crude oil in 1919 amounted to 20,000,000 barrels, and it has holdings of approximately 2,500,000 acres of undeveloped lands in the United States and foreign countries situated in proven or promising oil territory. The company's transportation fleet comprises forty-five tankers and eight cargo steamers of 470,000 aggregate dead-weight tonnage, together with barges, tugs and other craft, and is shortly to be increased by an addition of seventeen ocean-going tankers of 225,000 dead-weight tonnage, now being constructed in American yards. Foreign subsidiaries also own and operate a fleet of tankers and cargo carriers of about 90,000 dead-weight tonnage, in addition to smaller craft.

"Heretofore, capital requirements have been met for the most part from surplus earnings. The recent considerable expansion in all departments of the company's business, however, has necessitated the employment of more capital within a brief period than its surplus earnings could provide after the payment of Federal taxes. In September, 1919, the company sold to its stockholders 966,383 shares.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Stock Dividend Results.

The big American Tobacco and Woolworth stock dividend recommendations by the respective Boards of Directors worked to take speculative attention away from the stock market credit situation during the greater part of yesterday's trading. While many of the distributions in shares recommended since the Supreme Court decision have been expected, still a pleasant thrill for the trader in industrial stocks is contained in every announcement of actual declarations. For a long time offerings of Woolworth stock have been light, with the result that buyers yesterday had to go high for their shares. The highest quotation of the day was almost 13 points above Tuesday's last quotation. American Tobacco, on the other hand, advanced only 6 points, to the maximum level, and lost all but one point before trading ended.

Stockholders of the American Tobacco Securities Corporation who had not heard recent rumors were doubtless somewhat bewildered at the day's stock movements and accompanying news. The corporation assets consist of American Tobacco shares gathered there under the direction of the Whelan-Duke group last year. Announcement of the American Tobacco dividend sent the Securities' shares up 5 points with a rather sudden reaction which eliminated nearly all the gain. The drop occurred when plans to liquidate the corporation were made known.

Coal Company Merger.

Directors of Burns Brothers are considering a plan for consolidating the company with William Farrell & Son, Inc. While it is believed that the merger will occur, uniting the two largest retail coal concerns of the city, details still have to be worked out. The project has been discussed from the standpoint of seeking to make the distribution of coal less costly at the present time of high wages and increasing equipment prices.

Equipment Plans Progressing.

It is expected that some definite information will be forthcoming within a few days regarding the general survey of the railroad equipment situation which is being made by a special committee of the Association of Railway Executives. That committee, which is trying to decide which will be the best way to use the $300,000,000 revolving fund provided in the Transportation act, has met frequently in recent weeks and it will meet again today to discuss the situation. While it is understood that progress is being made, it is not expected that the final recommendations of the committee will be made tomorrow.

A New Railroad Atmosphere.

It has been suggested recently by railroad men and by some railroad bankers that the funds provided in the Transportation act are not sufficient to carry the roads through the transition period and that Congress should appropriate additional money to ease a situation which otherwise would result in a great deal of friction. In many quarters this attitude is being deprecated and the more conservative managers urge that this is the time for the railroads to go it alone and stop leaning on the Government. This, of course, is particularly true in the case of the roads which are in strong financial condition, but even among the roads which are less favorably situated this viewpoint is being accepted.

Bonds at New Low.

There was little indication of a rally in the bond market yesterday. Almost all of the issues eased off and the average price for forty representative bonds declined to 68.60, a new record low since the bond averages have been printed in these columns. United States Steel 5s sold to a new low at 94, and one of the few bright spots on the list were the Anglo-French 5s, which touched a new high at 98¾. Rails were not exempt from the persistent pressure and eased off with the bulk of the list.

Paying Off Back Dividends.

The Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company has carried out its announced program of paying off back dividends on the second preferred stock as the financial condition of the company warranted, by declaring a disbursement on the stock of $5.25 a share. This payment covers the period from February, 1915, to November, 1918, and is payable May 1, 1920, to stock of record April 23.

Money Still Tight.

The call money market again ruled firm, with the renewal rate, at 7 per cent., turning out to be the low for the day, and with the afternoon bulge taking it up to 10 per cent., as against 12 per cent. on the preceding day. This recurrence of the "afternoon bulge" has led many to believe that the money market is in for another session of nervousness and irregularity, with rates tending upward. Government withdrawals today will total about $20,000,000, which, added to what was taken out by the Government on Tuesday, will make the whole amount withdrawn for the week approximately $45,000,000. This sum, it is expected, will considerably offset today's requirements for Liberty Loan interest payments.

Britain's Foreign Trade.

The foreign trade statement for March, just issued by the British Board of Trade, is about the most favorable document of the kind published in some time. Imports for March were off £4,-231,000, compared with February, a short month, while exports were up £17,-736,000 and re-exports were up £4,427,-000 over the February return. Compared with January, the March figures show almost equally well. Imports were £116,305,000 below the January total, while exports were lower by £3,181,000, but re-exports were improved by £1,567,-000, so that gross exports were only £614,000 below January's. The debit balance for March was £35,927,000, while in January it was £52,126,000.

Victory Notes Down.

Victory 3¾ per cents. sold at 96.44 and the 4¼ per cents. at 96.48 yesterday, the latter being quoted on a basis of approximately 6 per cent., the highest yield, and naturally the lowest price, yet recorded. These notes, being, of such brief maturity, are feeling the competition of the higher interest rate on Treasury certificates more than any other of the war issues, according to bankers and bond dealers.

Acceptances Advancing.

Lowering the rate at which they were prepared to sell prime bankers' acceptances from 6 per cent. to 5⅞ per cent. has not turned out the success dealers expected it to, and late yesterday afternoon it was reported that the selling rate would be back at 6 per cent. either today or tomorrow. At 6 per cent. there is a brisk demand for paper, but at 5⅞ per cent. this demand fades away like snow in sunshine.

The Bank of England Rate.

Cabled reports announcing the offering of British Treasury certificates at 6⅛ per cent., an increase of a full 1 per cent., was expected to foreshadow an advance in the Bank of England's minimum rate of discount today. The Bank's minimum rate is 6 per cent., where it has stood since Nov. 5 last, when it was marked up from 5½ per cent. If there is to be an advance, it will be known early today.

In spite of the pessimistic opinions of many financial authorities, Sterling exchange has shown an almost startling improvement during the past few weeks. In comparison French francs have shown a slight decrease in value, and therefore it is still possible for Americans to invest in French Government internal loans on a basis which provides possibilities of profits in excess of 200%.

SAYS B. R. T. FIXED DIVIDENDS AHEAD

CALLS CUSTOM RECKLESS

Witness Tells Hearing That Sums in Excess of Income Were Made Up from Surplus.

It has been the custom of the New York Consolidated Railroad Company, which through stock ownership controls the New York Municipal Railroad Company, part of the B. R. T. system, to declare dividends on the preferred and common stock a year in advance, even though there was no proof that the earnings would be sufficient to meet the payments, Wood C. Loudoun, Deputy Commissioner of Accounts, testified yesterday at the continuation of the Board of Estimate's traction inquiry in City Hall. Commissioner Loudoun said that the total amount paid to stockholders from 1913 to 1919 was in excess of the income earned and was made up from the surplus.

"Fortunately, they had sufficient money up to a certain period, as they had a balance in the surplus of more than $2,000,000," Mr. Loudoun said. "If they had not had that surplus there would have been a gerater deficit and they would not have paid the dividends out of current earnings."

"There is another angle to this," the Mayor said. "If some dividends are declared under such circumstances, wouldn't that have some effect on the stock market?"

Commissioner Loudoun though it might have influence on the man who read the statements of the company to the effect that the road was paying dividends from which he would draw the conclusion the money was being earned to meet the payments.

"It does to a great extent," the witness said. "I want to mention the fact that the railroad did not carry under the title 'surplus' any account. They called it profit and loss, not taking it to a final result, namely, surplus. From which you can see that when they declare these dividends in advance they considered, 'well, we have so much profit still left on past operations.'"

In answer to a question by Assistant Corporation Counsel Carswell, Mr. Loudoun said the custom developed into a reckless method of declaring dividends last year when the road did not have sufficient money to pay the amounts. He expressed the opinion that the bookkeeping methods used were not in accordance with accepted practices by accountants. He considered it necessary to have a surplus to transfer all undivided profits.

"The road declared a dividend for the first half of the fiscal year 1919 of $495,000 but only paid $472,500 up to the time the receiver took charge," Commissioner Loudoun went on to say. "But I don't know but I would consider that was an obligation that they would have to pay to the stockholders since it had been declared before."

Much of the hearing was taken up with the introduction of data and exhibits by the Corporation Counsel. Mr. Carswell said that the B. R. T. officials were not giving any voluntary aid to his men in getting the facts. The hearing will be continued on April 28.

THREE MORE STOCK DIVIDENDS VOTED

75 PER CENT. ON "SMOKES"

Woolworth Shareholders to Get 30 Per cent. and Tank Car Stock Owners 300.

Three more companies joined the ranks yesterday of those which have declared substantial stock dividends since the Supreme Court decided that stock dividends were not taxable as income. The American Tobacco Company directors recommended to their stockholders the declaration of 75 per cent. in class "B" common stock August 1 to stockholders of record July 15. Stockholders of the F. W. Woolworth Company will be asked next month to increase the capital from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 so that a 30 per cent. stock distribution may be made, and stockholders of the General American Tank Car Corporation have authorized an increase in the capital and the payment of a 300 per cent. dividend in common stock to stockholders of record April 14.

When announcement was made of the American Tobacco directors' recommendation it was stated in addition that the company would offer to holders of the $12,072,720 outstanding scrip the option of exchanging for class "B" stock at $110, the exchange to be made between June 1 and July 1. In this way those who now hold scrip may accept the offer and participate in the 75 per cent. stock dividend which will also be payable to class "B" stock outstanding July 15.

If the holders of scrip accept the offer of the company there will be $10,866,448 class "B" issued in the exchange. There is outstanding $40,242,400 of old common stock, so that the 75 per cent. dividend, if approved by stockholders, will be paid on $51,107,848 common stock and will amount to $38,330,886 class "B" common. After the payment of the dividend the common share capital of the company will be $40,242,400 old common with voting power and the class "B" common without voting power, a total of $89,438,734.

Readjustment of the company's capital will eliminate the scrip and will transfer $37,123,614 from surplus to capital account, thus cutting surplus down to $12,222,829. As of Dec. 31, 1919, the company's profit and loss surplus amounted to $49,346,443. There will be a special meeting of stockholders May 6, to act on the dividend recommendation.

There will be a special meeting of F. W. Woolworth stockholders on May 19 for a vote on the proposal to increase the capital of the company from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, and to approve the declaration of a 30 per cent. stock dividend by Directors.

Stock Increase Proposed.

Word was received in Wall Street yesterday that stockholders of the General American Tank Car Corporation have approved a 300 per cent. stock dividend and an increase in the 7 per cent. preferred stock to 100,000 shares and the common stock to 400,000 shares. The new stock will be issued as of May 1.

Reports were also received of the declaration of a 100 per cent. stock dividend by the Directors of the Ohio Fuel Supply Company.

The following list contains the names of most of the companies which have declared stock dividends since the Supreme Court decision, with the amount of the distribution:

To Dissolve Securities Body.

Declaration of the 75 per cent. stock dividend by the American Tobacco Company yesterday led to a decision by the directors of the A. T. Securities Corporation to dissolve the latter company. The consent of stockholders will be asked next month. In the A. T. Securities treasury are about 241,498 shares of the American Tobacco Company, comprising all the assets. According to a statement by the Securities Corporation management, it was thought desirable to enable holders of the company's stock to get the American Tobacco stock dividend direct, as this would preclude the necessity of paying income tax upon it. It was held that if the stock dividend was paid first to the A. T. Securities Corporation and then redistributed by this organization, the recipients would not consider the disbursements free of income tax under the recent ruling of the Supreme Court.

After the American Tobacco stockholders ratify on May 6 the stock dividend proposal, the affairs of the Securities Corporation will be wound up in time to distribute the assets prior to July 15. The regular A. T. Securities cash dividend of $1.25 per share will be paid in June, irrespective of dissolution action.

The A. T. Securities Corporation was formed in October last year by George J. Whelan, James B. Duke and associates. Stock was exchanged for American Tobacco stock on the basis of four of Securities Corporation shares for one of American Tobacco. The holding company has outstanding 960,000 shares of an authorized issue of 3,000,000 shares.

Stock Dividend by File Company.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 14.—The Nicholson File Company of this city issued notice today of a 100 per cent. stock dividend. The capital will be increased to $10,000,000 and the new stock will be allotted in the proportion of one share to each share of old stock.

BANK OF ENGLAND RAISES RATE ON TREASURY BILLS

Advance of Bank Rate to 7 Per Cent. Is Expected Today to Check Inflation.

LONDON, April 14.—Announcement by the Bank of England today that the rate of interest on Treasury bills had been raised 1 per cent., to 6½ per cent., foreshadows the announcement tomorrow of a 7 per cent. bank rate.

The expected advance in the bank rate has been advocated by economists for some time, but banking opinion against it prevailed and money inflation continued, making for artificial conditions. The reserve of the Bank of England last week showed a loss in gold and an expansion in note circulation; and this inflation of credit now necessitates measures to balance the situation, taking the shape of the higher financial minimum rate which the market confidently expects tomorrow.

While a 7 per cent. rate would undoubtedly handicap trade, it is recognized that the authorities must take cognisance of the international money situation. Some bankers, however, are unable to see the necessity for a higher rate now, speculative loans having been virtually closed.

It is not anticipated that an advanced rate would affect shipments of gold to America, which will continue for exchange purposes.

FILM EARNINGS $3,066,319.

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and the subsidiary companies in which the parent organization owns an interest of 90 per cent. or more, had gross earnings for the year ended Dec. 31 last amounting to $27,165,326, and operating expenses of $23,032,341. After deducting $406,666 as the amount accruing to the $10,000,000 preferred stock for the thirty days it was outstanding in 1919, and $1,000,000 for Federal taxes, the corporation showed net earnings available for the common stock of $3,066,319, equal to $15.36 a share on the 199,670 outstanding shares of no par value.

The statement issued by the company for last year includes, for the first time, the earnings of companies in which Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has an interest in excess of 90 per cent., but it does not include the earnings of subsidiaries in which the company's interest is 50 per cent. There are several of the latter, including a chain of theatres in this country and in Canada.

A total of $37,648,637 is shown for assets and liabilities. Net current assets at the close of last year amounted to $23,580,558, while current liabilities were reported as $8,204,991, leaving working capital of $15,375,567.

BARS LOW-NECK DRESSES.

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 14.—All entrances to St. Mary's Catholic Church today bore notices saying "Entrance into this church is forbidden woman wearing low-necked dresses."

The name of the Rev. P. Novatus, rector, was subscribed. Members of the congregation said Father Novatus frequently had protested in public utterances against present-day tendencies in women's clothes.

Tampa Cigarmakers' Strike Ordered

TAMPA, Fla., April 14.—Orders for a general strike of cigar workers in thirty of the largest factories here were issued today by the Joint Advisory Board of the local Cigarmakers' Union. The men ask recognition of their union. Manufacturers said they would stand on the principle of the open shop, and closed their factories. Union officials estimated that approximately 13,000 workers would be affected.

SAY BUTLER 'MILKS' JERSEY GROCERY CO.

TELL OF VARIOUS DEALS

Plaintiffs Declare Small Corporations Here Absorbed Profits of Major Concern.

The charge that James Butler and members of his family, through a small New York corporation, have been "milking" the James Butler Grocery Company, incorporated in New Jersey, which operates the 450 Butler chain grocery stores, is made by Frank V. Storrs and other stockholders of the last mentioned company in a suit filed recently at Trenton, to which attention has been drawn by a notice sent by George G. Tennant of Jersey City, solicitor for the plaintiffs, advising them, in pursuance of an order of the New Jersey Chancery Court, that the action has been brought.

This notice gives the names of the plaintiffs as Mr. Storrs, Jeremiah Lane, Martin E. Roache and William D. Lawlor, the defendants as Mr. Butler, his son, James Butler, Jr.; John Griffith, Robert Quinn and Patrick Mulcahy. It describes the suit as brought "for the purpose of obtaining an accounting to have the said James Butler Grocery Company ordered and decreed to take proceedings to collect from James Butler and James Butler, Inc., moneys due said James Butler Grocery Company, and also for the purpose of directing a dividend or dividends to the stockholders of said James Butler Grocery Company."

The defendants have not yet filed their answer to the suit and several efforts to get from them a statement of their side of the controversy failed.

The complaint tells of the formation in 1907, of the James Butler Grocery Company as a New Jersey corporation with $5,000,000 each of preferred and common stock. At the same time, it is set forth, the same incorporators formed in New York a corporation capitalized at $50,000, known as James Butler, Incorporated. It is alleged that the Butler stores were inventoried at less than $2,000,000, but Mr. Butler received practically $10,000,000 in stock. The New Jersey company thereupon sold to the New York company all the stores outside of New Jersey for $1,750,000, accepting in return 95 per cent. of the capital stock of the New York corporation and certificates of indebtedness to the amount of $1,705,000, the New York company being privileged to use the good will of the New Jersey company in New York, in return for 95 per cent. of its yearly net profits, according to the complaint.

The papers in the suit include a tabulation of the New Jersey company's profits, showing that with an occasional fluctuation they dwindled from $501,459.04 in 1908 to $29,408.02 in 1919.

Failure to pay dividends in 1912, 1917, 1918 and 1919 was explained by the Directors of the New Jersey Company, according to the plaintiffs' contention, in resolutions stating that since the surplus profits had not been collected, dividends would not be paid to the New Jersey stockholders.

In the meantime it is alleged that the New York company acquired large tracts of lands and buildings wholly apart from the grocery business. The stockholders who sue complain that if the New York company had paid over the profits, they contend, it ought to pay over, there would be ample funds for the payment of dividends.

The complaint purports to show that James Butler organized several other companies, including the Direct Realty Company, the Peerless Construction and Repair Company and the Seminole Condensed Milk Company. Mr. Butler's name appears in one of these companies, but the complaint charges that he owns and controls them all. It is charged that the Direct Realty bought land and sold at advanced prices to the grocery company, and that the Peerless Construction and Repair Company fits up all the grocery stores and buys automobiles and turns them over at double the price to the grocery company. It is also alleged that the Seminole Condensed Milk Company caused the grocery company large losses. It is declared that Mr. Butler dominates the Board of Directors of the grocery company.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago and the First National Bank of St. Louis are offering $7,500,000 five-year 7 per cent. gold notes of the Associated Simmons Hardware Companies, due May 1, 1925, at a price to yield about 7½ per cent.

Pathe Exchange, Inc., motion picture producers, reports gross earnings of $9,000,000 in the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, an increase of 60 per cent. over the preceding year. The net profit, after allowing for Federal taxes, was $922,000. Bernhard Benson of Merrill, Lynch & Co. has been elected Vice President of the company.

Nathan S. Jones, President, announces that the Manufacturers' Trust Company will specialize in foreign business transactions beginning April 15.

The General Cigar Company reports net earnings, after Federal taxes, of $852,888 in the quarter ended March 31, equal to $3.80 per share on common stock subsequent to paying dividends on the preferred stock issue.

RESEARCH DIRECTOR NAMED

Board of Education Elects Assistant Previously Rejected.

Eugene A. Niebenecker was elected yesterday as Director of Reference, Research and Statistics by the Board of Education. There was no other candidate.

The office has been vacant since Albert Shiels, some years ago, resigned it to become Superintendent of Schools at Los Angeles. Mr. Niefenecker has been acting director for some time. He was nominated by the Board of Superintendents many months ago as director, but did not obtain a majority of the board. The nomination was then reconsidered and then tabled.

At the meeting yesterday Mrs. Emma L. Murray, reopened the fight and Mr. Niefenecker was chosen. No explanation was made of the board's change of front. The salary is $6,000 a year.

A special committee will be appointed by President Prall to demand of the Board of Estimate that funds be appropriated to complete repairs to the Board of Education Hall, which was damaged by fire sometime ago. Complaints about the matter have been received from owners of adjoining buildings.

Director Davis asked the board to reconsider its opposition to a bill providing life tenure for the Supervisors of Attendance. Associate Superintendent Shallon defended the present system of retaining only those who do good work. The board refused to withdraw its opposition to the bill.

FIND DROP IN SALES OF ALCOHOLIC DRUGS

LESS USE OF NARCOTICS

Legitimate Purchases Reported as Only a Hundredth of Amount Sold Decade Ago.

The Ninth Annual Convention of the American Drug Manufacturers' Association, now in progress at the Biltmore, devoted the greater part of its third session yesterday afternoon to a discussion of the future alcoholic medicinals and Government regulations pertaining to them. A majority agreed that since the Volstead act became effective less rather than more alcoholic medicinal preparations that may be used as beverages are being sold by the retail drug trade.

It was said that the Government had restricted the sale of eighteen of these preparations, and that great care was exercised by the makers, jobbers and retailers in disposing of them. A representative of a large Baltimore firm said that his house had ceased the manufacture of such goods. Several Western firms, it was said, have either discontinued or will in the near future discontinue the manufacture of these eighteen preparations.

The question of narotics and their consumption today as compared with their consumption prior to national prohibition was discussed informally. It was said that the sales of narcotics today are scarcely a hundredth of the amount sold ten years ago and have decreased markedly since prohibition became effective. Narcotics obtained by adults, it was said, are being usually supplied by illicit dealers who smuggle their goods into the country.

Today's sessions will be occupied with discussions of patent matters and trade affairs.

Ends Sale of Army Stocks Abroad.

PARIS, April 14.—Edward S. Noble, who has been in charge of the work of disposing of stocks belonging to the American Expeditionary Forces in France, has completed that task and will leave for America this week with the personnel of his office.

EARLY COPY.

Copy for all advertisements to be inserted in the main or supplemental sections of the Sunday edition of The New York Times will be given preference when received early in the week preceding date of publication. Releases should be given not later than Thursday.—Advt.

Gates Oil Company

This company is earning about $10,000 per day or at the rate of over 150% on its 2,000,000 outstanding shares.

These earnings should be greatly augmented, as a large drilling program is now under way.

Regular dividends are 10% per annum and extra cash and stock dividends are declared from time to time.

COTTON MARKS TIME IN NARROW MARKET

BRITISH INFLUENCES RULE

Liverpool Decline Follows Rumor of Higher Bank of England Discount Rate.

Trading in cotton future contracts quieted down a good deal yesterday. In the first hour there was some excitement and during that time prices broke 25 to 30 points, registering their lowest quotations for the day, but after that the market drifted into extreme quietness and from then on to the close the fluctuations were extremely narrow and most activity around the ring was confined to evening-up and to scattered operations for quick turns by the traders.

The influence which appeared to dominate the market was the circulation of a report, based on private cabled advices, that the Bank of England will today advance its minimum rate of discount to 6½ per cent. or possibly to as much as 7 per cent. This report was due to the offering of British Treasury bills at 6½ per cent., an advance of 1 per cent. over the previous price, which bore out earlier reports that the rates would be marked up shortly. Further, the Liverpool market seemed to believe the rumors of a higher Bank of England rate, for that market utterly failed to respond to our rally of Tuesday afternoon, and after it had started at overnight gains of 10 to 20 points, it sold off, closing with near months down as much as they had been up earlier. Liverpool spots were down 25 points.

The Government's weekly crop and weather report was as bullish as the private reports had been. It substantiated the rumors of retarded farm work and bore out the day-to-day reports of bad weather. Yet it failed to offset the Liverpool influence.

In the afternoon the market was very dull. Prices moved within narrow ranges and there were no features to the trading. The Census Bureau's report of consumption, due to have come yesterday, was postponed until today, and this, it is expected, will supply some further bullish incentive.

Exports for the day amounted to only 10,193 bales, as against the 16,488 bales moved on Tuesday. For the week to date the movement has amounted to 70,926 bales.

| | Open. | High. | Low. | Close. | Prev. Day. |

Suffragists to Demonstrate at Republican Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, Del., April 14.—A review of the Suffrage issue in Delaware with the hope of a reversal of sentiment as well as the votes of the members of the Legislature, was started here today by the Delaware Equal Suffrage Association, when a monster mass meeting was arranged for Dover Green on Tuesday next, the day of the Republican State convention in Dover. Representatives from every town in Delaware favoring Suffrage are expected to be in attendance, coming to Dover in gaily decorated automobiles. Speakers of national prominence will be present and make addresses.

Mrs. Henry Ridgely of Dover, President of the Delaware Equal Suffrage Association, held a conference with the Democratic members of both Houses this afternoon at which conference she announcer her appointment by Democratic National Chairman Homer S. Cummings as a member of the National Executive Committee and asked the views of the Democratic members as to whether she should accept the appointment in view of the unanimous stand taken by the Democratic members against Suffrage. The Democratic members of the Senate and House advised Mrs. Ridgley to accept the appointment, notwithstanding their attitude on Suffrage.

Alien Bar Down for Sugar Workers.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—An order was issued today by Secretary Wilson suspending the immigration laws so as to admit laborers from Mexico and Canada "for the exclusive purpose of cultivating and harvesting sugar-beet crops in the States of Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Iowa and Nebraska." The order was issued, it was said, after the department had been informed that Congress could not act in time to save the sugar-beet crop in the Western States.

Favor Trade Use of Naval Radios.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A substitute resolution providing for regulation and public use of the navy radio was reported out today by the House Merchant Marine Committee. It would permit the navy to handle at rates not lower than those charged by private concerns and at points where commercial facilities are inadequate, press and commercial messages and limit the navy's transmission of ship-to-shore business to Government matter.

ASKS FUNDS FOR 72,000 DERANGED EX-FIGHTERS

Legion Declares $15,000,000 Is Needed Also to Care for 50,000 Tubercular Sufferers.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Unless Congress makes an immediate appropriation of $15,000,000 for the Public Health Service, 72,000 mentally deranged former soldiers will be without care and treatment, the American Legion's Legislative Committee declared today in a statement urging quick action.

The service is now treating approximately 4,000 of these cases, half of which are in leased institutions, the statement said. In some instances it was charged that the men were "herded with the criminal insane."

"Unless Congress makes provision for their care," the committee also said, "approximately 50,000 men suffering from tuberculosis will not have the care and consideration they should receive from a grateful nation for which they fought."

UNREST IN TRIPOLITANIA.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

ROME, April 13.—The situation in the Italian colonies of Tripolitania and Cyrenaica is grave, owing to the propaganda spread throughout the country by a rebel chief, Radaman el Sceteul, but centred especially at Misurata, 140 kilometers from Tripoli.

The Italian garrison left the town as a sign of protest against the hanging, ordered by Radaman, of an Arab woman camp-follower.

The chief cause of discontent on the part of the natives seems to be the slowness with which the Italian authorities carry out the parliamentary concessions which have been granted. This, the Italians assert, is not due to bad faith on their part, but to the obstacles which have to be overcome in a country which has never before enjoyed such privileges.

The recall of great numbers of Italian troops of occupation has encouraged the rebels, who are led by Radaman el Sceteul, who has never recognized the Italian authority.

POLICE TRIALS POSTPONED.

Deputy Commissioner Obeys Court Regarding Porter's Accusers.

First Deputy Police Commissioner Leach postponed the investigation yesterday of charges alleging violation of department rules by Policemen Hilbert Wheelwright and Frederick Sorger of the Beach Street Station, who are the principal witnesses in the pending trial of former Third Deputy Commissioner A. D. Porter in General Sessions on a charge of neglect of duty. Judge Malone had instructed Assistant District Attorney Smith to order Deputy Commissioner Leach to wait until the court proceedings are disposed of. Judge Malone had also ordered that the policemen, in the event of the court order being ignored, should refuse to answer any questions at Police Headquarters.

Wheelwright and Sorger, who alleged they had found Mr. Porter in an apartment on West Ninety-sixth Street on Nov. 13, 1919, when they arrested a woman on a charge of maintaining a disorderly house, are charged with failure to report the presence of Porter until they made statements to the District Attorney.

Although the postponed trial of the policemen was marked off for one week only, it was intimated that further continuation would follow, if necessary, to prevent conflict with the court order.

The March Grand Jury, which has returned nine indictments in its investigations of vice conditions and police practices, will reconvene at 2 o'clock this afternoon before Judge Malone in General Sessions. Subpœnas for new witnesses have been served, it was learned

EGGS—The receipts yesterday were 15,161 cases. Receivers picked supplies from unusual places, partly from Jersey and partly from uptown railroad tracks. Dealers apparently have some stock on hand and there was a free offering in the wholesale market at unchanged prices, with only a limited movement. On very high qualities the range of values was without much change, although on some lots of medium and ordinary quality slight concessions were made. White eggs continued very quiet and there was a free offering at unchanged prices, with some tendency to accumulation, by parcel post. Nearby specials, Californias moved from nearby points. California moved rather slowly in the range quoted. # URGES STEPS TO SAVE IN FOOD DISTRIBUTION

Federal Trade Commission Recommens Improved Marketing Facilities at Consuming Centres.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Declaring that the costs of food distribution are too great, the Federal Trade Commission today recommended improved marketing facilities and processes at the great consuming centres as a long step toward lowering the high cost of living.

"The movement of food should be made most direct from field to factory," the commission declared. Elimination of unnecessary costs and losses in food distribution, the report added, would not only "act as a counter agent in checking disparity in food prices and money incomes; but would strengthen the nation's position in its competition for world trade."

The report asserts that the rapid rise in food prices in recent years is not so significant as "that the money incomes of large numbers have fallen far short of a proportional increase." The weekly wage of union organized labor in 1918 bought but 77 per cent. (according to the Department of Labor), as much food as in 1913.

"Food absorbs 38.2 per cent. of the average American household income. A wise governmental policy towards the food industries may lower production and distribution costs together with the final sales price without proportionally increasing governmental costs, thus reducing the national cost of food."

Dry Enforcement Cost $5,000,000.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—National prohibition enforcement should not cost more than $5,000,000 a year, according to Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, in a letter read in the Senate Tuesday by Chairman Warren of the Appropriations Committee. While the letter would be given "due weight," Senator Warren said, "it would cost a good deal more than that, and every Senator here knows it."

Big Increases Shown by Census.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Population statistics announced today by the Census Bureau included: Port Arthur, Texas, 22,251, an increase of 14,546 over 1910; Douglas, Ariz., 9,916, an increase of 3,479; Plymouth, Mass., 13,022, an increase of 891, and Winston Salem, S. C., 48,395, an increase of 25,695.

An Opportunity

We offer a rather unusual chance to share in the profits of the oil business through purchase of the securities of a properly managed producing oil Company before they have discounted in price the value of the Company's properties.

The Preferred Stock pays 8% dividends.

We believe there will be large profits made by those securing the Common Stock through purchase of the Preferred.

FOOD SPOILS IN ST. LOUIS.

Loss Due to Strike Is Estimated to Run Into Thousands of Dollars.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 14.—A loss totalling many thousands of dollars in foodstuffs which have been allowed to stand on various railroad sidings throughout the city since the strike of railroad yardmen began a week ago, was reported by Police Captain Patrick Kirk, following a tour of the railroad yards in that district today.

In his report to Chief O'Brien, Kirk asserts that a carload of chickens consigned to New York, was allowed to stand on a siding without food or water, that sixty-seven of the fowls died and the remainder "are on their last legs." Nine carloads of cabbage were spoiled by standing for several days on a siding in the same yards.

GOVERNOR PLEADS FOR ECONOMY BILLS

SPEAKS TO ALBANY WOMEN

Tells Them State's Expenses Will Keep Mounting Until Bureaus Are Consolidated.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—"Payroll profiteers," Governor Smith declared in a speech delivered tonight at Chancellor's Hall in the State Education Building before the Women's Civic Club of Albany, are successfully holding up his plan for retrenchment in State expenditures and the reconstruction of the State Government to attain that end.

While the Governor was speaking the Republican leaders of the Senate were exhorting their followers at a conference, scheduled to become a caucus, to defeat the Democratic reconstruction program the moment a sufficient number of votes were assured to make such action possible.

The Governor was warmly received by his audience of women. He pleaded especially for the proposed amendments to the Constitution providing for an executive budget, for extending the Governor's term from two to four years, for making some of the positions now filled at State elections appointive and for grouping all State administrative activities through the elimination and consolidation of 187 existing different agencies.

"This scheme is either good or bad," said the Governor. "If it is supported by general popular opinion by a unanimous press, by interested citizens generally, and by members of the Legislature themselves, what objection can there possibly be to a frank and free discussion before both Houses of the entire reorganization proposals?

"Up to tonight at the very minute that I am making this speech, not one soul standing in opposition to this program has been willing to come and confer with me.

"The adoption of this plan means progress in the government of the State, and I do not think that I have to dwell very long upon the question of how hard it is to get that under the present system. In fact, proposals have been made that to my mind mean a backward step. The creation of additional regencies over activities of the State, removing them from the control of the Governor as the Chief Executive, means further complication and a further removal of the government from the people themselves.

"If you want the Governor responsible to the people, give him the power. If you simply want him as a respectable figurehead, then distribute the power among countless unknown agencies that the man in the street knows nothing about, but has to pay for, year after year in the shape of property and income taxes.

"For the first time in the history of the State we have in 1920 asked everybody to put up their share of maintaining the Government. We owe it to them that we bring about a condition that will keep down the amount of that payment, and will render to them a full dollar's service for every dollar they have to pay.

"I make the claim, and I am prepared to back it up, that this cannot be done under our present system. It can be done by co-ordinating the different departments, reducing the overhead, stopping the waste of duplication of effort, cutting down the rent and traveling expense bills, and erecting in the place of the present disorganized, scattered, disrupted form of government, a responsible one, with a small number of departments, presided over by competent men, responsible to the Governor, who, in turn, can be responsible to the last degree to the people of the State."

REJECTS MILK COMMISSION.

Senate Kills Bill for State Board to Fix Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—Production, sale and distribution of milk were the subjects of an all-day debate in the Senate, at the close of which the bill introduced by Senator Thompson to empower the Board of Estimate in New York City to acquire pasteurization plants and engage in the sale of milk was passed by a vote of 28 to 22. Another Thompson bill, providing for the creation of a State commission to fix the price of milk to producer and consumer both, was defeated. All New York City Senators, except Mr. Burlingame, who was absent, voted for the Pasteurization bill.

The latter bill had been introduced in pursuance of a recommendation embodied in Governor Smith's annual message to the Legislature. When the Governor learned of the Senate action he expressed deep chagrin.

"Without regard to party affiliations, thinking men throughout the State recognized in this measure a distinct and forward step in the interest of the general public health and welfare," said the Governor. Humanity's cause has been sacrificed on the altar of selfish desires, and the interests of the whole people have been subordinated to the wishes of a few, thoroughly misguided as to their conclusions."

The measures were not on the Senate calendar, but came up on a motion by Senator Thompson to discharge the Committee on Agriculture from their further consideration. This motion was bitterly fought by Senator Brown, Chairman of the committee, who is regarded as spokesman for the farmers and the Dairymen's League. He characterized as "yellow hysteria stirred up by the newspapers" the agitation for cheaper milk in New York City.

"We are hearing a lot about starving babies in New York City," said Mr. Brown, with a sneer. "If there are any starving babies there it is the result of mothers failing to buy milk for them because they have been persuaded by the newspapers that milk costs too much. Milk does not cost too much; it is the cheapest food on sale anywhere."

The Senate voted, 29 to 22, to bring out the bill permitting New York City to engage in the milk business, but the same motion with reference to the Milk Commission bill was defeated, 22 to 28. Senator Thompson moved for a reconsideration of the vote and for the temporary tabling of that motion, but Senator Loader J. Henry Walters, who was opposed to both bills, insisted on the motion being put to a vote immediately. When this was done the bill was killed beyond revival by a vote of 28 to 22.

Senator Thompson has a third bill which provides for the creation of a State commission with power to fix prices to the consumer, but not the middleman's price to the farmer producer. There is likely to be more votes for this bill than for the Milk Commission bill that was defeated. Mr. Thompson was urged to call up this measure for a vote today, but said he would defer action until some later time.

HELD AS BREAD PROFITERS.

Twenty-three Firms and Persons Indicted in North and South Carolina.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 14.—Twenty-three firms and individuals in North and South Carolina were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury here today, charged with having entered into a conspiracy to increase the price of bread, the alleged agreement having been made in a meeting held here on Jan. 8.

The cases are expected to be tried here at a special term of Federal Court in June or July. Conviction carries a fine of $5,000, or two years in the penitentiary, or both.

REPUBLICANS BOLT DAYLIGHT BILL CAUCUS

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—The fate of the Daylight Saving Repeal bill is still in doubt, so far as the action of the Legislature is concerned. Governor Smith, it is asserted, will veto a repeal bill if it should be passed in any form, delaying his veto until after adjournment, so that there cannot be an overriding vote.

Speaker Sweet called a Republican caucus today in an effort to pledge enough votes to insure the passage of the Betts repeal bill, but so many Assemblymen bolted that the result is doubtful, although the proponents of the measure still claim a majority.

Twenty-four Assemblymen from New York City and some up-State members refused to bind themselves to vote for repeal and the Speaker was able only to muster sixty-seven votes for the measure. Seventy-six votes are necessary for passage in the Assembly.

Debate over the measure almost precipitated a fist fight in a conference which preceded the caucus, when one of the New York City representatives rebelled against being "gagged." All the New York City Republican Assemblymen with the exception of Martin Bourke and George N. Jesse refused to abide by the caucus action. Three of the six Erie County Assemblymen also refused to stay on the ground that their constituents wanted daylight saving to remain on the statute books and that they were pledged to vote against a repeal measure.

Legislators generally believed tonight that there is scant chance of the passage of the measure. The third attempt to force the repeal bill through in the lower house will be made by Assemblyman Betts on next Tuesday, it having already been passed in the Senate.

Providence Saves Daylight.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 14.—The City Council passed today without a dissenting vote an ordinance providing for daylight saving, effective from April 25 to Oct. 31. Mayor Gainer said he would approve it. The bill before the Legislature providing for daylight saving throughout the State is still in the hands of the Senate Committee on Special Legislation. It was passed by the House.

MAYOR TIRED OF TOWN.

Sayreville Executive Wants to Go to "United States," He Says.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., April 14.—Mayor John J. Quade of Sayreville wants to leave that place for the "United States." Following more than a year of constant bickering with the Borough Council, over which he presides, Mayor Quaid inserted the following advertisement today in a local paper.

"I am offering all my property located in Sayreville, N. J., at sacrifice. Same must be sold (subject to Sayreville preferred purchaser), as owner desires to move to the United States of America. Call or address John J. Quaid, Sayreville, N. J."

Mayor Quaid is a Democrat. His party controls the Borough Council by 4 to 2, but he has been at odds with that body throughout his term.

Jury Frees B. R. T. Official of Responsibility for Wreck.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 14.—John J. Dempsey, formerly Vice President of the B. R. T., was acquitted by a jury in the Supreme Court here today on an indictment charging him with manslaughter in connection with the death of Thimas Gilfeather in the Malbone Street, Brooklyn, tunnel wreck on the night of Nov. 1, 1918. The jury in the first trial failed to agree on a verdict.

Justice Townsend Scudder took under advisement the motion of Stephen C. Baldwin, counsel for Dempsey, for the dismissal of a similar indictment against Dempsey in connection with the death of John Erskine Porter in the wreck. Thomas F. Elewitt, Division Superintendent of the B. R. T.; William S. Menden, Chief Engineer, and Anthony Luciano, motorman of the wrecked train, were acquitted on manslaughter indictments after trial here. The court instructed Menden's acquittal before the case went to the jury.

A CO-OPERATIVE PURCHASE.

Park Avenue Apartment House Bought by Tenants.

William J. Taylor, as President of the 823 Park Avenue Company, has sold through the Payson McL. Merrill Company 823 Park Avenue, a modern twelve and one-half story apartment building, on a plot 60 by one-half block, adjoining the northeast corner of Seventy-fifth Street. The property has been purchased by a syndicate composed about equally of some of the present tenants and outside stockholders, who will occupy apartments. The building was erected by the William J. Taylor Construction Company about eight years ago and contains twelve duplex apartments of twelve rooms and four baths each. Among those now occupying apartments in the building are Joseph W. Welsh, Clarence M. Woolley, Orson D. Munn, Geraldyn L. Redmond and Cecil Barrett.

The Payson McL. Merrill Company also sold 161 East Thirty-sixth Street, a four-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 20 by one-half block, for Albert S. Hubbard to Hugh E. O'Reilly. This is the eighth dwelling sold by the same brokers in the Murray Hill section during the last month.

Commercial Leases.

Edward J. Hogan has leased for a long term for the Trustees of Columbia University the four-story loft building at 72 Murray Street, to the Anchor Packing Company of Pennsylvania.

The Klein Construction Company leased a garage, 200 by 100, at 136th Street and Madison Avenue, for ten years, at an aggregate rental of $150,000. The deal was transacted through the Harris Exchange.

$1,000,000 Estate Sold.

Daniel G. Reid has sold his estate at Irvington-on-Hudson to William Mitchell of the firm of Gwathmey & Co. of New York. This property, known as Richmond Terrace, cost over a million dollars, and is one of the most beautiful on the Hudson River. The house, of Tudor architecture, is built of stone and granite, and contains about thirty rooms, all of which are elaborately furnished. An interesting feature is the theatre and ballroom on the first floor. The twenty acres of land abound in trees and shrubbery, and are attractively landscaped, containing a flower garden, lake and brook. Kenneth, Ives & Co. negotiated the transaction.

Lexington Avenue Resale.

V. E. M. Boyajian is the purchaser of 190 and 188 Lexington Avenue, forming the northwest corner of Thirty-first Street, on a plot 42 by 47.10, recently reported sold by T. Foster Gaines of Gaines, Van Nostrand & Morrison. A resale has been negotiated by the same brokers.

Broome Street Resale.

STRIKES HOLD UP CONSTRUCTION WORK

MATERIAL PRICES CLIMBING

Recent Grant of $10 a Day to Bricklayers Causes Dissatisfaction Among Other Building Artisans.

Various causes were ascribed during the week to the indifference that building construction interests seem to have in the matter of promptly relieving the house and general commercial space shortage in this vicinity.

To those who have been hoping for speedy relief of the renting situation in this market it is becoming apparent that there will be little change in the present situation this year. In an effort to arrive at a basis from which to gage the market, building material manufacturers' agents and building equipment supply men in sending their reports back to their companies make almost unanimous references to labor difficulties as being the chief cause of the delay.

The foremost retardant to a general building construction program was reported by one New York representative to his house to be that of the fight being waged by the Iron Erectors' League against the domination of their work by union labor.

These steel erectors are being supported in their contention, according to correct reports, by the United States Steel Corporation, and while the unions are holding out in their contention not to work on these operations, the structural steel fabricating plant capacity of the country is rushing on toward 100 per cent. booking.

Railroad congestion, strikes, &c., are also holding up supplies of other building materials into this market so that most of the building material dealers are running low on supplies. This applies to lime, cement, plaster, wire and metal lath, sand, gravel and wool lath.

The recent grant of a $10 a day to bricklayers is having a disturbing effect upon other building artisans who recently arranged an agreement upon an $8 wage base for this year, and possibly next. There is talk of reopening this agreement.

It is for this reason that owners are holding back, according to the report made by the local manager of a Western concern planning the erection of a big branch mill here in the East.

Leading instructions are less receptive on building loan proposals pending the action of the State Legislature in removing the tax on mortgages. There is a strike of the glaziers here, and the manufacturers even now declare that they will be unable to much more than meet the present demand for window and plate glass, much less meeting the demand that new construction work already under way will develop by the time the second "fire" of 1920 begins in the Autumn.

The Dow Daily Building Reports estimates that this year's construction record will probably be heavy as far as plan filings and contract awards are concerned, but that the year will close, as far as present indications are concerned, with barely more than 30 per cent. of the total year's building program actually completed.

BUYING FOR OCCUPANCY.

Active Demand for Private Dwellings Throughout Manhattan.

Frederick Zittel & Sons sold for the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, as trustee for the Edson estate, 313 West Seventy-fourth Street, a five-and-a-half story American basement dwelling, with elevator, on lot 25 by 70, to a client of Louis P. Dowdney for alteration. The house was held at $30,000.

Douglas Gibbons & Co. sold for Hugo S. Joseph 154 and 156 East Seventy-eighth Street, two three-story houses, 18.9 by 102.2 each, to buyers who will remodel them into American basement dwellings for their own occupancy.

F. R. Wood & Co., Inc., sold 21 West Eighty-second Street, a four-story and basement high-stoop dwelling, on a lot 20 by 102.2, to Major B. Jablons, Medical Corps, U. S. A., and Dr. Abraham Jablons, for occupancy.

E. F. Bateson purchased the dwellings, on plot 40 by 102.2, at 129 and 131 East Seventy-ninth Street.

Tenants Buy Building.

The seven-story loft building covering the triangular block bounded by Grand, Monroe and Corlears Streets has been purchased by the tenants. Philip Cohen, S. Zimmerman and M. Mals, under the name of the 589 Grand Street, Inc., capitalized at $25,000. The building which has a frontage of 125.3 feet on Grand Street, 110.2 feet on Monroes Street, and 61 feet on Corlears Street, rents for $13,000 and was valued at $100,000. The owner of record is A. Goldberg, Inc.

New Uptown Synagogue.

The Vista Construction Company sold 43 Old Broadway, a three-story building on a lot 25 by 100, to the Chewra Talmud Tora Auhut Mevori, to be used as a synogogue. J. S. Maxwell negotiated the transaction.

THE BROOKLYN MARKET.

Strong Demand for Residential Holdings Features Business.

Newman Leavy sold for the August Liedeman estate the property at the southeast corner of New Utrecht Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street, 183 by 100, to L. Heller.

The Meister Builders, Inc., sold to the Home Affairs Realty Company 419 and 421 Wythe Avenue, two four-story single flats, on a plot 38.6 by 100. A. Ruvolo was the broker.

Charles Partridge sold the two-story and basement brick and stone two-family house 614 St. John's Place, near Franklin Avenue, for Rose V. Wertheimer to a client for occupancy.

The B. F. Knowles Company sold 152 South Second Street, a three-story and basement brick two-family house, plot 19 by 95, for M. Ward to an investor.

The F. C. Sauter Agency sold the three-story and basement dwelling located at 458 Sixth Avenue, between Tenth and Eleventh Streets, for Mildred Del Monte to Harry E. Glissing.

Walter S. Ross and C. C. Cretsinger sold for Catherine Marra the one-family brick house 678 Seventy-sixth Street to a client for occupancy.

The Bulkley & Horton Company sold 726 Elmore Place, between Farragut and Glenwood Roads, a two-story one-family dwelling, on a lot 40 by 100, for Sophie Gifford to a client for investment.

James S. Graham has purchased 200 lots at Harway Avenue and Avenue B, Coney Island. It is the buyer's intention to develop this property with small cottages.

Chinese Merchant Buys Tenement.

P. P. Cappel sold to Chu Fong, a jobber in silks, the five-story tenement with stores, 25 by 84, at 11 Pell Street, abutting the frame building which he now occupies at 10 and 12 Doyer Street. The buyer will occupy a store in the Pell Street building when leases expire in 1922.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

KAYSER, JULIUS—THE PEOPLE OF THE State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to Harry A. Taylor, designated as an executor and named as a legatee and beneficiary in the hereinafter mentioned instrument in writing, bearing date the 14th day of December, 1915; United States Trust Company of New York, designated in said instrument as a testamentary trustee; Edwin S. Bayer, Jr., designated in said instrument as an executor and testamentary trustee; Kayser Girls' Auxiliary, named in said instrument as a legatee and beneficiary, and to Henrietta B. Kayser, Laura K. Hayes and Alice Kayser, the wife and the heirs and next of kin of Julius Kayser, late of the County of New York, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas Edwin S. Bayer, who resides at No. 23 East 70th Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, and Jules S. Bache, who resides at No. 8 East 67th Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, and Julius Kayser, who resides at Avenue No. 148 East 83d Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, have lately applied to the Surrogate's Court of our County of New York to have a certain instrument in writing, bearing date the 14th day of December, 1915, and a certain instrument in writing, bearing date the 19th day of December, 1917, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of said Julius Kayser, who was at the time of his death a resident of No. 18 East 71st Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, in the County of New York, deceased,

Therefore you and each of you are cited to show cause before the Surrogate's Court of our County of New York, at the Hall of Records, in the County of New York, on the 27th day of April, 1920, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why the said will and testament should not be admitted to probate as a will of real and personal property.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. James A. Foley, a Surrogate of our said County of New York, at said county, the 16th day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty.

Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

BEAUX ARTS IN LONG TERM LEASING DEAL

A $3,500,000 RENTAL

New Lessees Plan Addition of Four Stories and May Convert Property for Business Use.

One of the best-known buildings in the Times Square neighborhood passed into new control yesterday in one of the largest midtown leasing transactions of the year. Abraham A. Anderson, the artist, who owns the Beaux Arts Building, at the southeast corner of Sixth Avenue and Fortieth Street, has leased the property to the L. K. Schwartz Company for a term of forty-two years at an aggregate rental which will approximate $3,500,000. The broker in the transaction was Ephraim Bass.

The building, which is twelve stories in height, has an avenue frontage of 60 feet and measures 100 feet on the street, and commands one of the most valuable sites in the central section, facing, as it does, Bryant Park, overlooking Forty-second Street and the New York Public Library. The ground floor and basement have been occupied for years by the Café des Beaux Arts restaurant, made famous by Bustanoby Brothers. The building houses the studios of a number of America's best-known artists, including Harrison Fisher, J. C. Leyendecker and Carl Melchers. The structure, originally designed for the occupancy of artists, contains many of the most elaborately designed studios in the city.

Announcement is made by the new lessees that they contemplate the addition of four more stories to the building, with a possibility that the entire property will be converted for office and business use. If this project is undertaken it will necessitate the removal of the studio holders to other quarters, no small matter, in view of the large number of tenants now housed in it.

The L. K. Schwarts Company, consisting of Louis K. Schwartz, President; Charles M. Kohn, Vice President and Hugo Nathan, Treasurer, has been prominently identified with a number of deals in the midtown district within recent months. The company recently leased from Edward W. Browning, for a long term, at a total rental of about $3,000,000, the thirty-story World's Tower Building, at 110 West Fortieth Street, which it is now operating.

On Long Island.

John F. Scott sold for the estate of Mrs. Russell Sage the country place formerly occupied by her at Lawrence, L. I. The property is located on Ocean Avenue and contains two acres of upland and three acres in an ornamental lake, together with a large residence and garage. The purchaser is Mrs. Chauncey Marshall, who will occupy it as her Summer home.

Herman Frankfort sold at Lawrence for Louis Wormser to Adolph Elsas his home on the southerly side of Central Avenue, between Lawrence Avenue and the Rockaway Turnpike. The property covers about an acre of land and was held for $60,000. The purchaser will occupy.

Bronx Deals.

J. Clarence Davies sold to Rebecca Hanover 871 East 162d Street, a two-story frame two-family house, on a lot 22 by 95.

John P. Pendergrast sold for Christian Beck the four-story flat, with stores, 25 by 100, at 356 East 137th Street to Margaret Chrinian; also for James C. Green the dwelling, 19.2 by 100, at 344 East 135th Street to Mary Moore, and for the Brimmer Realty the three-family house, 21 by 80, at 118 Cypress Avenue, to Mrs. Fauti.

Pelham Golf Club Buys.

Harris B. Fisher sold to the Pelham Leasing Corporation the acreage known as "Bonnie Brae," on the Boston Post Road, and lying partly in the village of Pelham Manor and the city of New Rochelle, Westchester County, N. Y. The corporation has acquired the property for the Pelham Golf and Country Club, recently organized, and will shortly exercise its options on the remainder of the tract necessary for the links.

APARTMENT HOUSE DEALS.

Picken Court, on Riverside Drive Corner, Is Resold.

Considerable interest in apartment houses was revived yesterday, with a number of operators figuring as sellers. Samuel Barkin reports the resale to the Gillette Realty Company of Picken Court, a ten-story apartment house at the south corner of Riverside Drive and 148th Street, on a plot 100 by 108. It is laid out in suites of from four to eight rooms and rents for about $65,000 annually. The property was held at $550,000.

The Esther Realty Company sold the Chiselhurst, a six-story apartment house at 455 Fort Washington Avenue, on a plot 82.2 by 106.6, irregular, adjoining the southwest corner of 181st Street.

I. Portman, operator, has resold to the Bardale Realty Company the five-story apartment house at 300 to 304 Haven Avenue, on a plot 75 by 120, held at $150,000 and renting for about $25,000. Spotts & Starr, Inc., were the brokers.

B. W. Smith, Inc., sold for the Revonoc Realty Company to the Progressive Commercial Association the six-story apartment house at the southwest corner of Seventh Avenue and 145th Street, containing fifty apartments and twelve stores, on a plot 80 by 100. The property was sold for $180,000.

Folsom Brothers sold for Jacob Burstein 104 West Eighty-third Street, a five-story flat, 25 by 100, to Joseph Goldgraben.

Samuel H. Martin sold for Sara Butler Nealley the five-story apartment house at 111 West Sixty-eighth Street to a client who will alter into small apartments.

Harris, Vought & Co. sold for Harriet A. Reinig the four-story flat, on a lot 25 by 102.2, at 174 East Eightieth Street to a client who it is understood will make substantial alterations.

Lloyd Winthrop Company sold for Agnes R. Boyd to Roth-Braun Realty Company 25 West Eighty-fourth Street, a five-story apartment house, on plot 32 by 100, renting for $8,000 and held at $60,000.

Meister Builders, Inc., purchased from the East River Savings Institute the southwest corner of Second Avenue and 117th Street, a six-story new-law apartment house with four stores on a plot 50 by 58.5, and held at $50,000.

David Lion bought from a client of John Fink the four-story building 1,481-1,483 Park Avenue, northeast corner of 108th Street, on plot 74 by 27.

Leonard Weill sold 229 and 231 West 143d Street, two five-story flats, 50 by 100, to John Diamond. Mr. Weill also sold 182 Chrystie Street, a six-story tenement, 25 by 100, to Max Silver. Louis Bernstein negotiated the latter deal.

Estate Sales Today.

A number of important properties are scheduled to be sold today at executors' sales in the Real Estate Exchange, 14 Vesey Street, by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, for the estates of the late Commissioner Jesse W. Powers and the late Mary E. Jones. For the Powers estate Mr. Day will sell the store and office buildings, occupying the entire block front on the east side of Fifth Avenue, from 125th to 126th Street; also the dwellings at 34 Mount Morris Park West and the warehouse at 166 to 172 East 124th Street.

The Jones estate holdings include the valuable properties at 488, 490 and 506 Sixth Avenue, near Thirtieth Street; also 54 West Thirty-first Street, 2,072-2,780 Third Avenue, a store taxpayer, and a two-story motion picture theatre; also 317 and 319 West Fifty-ninth Street, a large vacant plot, near Columbus Circle.

In Westchester County.

Mrs. George A. Just has sold a large residence at Greenacres, Scarsdale, to a New York business man. The sale was made through Maxwell Smith, who also reports the sale of a plot on Walworth Avenue, Scarsdale, overlooking Bronx Parkway, to Therne Baker of Cincinnati, Ohio, who will immediately break ground for the erection of a brick dwelling for occupancy.

The residence of Mrs. Grace Deverill on Ridgewood Terrace, Chappaqua, has been sold by George Howe, who also sold the residence of Mrs. Agnes S. Hollsmark, at 10 Lenox Avenue, White Plains, to Mrs. Stephanie E. Knapp of New York City.

Queens Borough Transactions.

Cecil B. Ruskay has purchased, as a residence the first house on McNeil Avenue, Far Rockaway, from Henry M. Toch.

NEW BUILDING BRICK.

Made of Cement and Easy to Manufacture.

A new building brick that has recently been introduced in the housing work now going on in London, England, is nearly five times as large as an ordinary brick, but in comparison is much less heavy and as easily handled. The lighter weight results from the hollowing out of the brick to provide air layers. By the shaping of the ends the existence of joints running all the way through a wall is avoided.

The brick is, as a rule, made of one part of cement and four parts sand by simple hand machinery. Three men can make enough bricks in a day to build 400 to 500 square feet of wall. A further economy is effected by the manner of laying the walls, inasmuch as the ends and bottoms of the bricks need only to be dipped in a thin lime mortar mixed with a small amount of cement.

It may be added that slag, clinkers, sand and brick dust, mixed with cement, form suitable materials for these bricks.

Brooklyn Auction Sales.

At the night auction of Brooklyn properties, conducted by the Jere Johnson Jr. Company, interest centred in the sale of the Van Brunt homestead property in the Shore Road and Eighty-sixth Street, adjoining the Crescent Athletic Club. The homestead and twenty-eight extra deep lots brought a total of $83,750. The homestead itself, on a plot 142 by 328, was purchased by W. E. Shuttleworth for $25,750. Mr. Shuttleworth also purchased lots 22 to 28 at $1,450 each.

Two lots on the corner of Eighty-sixth Street and Shore Road brought $3,500 each, and were purchased by J. Cassasa. B. F. Hogan, Andrew Meyer and J. Cassasa purchased lots on Shore Road which brought from $3,000 to $3,500 each. Among the purchasers were T. E. Fearon, Alexandria Stephens, Wilhelm Reinman and A. W. Saydach. Lots on Eighty-sixth Street brought from $1,800 to $2,100 each. The three-story dwelling at 282 Garfield Place was sold for $15,750 to Felice Mancarufo.

New Jersey Hotel Property For Sale At a Sacrifice

Kenvil Hotel

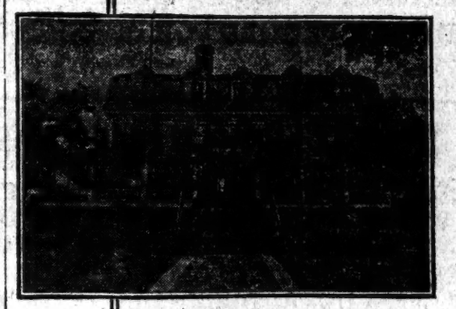
A completely renovated and newly furnished hotel on main tourist road from New York City to Lake Hopatcong. Situated about four miles from Lake Hopatcong and about the same distance from Dover. Fifty yards to trolley and one hundred and fifty yards to railroad station.

Increasing industrial activity argues well for the successful operation of the Kenvil Hotel thru both winter and summer as well as a substantial increase in the value of the property.

It consists of about five acres of land; a well contructed, steam heated, running water, electic lighted, frame hotel building, about 62'x33'; amply porched, containing basement, office, sitting rooms, billiard room, kitchen, laundry, dining room, pantries, 4 servants' rooms and 24 guests' rooms; stable, ice house and fire hose house. Price $20,000.00



Westmoreland Hotel

The Westmoreland Hotel is a well furnished frame building about 73'x88', and without additional expense can be opened for the coming season. A fully equipped hostelry with laundry, provision rooms, boiler and engine room, bar room, pool room, dining room, office, kitchen, living rooms and twenty eight bed rooms. Electric lights, elevator and modern improvements. Generous porch room.

This property is about three acres, and in addition to the hotel includes outbuildings, consisting of ice house, large stable, with sleeping accomodations for servants, garage and several other small buildings. One of the finest summer hotel locations in New Jersey. Price $15,000.00

At 11 A. M. CHARLESTON, S. C., May 14

SALE to be held in CITY HALL PARK, across Meeting Street from St. John Hotel.

We have had consigned to us to sell at PUBLIC AUCTION some EXCEEDINGLY ATTRACTIVE timber, turpentine, phosphate, stock raising, game and farming PROPOSITIONS in TRACTS of FROM 150 TO 13,000 ACRES in the coast section of South Carolina. (One tract in Georgia).

EASY TERMS OF SALE. FREE USE OF AUTOMOBILES to inspect these lands. Sale to be conducted by Matheny Bros., of Columbia, S. C.

THE EASTERN HALF of the ISLE OF PALMS

THE FAR-FAMED SUMMER RESORT. 5 MILES OF ONE OF THE FINEST BEACHES ON THE ATLANTIC COAST. WONDERFUL DEVELOPMENT PROPOSITION. 2,300 ACRES OF LAND. COVERED WITH BEAUTIFUL PALM AND WIDE, SPREADING LIVE OAK TREES. CONSIDERABLE PINE AND CEDAR TIMBER. STOCK RAISING, SPLENDID GAME PRESERVE, WITH DEER, DUCK, FISH, ETC., REACHED FROM CHARLESTON BY FERRYBOAT AND TROLLEY. ALSO 29 OTHER TRACTS AT AUCTION.

We list below for private sale some properties that the owners did not have the nerve to place in the hands of the auctioneer.

A tract of over 60,000 acres in North Carolina, surrounded by a very prosperous community. 200 million feet of pine, hardwood and cypress. If drained and partly developed could be subdivided and sold to the natives. An opportunity for some one to make a killing. Price too low to publish, but lands surrounding bring from $40 to $200 per acre.

One 5,000 acre tract on railroad with 20,000,000 feet timber. In South Carolina.

It is an opportune time to visit this section. Others have made long pilgrimages to see the Tea Farm at Summerville, beautiful Magnolia Gardens,—now in the glory of the azalea and wistaria bloom; Isle of Palms and historic Charleston.

Come at once and inspect the various properties we have listed.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Pressure is low along the northern border from the Great Lakes eastward and over all Western districts. It is relatively high over the Southeastern States and in the region north of Minnesota. Fair weather prevailed generally during the last twenty-four hours east of the Rocky Mountains, while west of the Rocky Mountains the weather was unsettled, with local rains.

The temperature has risen generally over the region between the Rocky Mountains and the Atlantic Coast and it has fallen over the western plateau. There were frosts Wednesday morning in the Middle Atlantic States, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, Arkansas, and the interior of the South Atlantic and Gulf States.

The outlook is for generally fair weather Thursday and Friday in the Atlantic States, while in the East Gulf States, Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the region of the Great Lakes the fair weather Thursday will be followed by cloudy weather and local rains on Friday.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was east of the Mississippi River, except along the northern border.

FORECAST.

| | 1920. | 1919. | | 1920. | 1919. |
| 3 A. M. | 37 | 44 | 4 P. M. | 50 | 58 |
| 6 A. M. | 36 | 41 | 6 P. M. | 50 | 59 |
| 9 A. M. | 39 | 46 | 9 P. M. | 48 | 56 |
| 12 M. | 43 | 51 | 11 P. M. | 46 | 54 |

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 44; for the corresponding date last year it was 50; average for the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 48.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 37; at 8 P. M. it was 49. Maximum temperature, 53 degrees at 4:20 P. M.; minimum, 36 degrees at 6 A. M. Humidity, 52 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 36 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.73 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.83 inches.

HEAD OF SCHOOL AIDS MRS. CROKER

GIVES LIE TO AFFIDAVIT

Special to The New York Times.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 14.—Evidence attacking the credibility of the principal affidavit upon which the case against Mrs. Richard Croker is based was adduced today by the Croker counsel. Most of the attacks on Mrs. Croker, largely by insinuation, are founded upon the affidavit of a Mrs. Mary Adele Vaughn, now of Multnomah, Ore., formerly Miss Case, a teacher of music, who had a studio at 18 East Thirty-first Street, New York City.

Mrs. Vaughn stated that she met Miss Bula Edmonson, now Mrs. Croker, in 1913, just a year before her marriage, and said she gave Miss Edmonson lessons in voice culture for a period of several months, all of which is admitted by the defense. She told of a trip taken by Miss Edmonson into the Adirondacks. She said Miss Edmonson told her the trip was being paid for by a certain man who was mentioned.

Lawyers Get Affidavit.

H. L. Bussey, attorney for the Crokers, today received an affidavit accounting for the trip, made by the Principal of a boys' Summer school in the Adirondacks, and his wife, who assisted him in teaching. He says he employed Miss Edmondson as a teacher at the camp, that she lived at the camp, and was not visited there by any one from outside the school. He continues:

"My wife and I had heard of Miss Edmondson as a lecturer on subjects connected with the Cherokee Indians, and after visiting her in New York decided to engage her services for the instruction of our pupils. She was a gentlewoman in every sense of the word, manifested good taste and good breeding, and was intensely interested in her studies.

"No one could be associated with her as we were without realizing that she was thoroughly conscientious and possessed of the highest sense of honor. We have read in the papers recently stories about her being a Broadway favorite. They are unbelievable. Her character was the reverse of what these stories depict it. She was serious minded, studious and not a seeker after amusement."

Mrs. Croker's lawyer showed today that a detective who recently found it convenient to hurry out of town when he came here to get evidence about Mrs. Croker and made careless remarks concerning her was also the witness to the Vaughn affidavit. The detective who took his place left for the North tonight. Mr. Bussey said tonight:

"We consider the Vaughn affidavit completely discredited, as Mrs. Croker will go on the stand and swear that all the other allegations it makes except that of the acquaintanceship itself are false.

Assails Mrs. Vaughn's Story.

"Mrs. Vaughn states that Mrs. Croker telephoned her from the home of Nathan Straus the day before the wedding and said she was going to make a brilliant match, marrying a man of large fortune. The truth is Mrs. Croker told no one, not even her roommate at school, that she was going to be married. Mrs. Vaughn did call Mrs. Croker on the phone, learning of the marriage through one of the newspapers, and asked as a favor that she be permitted to sing at the wedding. After the ceremony, she did not accompany Mrs. Croker to her dressing room, as alleged, and the conversation Mrs. Vaughn alleges in which Mrs. Croker is said to have promised that she soon would have ample funds for taking care of her old friends, or words to that effect, did not occur.

"As a matter of fact, Mrs. Vaughn rushed down the steps when the Crokers were leaving, and what she did say to Mrs. Croker was that she would like her influence with a lady of Mr. Croker's acquaintance, whom she mentioned, in getting an engagement to appear professionally at one of her entertainments. She never got it."

JOHNSON AFTER MARYLAND.

Keeps the Hair in Curl

You've never seen anything work greater wonders for straight, lank, unruly hair than plain liquid silmerine. It keeps the hair in curl for long time—produces such beautifully lustrous, natural-looking curls and waves. And no one need hesitate to use it, for it is so easily applied with a brush and is so perfectly harmless. It leaves no greasy, sticky or streaky trace. The curliness can be acquired in three hours, though many prefer to apply the liquid at bedtime, before putting the hair in curlers. When the hair is combed out it is delightfully soft and fluffy.

Anyone who will get a bottle of liquid silmerine from the druggist and follow the accompanying directions will have a most agreeable surprise. The liquid is also valued as a splendid dressing for the hair.
